Better Strike News.
Mrs. Manley's Pet Hen.
How Eve Was Made.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WASHINGTON SUPPLIES good news. The President is in hopes the threatened strike in the automobile industry will be avoided. It would check prosperity's return, endanger the livelihood of two million mechanics and other workers, besides compelling Americans to ride in "the same old car," so distasteful to youth.

The President talks to both sides, heads of companies that own the industry, leaders of men that work in the factories. The Attorney General and General Johnson, after seeing the President, reported:

"The situation looks good."

MRS. IDA MANLEY, of Hagerstown, Md., observed with concern that her pet hen was depressed, would not eat, and, with Mrs. Manley, to worry is to act. She laid the hen on her back, cut open the crop with a razor blade, fished around with a buttonhook, brought out a rubber band that had caused the trouble, sewed the cut up with a needle and thread. The hen seemed grateful, and ate.

Prominent income tax payers in the United States know exactly how that hen felt. And their plight is sadder; nobody sews them up; the exploring goes on.

A WESTERN gentleman wants a divorce because his wife "is always fault-finding, and gives extravagant tips to waiters, bribing flunkies to bow and scrape for her." Men have constantly complained about women. Thus you read in the ancient Jewish writing, "Midrash:"

"Eve was not created from the head of Adam, lest she should be vain, nor from his eyes, lest she should be wanton, nor from his mouth, lest she should be given to gossiping, nor from his ears, lest she should be an eavesdropper, nor from his hands, lest she should be meddlesome, nor from his feet, lest she should be a gadabout, nor from his heart, lest she should be jealous. She was drawn from man's rib, which is a hidden part, so that she might be modest and retiring. And yet, notwithstanding all the precautions taken by the Creator, woman has all the faults God wished to guard her against."

SOME DAY, women will write their own "Midrash," pointing out some things about man, including the fact that the Lord, appropriately, made him out of mud, an origin that often comes out in his character. Women have had too little to do with the important writings.

In Montesquieu's "Persian Letters," he allows the favorite in a Mohammedan prince's harem to create her own Mohammedan heaven. She makes it quite different from Mohammed's idea. Husbands are kept out.

STANDING TWENTY years ago at the foot of the Andes in South America, looking at a lone condor flying above the highest peak, you might have said:

"That realm of the air will be his forever."

Had anybody suggested that a woman would soon fly over those mountains, higher than any condor ever went, you would have smiled, pityingly.

Miss Laura Ingalls, of New York, has just flown over the Andes alone, looking down on the dark backs of the surprised condors, not up at their white underside. And we take that for granted, only four lines in the newspaper about it. Two other women, one French and one German, were ahead of Miss Ingalls.

It is desirable to have a baby with a face like a red apple, hair like curled gold. But don't lose interest in your little thin baby, with big eyes and small neck. The greatest men have been delicate babies, hard to keep alive. A baby with a brain abnormally developed needs all his blood supply to take care of that brain, hasn't enough left for his little stomach and digestion. Voltaire would have died in his sickly babyhood half a dozen times but for the ceaseless care of a kind-hearted French priest, friend of his father and mother.

GREEN, THE BRILLIANT historian, whose history of civilization in Europe is one of the best books ever written; Ruskin, as true a friend as mankind ever had, were all extremely delicate in youth.

The Indians used to kill their delicate children, keeping only the husky samples. That is one reason why they remained savages and let the Whites dispose of them so easily. They would not give the best brains born in their tribes a chance to develop and teach them self-protection. One of our great scientists, Steinmetz, was a hunchback.

The Indians would have killed him—also our present immigration laws, as stupid as the red Indians, would keep out any future Steinmetz—he was an immigrant.

RECENTLY, STALIN, ruler of Soviet Russia, lost his wife under sad and mysterious circumstances. She was said to have been victim of a poison plot from which she saved her husband Vienna reports that Stalin, to whom his wife left two children, wanted to adopt a young Austrian boy, but the mother refused.

She may have refused for that boy an opportunity to sit on the throne of the Czars. If Stalin should change his mind about government, and make himself Czar instead of Dictator, as he probably could do, (Napoleon first, Napoleon third and

Seek to Push U. S. Into Communism, Educator Says

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Congressional hearings on revised legislation for stock exchange regulation disclosed today full support by the Federal Reserve Board and produced statements that the Roosevelt "brain trusters" seek to impede business recovery in order to push the nation into Communism.

Eugene Black, governor of the Reserve Board, told the Senate Banking Committee the redrafted Fletcher-Rayburn bill was "workable, right in principle and will accomplish the purpose of regulating the exchanges."

Before the House Interstate Commerce Committee, a letter purporting to have been written by Dr. William A. Wirt, head of the Gary (Ind.) school system, was read, saying some of the "brain trusters," who were not identified, had informed him of the plan.

The letter said the most surprising statement made to him was:

"We believe that we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of the revolution."

James H. Rand, Jr., chairman of the Committee for the Nation, read this letter. In response to questions as to the identity of the "brain trusters" he did not name them, but said he thought they were generally known.

There were demands that Wirt be summoned to testify, but no decision was reached.

JANITRESS WINS RACE RICHES

Bradford Engineer, Maid Here, Share Irish Sweepstakes

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Because her husband makes good hasenpfeffer, Mrs. "Maggie" Meringer won $150,000 today in the Irish Hospital Grand National Sweepstakes.

Mrs. Meringer is janitress of an apartment house in Queens, and she held a ticket on Golden Miller, the horse that won the race.

He made such fine hasenpfeffer for a patron in his restaurant that the man gave him two tickets for the sweepstakes and wished him luck.

CHRISTMAS GIFT

That was last fall. Christmas came, and Meringer remembered the tickets he'd been carrying around in his pocket.

He gave them to his wife for Christmas, plus $5, "because I wasn't sure the tickets were any good."

This was a happy day, too, for Mrs. Laura Anderson, a 52-year-old widow in Brooklyn, who held a ticket on Delaneige bringing $75,000.

The two women who won five and six-figure prizes both said they "could use it."

But nowhere was there a bigger celebration than in Woodside, Queens, on the street of the Meringer home.

HONOR "MAGGIE"

Mrs. Meringer is 38. The question today was, "Shall we put the children through college or take a trip?"

They decided to do both. The trip will be to Austria, where their relatives live.

They have a son, William, Jr., 18, who will be graduated this year from a Brooklyn high school, and a daughter, Margaret, 11.

Bradford Engineer Holds $75,000 Ticket

BRADFORD, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—J. T. Burton, civil engineer, is very happy and much pleased, but just now he doesn't know what he is going to do with $75,000 dumped into his lap today.

PASTOR DIES IN AUTO PLUNGE

Runaway Machine Drops 40 Feet On Street Car

A 40-foot fall when his runaway automobile crashed through a guard fence and plunged down onto the front end of a Castle Shannon stretcar, near the Boggs siding, South Hills, carried a Negro pastor to his death today.

The minister, identified by his papers as the Rev. Tony Jackson Askew, 55, presiding elder of the Scranton district, African M. E. Church, saw his car break loose on the Sylvania avenue hill, Mt. Washington, according to police.

Too late, he jumped on the running board trying to reach the brakes.

The streetcar, which received a glancing blow from the falling car, was only slightly damaged. Two passengers received treatment for minor injuries. They are Charles F. Schewring, of 103 Knox avenue, and Thomas Delaney, of 3425 Meadowcraft avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

GEN. JOHNSON TALKS WITH WORKERS

Roosevelt Again Ready To Take Hand in Labor Dispute

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Definite proposals from the administration for settlement of the automobile strike situation were promised labor union leaders at a conference today with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—In another move to prevent the threatened automobile workers' strike, the leaders of the unions were summoned to a conference this afternoon with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

At this meeting, the labor leaders expected to hear some definite word from the administration, but had no assurances as to what was planned.

During the morning, Johnson conferred with the automobile manufacturers, but both sides kept strict silence as to the results.

President Roosevelt was ready to receive either the manufacturers or employes, if that became desirable, and was especially interested in whatever position the manufacturers would take on his plans.

DEADLINE AT HAND

There was a growing feeling that today had definitely become the deadline for negotiations.

The manufacturers were eager to return to Detroit and the union leaders were having increasing difficulty convincing some groups of their followers at home that action had to be delayed further.

A feeling that President Roosevelt was siding with them in their controversy with the manufacturers was evidenced by labor leaders here.

They sent telegrams back home expressing "elation" and confidence that President Roosevelt "will see us through." The strike was being held in abeyance pending the outcome of the negotiations.

The attitude of the labor men was clear. Spokesmen here felt that only one course could avert the strike.

That course, they indicated, was a pronouncement by the Chief Executive that full observance of the industrial law required that elections be held to determine

Socially and industrially prominent Edwin H. Fisher, of 6561 Darlington road, was made the defendant in a divorce action brought today by his wife.

Mr. Fisher, vice president, treasurer and director of the Fisher Scientific Company, is a prominent club member and his wife, the former Elizabeth Walden, is well known socially.

The Fishers have maintained a summer home, Sachem Head, at Guilford, Conn. They are both residing at the Darlington road address, according to the divorce papers.

Rout Bandits With Gas In Holdup

International News Service.

STRUTHERS, O., March 23.—Five bandits armed with machine guns, sawed off shotguns and revolvers held up the Struthers branch of the Union National Bank of Youngstown today and escaped with about $200.

Ben Diefenderfer, manager of the bank, set off a tear gas discharge when he complied with the gunmen's orders to lie on the floor and thereby prevented the robbers from making a larger haul.

In their haste to escape, the bandits dropped a bag into which they had stuffed $1,700 in cash. This was recovered.

Police said the robbery apparently had been designed to snatch a payroll of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company of over $10,000.

The quartet held more than 50 customers of the institution at bay.

Scooping up money from cash drawers, the bandits were surprised by a tear gas attack used in place of a burglar alarm system in the bank. Struggling, the four armed men sprang to the running board of the "get-away" car.

CHICAGO THUGS IN N. Y. STRIKE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Mayor LaGuardia today charged that Chicago thugs had had a hand in the taxi strike rioting which last night tied up traffic in the theatrical district and led to wild scenes of rioting in which many were injured.

The Mayor sounded a warning that the "importation of Chicago gangsters" will not be permitted and inferred that this had already been done. He declared that he will not tolerate violence or racketeering by either side.

New York today resembled an armed camp as scores of mounted and foot patrolmen marched on the lookout for further violence in the strike of 5,000 taxicab drivers.

Police were fearful that the next 24 hours would bring a repetition of the outbursts yesterday which were described as the worst riots in New York's history.

'I'm Re-born Man,' Says Hex Slayer

'Free of Spell,' Youth Talks Calmly of Death in Chair

POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Down through the centuries has come "hex."

Nineteen years ago, so the natives here relate, Susan Mummey told her husband one morning she had a feeling he would not return. He didn't. He was blown to pieces in an explosion. Stories became superstitious under the influence of hexerai.

Now, police quote Albert Shinskey, 24-year-old Shenandoah taxi driver as saying he feels "like a reborn man" because he killed the woman who had "me hexed."

Saturday night Shinskey "felt strong." Detective Louis Buono quotes him as saying in a signed statement, so he shot Mrs. Mummey in her home at Ringtown.

The mountain youth re-enacted the shooting and was held without bail. He asserted:

"I know I am going to be electrocuted, but I don't care now.

"I have peace."

Shinskey said he was "hexed" eight years ago because he cut across Mrs. Mummey's property to go fishing. He explained:

"One day she caught me with her eyes. It felt as though someone had me by the throat. I ran around and around, trying to shake off the grip. I couldn't do it."

It is the first time hexerai has clashed seriously with the law in Schuylkill County for many years

Wheat Brokers 'Strike,' Protest Dull Business

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—A brief walkout of brokers halted action today in the wheat pit of the Chicago Board of Trade for the first time since the World War. It was a gesture of dissatisfaction over scarcity of business.

All the wheat brokers temporarily deserted the trading arena and sauntered about the floor of the exchange.

Absence of shouted offers and bids brought comparative calm in the 100-foot high room as trade was not active in the other pits. During the World War, when government control of wheat price made trade virtually useless, cobwebs grew in the wheat pit.

Much of the present curtailment of grain trading is attributed to federal taxes, five times as large as formerly were assessed on grain transfers.

WHITE HOUSE ACTION TO SPEED MAILS TO PRIVATE LINES

MAY JUMP GUN ON LEGISLATION BY CONGRESS

Cummings Drops Hint After Parley; Army To Enlarge Service

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—A revised airmail bill introduced in the Senate today by administration men would bar from bidding on new contracts every company which had a representative at the now famous 1930 Washington conference of air mail operators, or at any other meeting held—it says—"for the purpose of rearranging the air mail map of the United States."

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—The administration may jump the gun on Congress by doing something toward restoring the air mail to private operators before the pending air mail legislation is enacted.

Attorney General Cummings dropped a hint along this line as he left a White House conference with Postoffice and Commerce Department officials.

President Roosevelt is known to have some air mail action in mind. A decision may be made before his planned departure for a fishing trip in Southern waters next week.

Whatever is done may have some connection with a reply promised by Postmaster General Farley within the next few days to the requests of air line operators for a hearing on the cancellation of their air mail contracts.

ARMY AWAITS PLANES

Meanwhile, Postoffice Department officials said large scale resumption of air mail service by the Army awaited delivery of a number of new bombing planes, each capable of carrying 2,000 pounds of mail.

The department said military authorities planned to use these bombers on the heavier routes.

The Army is now flying the mail on eight runs and it is expected one of the first additions to this service will be the Chicago-St. Paul route.

Somewhat revised bills for returning the air mail permanently to private companies are expected to be reported out next week by both the Senate and the House Postoffice committees. Both have concluded hearings.

From behind the committee doors have come indications that the administration would like to stick to its plan for having companies holding canceled contracts reorganize before being allowed to bid for new ones. It desires also a divorce of the new bidders from holding companies and interlocking directorates.

Plane Designers Invited To Army Aviation Probe

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—All of the nation's airplane designers got a wide-open invitation today to tell a House committee how they would improve Army aviation.

A considerable response was expected. Several aeronautical designers have asserted flatly they could improve upon the types of ships used by the Air Corps, which has been much criticized since it started flying the mails.

Chairman Rogers, of the House Military Affairs subcommittee, which has been investigating the Army, sent out invitations for the conferences to start here next week.

Specifically he called for experts who wished to "discuss necessary procedure leading up to competitive bidding on design competition."

It was understood that this plan had the approval of Harry H. Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War. The committee decided upon it only after having talked with him in executive session for more than two hours.

Grounds for Divorce? -:- -:- By QUIN HALL

TEXT OF 'BRAIN TRUST' LETTER

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—The letter James H. Rand, Jr., industrialist and chairman of the Committee for the Nation, read today before the House Interstate Commerce Committee in testifying against the Fletcher-Rayburn stock market regulation bill, as coming from Dr. William A. Wirt, of Gary, Ind., founder of the Gary school system, follows:

"This manuscript has not been written for publication. I merely want to make the material herein presented available to a few friends in the hope that it may be of help to them in their own writing. You are welcome to use any or all of it in any way you see fit.

"The fundamental trouble with the brain trusters is that they start with a false assumption. They insist that the America of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln must first be destroyed and then on the ruins they will reconstruct an America after their own pattern.

"They do not know that the America of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln has been the 'New Deal' and that during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries we have been making great social progress. The common man is getting his place in the sun. Why try to put him back into the dark ages?

"Last summer I asked some of the individuals in this group what their concrete plan was for bringing on the proposed overthrow of the established American social order.

"I was told that they believed that by thwarting our then evident recovery they would be able to prolong the country's destitution until they had demonstrated to the American people that the government must operate industry and commerce.

"I was told that the government must operate industry and commerce. I was told that, of course, commercial banks could not make long-time capital loans and that they would be able to destroy, by propaganda, the other institutions that had been making our capital loans. Then we can push Uncle Sam into the position where he must make these capital loans. And, of course, when Uncle Sam becomes our financier he must also follow his money with control and management.

"The most surprising statement made to me was the following: 'We believe that we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape from it. We believe that we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution.'

"When I asked why the President would not see through this scheme, they replied: 'We are on the inside. We can control the avenues of influence. We can make the President believe that he is making decisions for himself.'

"They said, 'A leader must appear to be a strong man of action. He must make decisions and many times make them quickly, whether good or bad. Soon he will feel a superhuman flow of power from the flow of the decisions themselves—good or bad. Eventually he can be easily displaced because of his bad decisions. With Mr. Roosevelt's background we do not expect him to see this revolution through.'

"They said that such individuals can be induced to kindle the fires of revolution. But strong men must take their place when the country is once engulfed in flames.

"I asked how they would explain to the American people why their plans for retarding the recovery were not restoring recovery. 'Oh,' they said, 'that would be easy.' All that they would need to do would be to point the finger of scorn at the traitorous opposition. These traitors in the imaginary war against the depression would be made the goats. And the American people would agree that they, the brain trusters, should be more firm in dealing with the opposition."

"Thus, they, the brain trusters, would soon be able to use the police power of the government and 'crack down' on the opposition with a big stick, in the background.

"I was frankly told that I underestimated the power of propaganda. That, since the World War, propaganda had been developed into a science. That they could make the newspapers and magazines beg for mercy by threatening to take away such of their advertising by a measure to compel only the unvarnished truth in advertising. That they could make the financiers be good by showing up at public investigations the crooks in the game. And that the power of public investigation in their own hands alone would make the cold chills run up and down the spines of the other business leaders and politicians—honest men as well as crooks.

"They were sure that they could depend upon the psychology of empty stomachs and they would keep them empty. The masses would soon agree that anything should be done rather than nothing. Any escape from present miseries would be welcome even though it should turn out to be another misery.

"They were sure that the leaders of industry and labor could be kept quiet by the hope of getting their own share of the government doles in the form of loans, and contracts for material and labor — provided they were subservient.

"They were sure that the colleges and schools could be kept in line by the hope of federal aid until the many new dealers in the schools and colleges had control of them.

"They were sure that their propaganda could inflame the masses against the old social order and the honest men as well as the crooks that represent that order.

"I asked what they would do when the government could no longer dole out relief in the grand manner. By that time, it was answered, the oft-repeated exhortation to industry and commerce to make jobs out of confidence and to produce goods and pay wages out of psychology, together with their other propaganda, would have won the people to the idea that the only way out was for government itself to operate industry and commerce.

"They were certain that they did not want to operate agriculture for a long time. But the farmers could be won by doles to support government operation of industry and commerce. Farmers would be delighted to get their hands in the public trough for once in the history of the country. The farmers would be one with the masses—united for a redistribution of the wealth of the other fellow. All that they would need to do with the opposition would be to ask, 'Well, what is your plan?'"

BEACH YIELDS SLAIN WOMAN

International News Service.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 23.—The body of a woman who had apparently been slain and left at the ocean's edge in a crude attempt to simulate suicide was found today near the end of the Mission Beach Pier, three miles from the resort suburb of Ocean Beach.

There were no identifying marks. Over one ear was a bruise, and around the waist was tied a pillowslip weighted with metal.

Telltale marks in the sand indicated that a man had dragged the body 150 feet from the seawall to where the waves would crest over her in shallow water.

JUDGE'S RULE TO FREE DRY VIOLATORS

Last Prohibition Law 'Prop' Set Aside By Court

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The last prop of prohibition enforcement was swept aside today by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue in District Supreme Court, who ruled that all persons now serving sentences under the dry law are entitled to their freedom.

Harry T. Johnson, 22 a convicted bootlegger, serving as his own attorney, paved the way for the ruling. He was granted a writ of habeas corpus, freeing him from the District Jail where he was serving a sentence of one year to 18 months for transporting liquor.

In rendering his decision, Justice O'Donoghue said:

"This case presents a novel question. There are no legal precedents and the court is guided only by reason and analogy. I think the people have the right to declare what is their will. I think that the people declared their will in making repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment unconditional.

"I believe that anything consummated prior to December 5, when the Twenty-first Amendment was ratified, stands. But in cases where there is anything remaining, even confinement of a jail or penitentiary, it should be set aside. The petitioner is discharged."

Johnson, last of the bootleggers left in the jail, pleaded that, under the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court, where a judgment of a liquor law conviction had been entered and appeal to a higher court was taken, the judgment was inoperative after repeal, he should be liberated.

RELIEF CHECKS READY TODAY

Overdue pay checks for nearly 1,000 Allegheny County emergency relief workers, totaling about $37,000, were expected here today from Harrisburg, according to George P. Mills, executive director of the county relief board. He said:

"The state headquarters said they were mailing the checks last night. They should arrive here today."

March 15, he said, was the scheduled time to pay the workers, who receive their pay twice a month. Mills described the payroll as always being "somewhat irregular" because the state board is pressed with work. Since November the checks have been arriving late, he said.

Meanwhile, 50 relief workers who have not been paid since the last of February, Mills added, will also get their salary checks in a few days. Field investigators' expense accounts, which amount to $4,500, were also scheduled to arrive with the payroll today, he said.

Burlesque Girls Under Blue Eagle

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—The Blue Eagle today spread its wings over chorus girls in burlesque shows. Under a code approved by Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, they will receive a minimum of $20 a week, to be increased to $22.50 if the company is on the road.

WOODRUFF DIES; CLOSE FRIEND OF PINCHOT

Public Service Official Aide of Taft, T. R.; Wife at Bedside

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Death, striking suddenly, today ended the career of George W. Woodruff, a member of the Public Service Commission and a lifelong friend of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, in whose first administration he was State Attorney General. He was 70.

Woodruff died this morning in the Harrisburg Hospital, where he had been taken Monday with an attack of pleurisy, according to a statement given out then.

His physician, Dr. Jesse Lenker, today announced that death was caused by a blood clot near the heart.

CAPITOL MOURNS

Woodruff's sudden death cast a pall over the Capitol. To hundreds of Capitol Hill employes he was known affectionately as "Uncle George," or "Judge," the latter by virtue of his having served a term as federal district judge in Hawaii.

C. Jay Goodnough, chairman of the Public Service Commission, was deeply touched by Woodruff's sudden death. He said:

"It was a pleasure to have known him and an honor to have served with him."

Mrs. Woodruff was at her husband's side when death came.

CLASSMATE OF PINCHOT

Woodruff, who was a classmate of the Governor's at Yale and was a member of President Theodore Roosevelt's famous "Tennis Cabinet," died just a few months less than two years after his appointment to the commission on July 16, 1931, for a 10-year term. His appointment, however, was never confirmed by the State Senate.

Like his chief, however, he began his public career with the federal government and for five months in 1907 was acting Secretary of the Interior in the cabinet of President Roosevelt. He later served two years as Assistant Attorney General for the Department of the Interior.

DELEGATED BY TAFT

President Taft sent him to Hawaii as federal district judge of the territory in 1909 and 1910.

A native of Dimock, Susquehanna County, Woodruff was born February 22, 1864. After an elementary school education he went to the Mansfield State Teachers' College and then to Yale.

At Yale he first met Gifford Pinchot and formed the friendship that endured through their public careers. While a Yale student, Woodruff achieved a reputation in athletics. He was a member of the football, track and crew squads. In 1890 he coached the University of Pennsylvania eleven in his own "guards back" strategy, which caused a sensation as an offensive drive.

President Signs New Extradition Measure

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—The American government moved another step toward returning accused American citizens, such as Samuel Insull, who have fled the country, when President Roosevelt signed the bill providing for extradition of Americans from any nation in which the United States exercises extra-territorial jurisdiction.

WAGES ADDED TO FOOD PRICE

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Acting to meet persistent complaints of small grocers that competitors were selling certain products at invoice price, without including overhead, Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, today ordered a wage allowance of six per cent to be added to the cost price of food retailers, and two per cent for wholesalers.

The allowance, which will go into effect March 31, was ordered by Johnson in accordance with the wholesale and retail food codes, which forbid sales below cost.

C. W. Smith, administration member of the code authority, who advised the fixing of the allowance, emphasized it would not raise the general level of food prices, but he conceded that in a few "isolated" instances, where dealers had sold products at the flat invoice prices, prices would be increased.

He added, however, that nearly all foods already were being sold at a price to include wage costs.

CHILDREN LEAD STRIKE MARCH

Led by their own children, striking workers from the William Penn Hotel will parade through the downtown business district late today, according to strike leaders.

Plans for the parade were being completed as conferences between the strikers and the hotel management continued this morning at the hotel. Harry Reich, strike organizer, declared the strikers were preparing themselves to march into the hotel tomorrow and take back their jobs by force if settlement was not reached today. The Regional Labor Board has ordered the strike settled by tomorrow.

The parade, for which a police permit has been granted, will start from the strikers' headquarquarters at 522 Court place, go down Fifth avenue, across Liberty avenue and continue to West Park on the North Side.

Informed of his good fortune at his home, Burton said:

"Naturally, I am greatly surprised and there is no use telling you how happy I am about it, but at this time I have no idea whatsoever as to what I am going to do with the money."

There was some mention of the federal government and the income tax.

Maid Here Misses 'Money,' Wins $3,400

Annie Downie, of course, didn't really own Fortnum—she is a maid to Mrs. Henry Chalfant, of the Schenley Apartments—but she had drawn a ticket on Fortnum in the Irish Sweepstakes.

If Fortnum had finished in the money, Miss Downie would have won from $50,000 to $150,000. As it is, she will collect about $3,400.

Miss Downie, about 40, listened to the results of the race over the radio, but wasn't excited, she said. She won't believe there is any money coming until she receives it. She took a ticket on the Irish Sweepstakes, but she's Scotch.

BRITTEN FLAYS FOES OF NAVY

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Attacking advocates of unpreparedness who are opposing the naval reconstruction program, Representative Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, in a statement today said:

"The time has once more arrived for a thorough congressional investigation of all these self-styled peace organizations whose principal efforts appear to be the weakening of the national defense of our country while at the time aiming to force us into the League of Nations and its creature, the World Court.

"I am sure that an investigation will disclose British, French and Russian propaganda in the United States, not only for our participation in the League of Nations, but also for American disarmament while the balance of the world's most powerful nations are arming to the teeth."

PROTEGE SEEKS SHARE

Fighting both Muriel McCormick and the opposing Rockefeller clan is Edwin A. Kreen, architect-protege of the late Mrs. McCormick, who seeks five-twelfths of a $3,000,000 stock dividend accruing to the disputed trust fund.

Fighting the battle in the chambers of Referee Robert M. Marsh of the New York Supreme Court, the American disclosed, are John E. Mack, lawyer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., representing the Rockefellers, and John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britian and one-time candidate for president of the United States, representing Muriel McCormick. Samuel Hirsch, Chicago lawyer, is there for Krenn.

PRINCIPALS ABSENT

None of the principals in the legal entanglement, the newspaper revealed, is in court.

The trust, it was disclosed, was created in 1917. Mrs. McCormick's share was made up of 335,671 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana stock. In 1929, the newspaper said, Mrs. McCormick's income from the trust fund was $1,700,000.

A short time later, the story revealed, Mrs. McCormick gave a committee appointed to handle the trust fund her written revocation of the power to will any part of the trust fund. It is Muriel's contention that the revocation was invalid.

Student Strike Ranks Swelled by 200

At the Ferndale Borough schools the ranks of the strikers, who are protesting the discharge of teachers were swelled to 400.

The schools remained closed at Franklin Borough, officials contending the Easter holiday was the reason. But the students regarded themselves as strikers.

In Conemaugh most of the students returned to their classes, following a mass meeting last night at which citizens gave the young ones a vote of confidence. Their protest against dismissal of Lawrence Derickson, teacher, may bear fruit tonight when they will meet with the School Board.

The Ferndale students are clamoring for contracts for 30 teachers. School officials explained that the teachers have not been rehired for next school year because there is some doubt whether 200 tuition students from Somerset County will return.

In Franklin the strikers are demanding that three teachers be rehired.

Former Insurance Head Convicted in Tennessee

Universal Service.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 23.—J. I. Reece, former Tennessee commissioner of banking and insurance, yesterday was found guilty of stealing $100,000 worth of bonds found in his apartment. Attorney General Richard Atkinson had contended to the jury that the bonds were taken to cover up theft of $22,800 from state funds. The allegedly stolen money was said to have been used to finance the election of Gov. McAlister.

Reece confessed he conspired with Paul Davis, Nashville's most prominent banker and brother of Norman Davis, former United States ambassador-at-large and others to steal the state funds. Paul Davis, Vance Alexander, Memphis banker, and A. V. Louthan, power attorney, have been indicted on the strength of Reece's confession and will be tried in June. All have denied the charges.

Reece was freed on bond, pending an appeal.

MARBLE RUINS SEEN FROM AIRPLANE

Malraux and Pilot Reveal Beauty of Desert 'Paris'

PARIS, March 23.—(AP.)—Fierce Arabs are believed by Andre Malraux, French explorer, to be guarding the secrets of the rich lost metropolis of the Queen of Sheba's reign against modern exploration.

Malraux, who with his pilot, Capt. Corniglion Molinier, returned here yesterday, is sure they found the "Paris" of the glamorous Sheba in a cluster of ruined towers and temples on the southwestern edge of the Ruba-El-Khali desert, which he identified as the City of Naith.

The possibility that immensely valuable archaeological treasures—including the tombs of the Queen and her dynasty—lie buried in the sandy waste is seen by Malraux, author and archaeologist. He said:

"The Arab nomads who fired upon our plane when we flew over the city must be driven off before exploration will be possible.

NATIVES HOSTILE

"Further research must await British pacification of the region.

"Until the desert is explored the exact location of the dead city cannot be fixed. We were unable to take the longitude and latitude of the spot which we reached after five hours of flying almost due north from Djibouti, French Somaliland."

The size of the cemetery convinced Malraux he had found Sheba's real metropolis. He continued:

"Sheba seemed to have three provinces. Mareb, previously believed to be the capital of all the great queen's territory, was mereely the provincial capital, I believe, like Mein—another known city."

TELLS OF FLIGHT

The captain described the white marble city over which they flew—a city sought for centuries.

He related:

"We left Djibouti, or base, crossed the Red Sea and flew over Yemen.

"Soon we saw thousands of tombs that dot the Valley of Kings. At the edge of the great Ruba-El-Khali Desert, an extraordinary white city loomed up on the dark heights streaked with ancient streams of lava.

"We were above the city of the Queen of Sheba—a storied capital abandoned centuries ago and probably visited only from time to time by wandering Bedouins, some of whom we saw.

"These Bedouins gave us a bad reception. We were greeted with rifle shots. There could be no thought of landing."

PLOT TO SLAY PREMIER BARED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 23.—(AP.)—Plans to assassinate Premier George Tatarescue and other government leaders were declared by police to have been revealed today.

The revelation was made, authorities said, by the arrest of Prof. Gomoju, one of the most prominent surgeons in Rumania and a member of the national organization, "Kultur Ex-patria," which is strongly sympathizing with the Fascist Iron Guard.

The arrest caused a sensation in view of the fact that the trial of those charged with the slaying of the late Premier Ion Duca is now in progress and also because of the social standing of Prof. Gomoju.

Beamish Demands Vote Device Report

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(INS.)—Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish today asked Allegheny County Commissioners to inform him of the status of the voting machine situation in Allegheny County.

SEEK GUNMAN WITH SPATS

A nattily-dressed gunman who held up the attendant of the Gulf Refining Company service station at Liberty avenue and Grant street last night, was sought by police today.

After asking James Tass, of 527 Lockhart street, attendant, for a map of the state of New York, the man covered him with a revolver and rifled the cash register of $30 and took about $10 from Tass' pocket.

Locking his victim in a small room, the robber then fled into the street.

Tass climbed out a window and telephoned police. He said the thug was well dressed and wore grey spats.

A robber entered a chain store at 4509 Liberty avenue, snatched a $1 bill from the hand of Miss Mary Burns, the clerk, became frightened when she screamed and fled, late yesterday. She had just received the dollar bill from a boy customer.

The bandit escaped in an automobile driven by an accomplice.

Senator Glass' Grin Mystifies Reporters

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS.)—White House reporters changed their description of Senator Carter Glass today to "the genial senator from Virginia."

The former secretary of the Treasury, usually termed "irascible," came out from a conference with the President, grinning and rubbing his hands.

"Never been more pleased in my life," chuckled Glass. Mystified reporters pressed him for an explanation, but he waved his hand, widened his grin and strode away.

TWO IDENTIFIED IN MAIL HOLDUP

Two convicted gunmen were identified in the County Jail today, authorities said, as the two robbers who held up a mail bus near Russelton two years ago and escaped with a registered pouch containing $1,500.

The suspected mail robbers are Dan Walker and Michael Sveditch, who yesterday were sentenced to two to six months for carrying concealed weapons.

Postal Inspector L. C. Kennedy disclosed that the two men had been pointed out from a group of 12 as the alleged mail bandits. They were identified, Kennedy said, by a former school teacher who was on the bus when it was held up between Cheswick and Curtisville.

COLD AND SNOW TO LINGER HERE

The March lion roared today as a chill east wind accompanied a drop of the mercury to 17.

Light snow began falling this morning to complete a wintry aspect. Observer W. S. Brotzman predicted continued snow and cold with the mercury around 20 tonight.

Temperatures far below normal were reported as far west as the Rockies. A heavy rainstorm centering in Texas moved little over night.

MOORE JEWEL HEARING SET

Judge Edward C. Chalfant, of Orphans Court, today set April 23 for a hearing on efforts to locate a $5,000 pearl stickpin missing from the estate of the late Alexander P. Moore.

Disclosure that the pin was missing was made Wednesday when Attorney Louis Caplan, representing Dr. Albert I. Wise, dentist friend of Moore, to whom the pin was willed, told Judge Chalfant that Wise had not received it.

The Union Trust Company, executor of the estate, admitted having received clothing and other personal effects of Moore after he died in Los Angeles in 1930, but said that the stickpin was not among these things or other assets turned over.

It was said today that efforts to locate the missing pin will not hold up distribution of the estate.

SPY PLOT HUNT SPREADS TO AMERICA

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
Universal Service.

PARIS, March 23.—French judicial authorities disclosed that extradition of five persons now in the United States has been requested by Paris authorities in connection with France's international spy ring.

American Department of Justice operatives are now hunting down the persons named in the extradition request. The manhunt is extending through all parts of the United States.

It is also learned that complete plans of the United States Army's 65-mile-per-hour Army tanks, manufactured at Watervliet, N. Y., were discovered when authorities searched the rooms of Mme. Baila Anglard, beautiful Bessarabian student implicated in the spy ring, whose activities have been linked to the military defenses of the American Atlantic coast.

MYSTERY WOMAN SOUGHT

This fact was disclosed by Examining Magistrate Andre Benon, who has grilled Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Switz, Americans who confessed working for the ring.

After spending all yesterday trying to break through the silence of Benjamin Bercovitz, charged with being high in the councils of the ring, Benon described him as a "perfect professional." Bercovitz revealed nothing during hours of questioning, evidently fearing vengeance.

Bercovitz and his wife were named by Mr. and Mrs. Switz as working for the spy organization in the United States and later in Paris.

At the same time, police hunted a mysterious foreign woman whose identity was withheld and who is believed to have lived with the Switzes in London.

French Propaganda Seen In Spy Ring Revelations

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(Universal.)—Division of opinion has arisen in the State Department over the spy ring revelations from Paris, it is learned.

While a majority of department attaches regard the disclosures of the American couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, as of grave consequence to the United States, there is a novel dissenting view.

The skeptical minority discern in the statements of the Paris examining magistrate, Andre Benon, a clever piece of French propaganda, designed to unite British, French and American public opinion against Nazi and Soviet dictatorships.

They deem significant the constant reiteration of the statement that the ring sold British, French and American military secrets to Moscow and Berlin.

French Official Gets Death Threat

PARIS, March 23.—(AP.)—Dr. Henri Queuille, minister of agriculture in the cabinet of Premier Doumergue, reported today that he had been threatened with death—another sensational development in the Stavisky banking case.

He said the threat was made in a midnight telephone call.

Movie Director Weds Dancer in Nevada

'Bing' His Favorite

MORTON DOWNEY AND KAUTZ . . . THEY LIKE BING CROSBY

Mr. Downey, the radio star astage in Pittsburgh, who today told a reporter: "You'd better put this down, too: My favorite radio character is Bing Crosby, because Barbara (Bennett, his wife) says so and she's always right." Of course, Mr. Downey himself sings on the radio—and perhaps he's Mrs. Crosby's favorite singer.

DOWNEY FRETS OVER GIRTH

You can take it from a old railroad man that being a radio artist is not all a bed of roses.

That in plain language is what Morton Downey, radio star appearing with his stage show at the Penn Theater today, has to say after 20 weeks on the "road."

You see, Downey used to work on the railroad before he found out he had a voice that would work for him. And, almost regretfully, he reflects:

"In those days I didn't have to worry about what I ate. Now I've got to take 15 pounds off in order to appear in an English picture called 'Golden Saxophone.' I'm going over to England to make it in a few weeks and if I didn't reduce I'd photograph like a porpoise."

Just to please his wife, the former Barbara Bennett, Downey said:

"You'd better put down that my favorite radio personality is? Bing Crosby, because Barbara says so, and she's always right."

Bing Crosby Cancels Trip After Threats

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(INS.)—Bing Crosby, radio and screen star, today canceled plans for a sailing vacation, because of reports that threats had been overheard to kidnap his 9-months-old son.

HOSTESS TRIES TO END LIFE

A 21-year-old night club hostess was in Homeopathic Hospital today after, police say, she drank a cleaning fluid in her room at 814 Aiken avenue late yesterday. Police said she was despondent because her boy friend broke a date.

The girl, Katherine Stritman, was in her room with a roommate, Myrtle Aiken, 22, also a night club hostess, when she took the fluid, police said. Her condition was given as fair.

FEDERAL MEN TRAIL PARROT BOOTLEGGERS

Isolation of Sick Birds Instead of Death Held Added Peril

The seriousness of the parrot fever outbreak here was increased by the isolation of diseased birds, instead of immediately destroying them, it was stated today by the United States Public Health Service upon the occasion of a visit to Washington by Pittsburgh Health Director Ray P. Moyer.

This does not mean, however, that a wholesale slaughter of pet birds is necessary to stamp out the disease, according to surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming with whom Director Moyer conferred. Only those birds which have actually come in contact with the disease are dangerous to public health, the surgeon general said.

In Pittsburgh, the Bureau of Infectious Diseases was supervising the cleaning up and disinfecting of places where birds suspected of spreading the disease had been kept.

Dr. W. H. Caskey, in the absence of Supt. Philip E. Marks, of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases, gave the W. T. Grant Company a "clean bill of health" following an inspection of the premises where birds had been kept.

All of the birds were disposed of several days ago.

'UNDER CONTROL'

The committee of three physicians named yesterday by the Allegheny County Medical Society to work with the Health Department to combat spread of the disease announced today that the epidemic is "under control."

The statement was signed by Drs. Walter F. Donaldson, W. W. G. Machlachan and I. Hope Alexanader, members of the committee.

The federal government was on the trail of parrot bootleggers said to have shipped into Pittsburgh birds infected with psittacosis, which are believed to have caused at least 10 deaths and approximately 50 cases of illness suspected of being parrot fever.

A federal law makes illegal shipments a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $300 to $500, or imprisonment of one year, or both. The federal law is known as the Quarantine Act, and has been in force since 1893.

SHIPMENTS TRACED

Three shipments, according to the City Health Department records, showed irregularities.

The number of birds received in each shipment, according to Health Department records, was greater than the number specified in the required health certificate in each case. These facts were immediately reported to the State Bureau of Health Conservation, according to the provisions of a state order dated January 6 as well as the United States Public Health Service which regulates interstate shipments.

Meanwhile in Pittsburgh a committee of three physicians named yesterday by the Allegheny County Medical Society was awaiting an opportunity to confer with Dr. Marks, who was confined to his home by an indisposition.

Protests voiced over the proposed city ordinance calling for extermination of all birds of the parrot family will be heard by Council in a public hearing next Wednesday.

M'ELDOWNEY ON EUROPEAN TRIP

H. C. McEldowney, president of the Union Trust Company who has been ill for several months, was on the high seas headed for a rest trip in Europe, it was learned in banking circles here today.

Mr. McEldowney, who has been named as one of the highest salaried bank executives in the country, was stricken ill on a boat trip from New York to Honolulu several months ago. He was taken from the ship and rushed overland by train to New York, where he was put under the care of specialists.

His greatest pleasure, according to friends, is travel—his chief complaint that doctors have banned the 20 or more cigars he was in the habit of smoking daily. Mr. McEldowney is 69.

'Red-Light' Bandit Loot Recovered

Persons, principally women, prey of a gang of thieves who for weeks have robbed motorists when they stopped at red lights on street corners, were asked today by police to call at the North Side Station and identify pencils, pens and other articles recovered through the arrest of four men early yesterday.

The prisoners, police said, confessed to at least 10 robberies.

McNair Stars at Rites Of 'McCready Memorial'

"McCready Memorial," the model house by the side of the County Jail, today was the target of a dedication program which listed as the stars His Honor Mayor McNair and his secretary, Theodore L. Moritz.

Even before the program got under way Moritz threatened to steal the show. He announced that he would make formal announcement of his candidacy for Congress in a speech at the dedication. Moritz said he would stress housing reform.

Speeches were expected also from the Mayor, who is a candidate for Governor; Father James R. Cox and Attorney Kivie Wolfe.

Harrison McCready, the playboy who was the Mayor's director of home-making for a few minutes, indicated just before the program started that he would attend.

The holiday spirit pervaded the occasion. A band of musicians paid by the Civil Works Administration tuned up in the City-County Building and a loudspeaker truck paraded the downtown inviting one and all to come and hear the Mayor.

Stokowski Orchestra Plays 'Red' Anthem

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(AP.)—The "Internationale" has been played by the Philadelphia Orchestra and its audience's verdict given in applause.

The tradition-steeped walls of the Academy of Music did not totter, nor did anyone demand the head of Leopold Stokowski, despite the furore which had greeted the famed conductor's announcement that the Red anthem would be placed on last night's program.

Only one verse was played and the audience was invited to join by singing the words—in French. Stokowski explained he had been unable to find an English version which did not distort the meaning. He said:

Numbers stood, part of them singing, and then came the applause. A moment later the orchestra broke forth into the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and Philadelphia musicdom's "red incident" was over.

JOHNSON FIGHTS AUTO STRIKE DEADLINE

what unions the workers choose to represent them in collective bargaining.

ELECTION UNDER NRA

Should he do so, it would be up to NRA to call on the companies to produce their payroll lists to determine voting eligibles. The automobile code requires that employment data be submitted to the government, but such a call might bring on a legal fight of some duration.

The issue, however, probably would be less long-drawn than a court struggle over a licensing order for the industry. A Presidential order putting the industry under licenses, although still a possible step, was not believed in many informed quarters to be the most likely course.

In any case, despite apparently urgent sentiment for strikes among many of the union workers, their leaders were hopeful that with the government behind them the men would stay at work, and fight out their demands along peaceful lines.

RAIL WAGE CONFERENCE

Mr. Roosevelt was kept closely informed today of other developments in capital-labor disputes.

Railroad Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman conferred with rail managers in the wage dispute he is seeking to arbitrate.

Managers received from Eastman a series of proposals designed to settle the controversy with employes. After an hour and a half with the managers Eastman left the conference but said he would return later in the day to receive their answer before canferring further with labor.

The coordinator refused to say what the propositions were. It was generally understood, however, he is endeavoring to make some arrangement so that the lower paid railroad workers would be benefitted.

It has been suggested some arrangement be made so the minimum wage would be the equivalent to the NRA minimum.

MOTOR GROUP TO BOOST PAY

DETROIT, March 23.—(AP.)—Notices which are being posted in all General Motors automotive plants contain the announcement that the company is putting into effect the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce recommendation for a reduction in working hours to 36 a week, with a commensurate increase in wages.

At the General Motors offices here yesterday afternoon, it was said that no further statement on the matter would be made. The notices contain a quotation from a recent statement in Washington by William S. Knudsen, executive vice president, that the wage and hour recommendation has been accepted.

There are about 40 General Motors automotive plants, scattered all over the country.

GAME EXHIBIT DRAWS THRONG

Visitors to an exhibition of Pennsylvania wild life, held in a showroom at 5001 Baum boulevard, today heard a medley of squeaks, squawks and growls almost equal to the lion-feeding hour in the Highland Park Zoo.

On show, guarded by eight Pennsylvania Game Wardens, are 16 species of bird and beast, representing almost a cross section of the state's wild life. The Pittsburgh Chapter, Izaak Walton League, sponsors the show.

Three lively black bears in one cage hop monkey-like from tree limb to tree limb—good natured fellows all. Another, in an opposite cage, labeled "black bear," is unmistakably brown.

Game wardens explain that he's really a black bear in his brown phase. Even his eyes are brown. A few months from now both his coat and his eyes will grow black again. He lays quiet but he's a tough customer.

Court Scores Jury For $1,000 Verdict

Visiting Judge C. M. Culver censured a Common Pleas Court jury yesterday after it returned a verdict of $1,000 in favor of Walter L. Painter, who sued Samuel Roth and David J. Bonwit, doing business as the Palace Credit Clothing Company, and William Albert. Judge Culver remarked in his charge to the jury that he did not believe a connection between Albert and the other defendants had been established. It had been testified that Albert had made information against Painter charging him with withholding merchandise or larceny by bailee. Painter, claiming he had returned the goods, charged false arrest.

Dock Strike Halted But Protest Looms

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—(INS.)—Although the strike of 15,000 Pacific Coast longshoremen, which had been scheduled to begin today, has been postponed by a last-minute appeal by President Roosevelt, the situation on San Francisco's waterfront was far from quiet today.

Stevedores planned a demonstration meeting on the Embarcadero in protest against the action of their leaders who agreed to appointment of a board of arbitration.

Auto Manufacturers Again Attack Green

Union Men Continue At Work Pending Roosevelt Paley

In Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Lansing more than 45,000 union workers, who voted two weeks ago to strike unless their dispute with their employers was satisfactorily adjusted, went about their tasks still awaiting the results of the conferences at Washington between President Roosevelt and the union leaders.

The possibility that some union groups might walk out despite the request of their leaders, was believed eliminated today after the latter reiterated their earlier request that no strike be started now.

GREEN ATTACKED

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, representing the manufacturers, issued another statement in which it reiterated that the point at issue was "union domination."

The statement said William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, had "shifted his ground" after being "confronted with the plain truth that the threatened strike is for union domination." It continued:

"This is camouflage. He (Green) knows the American people would not stand for an American Federation of Labor dictatorship if they realized that was his real purpose."

Green, in Washington, renewed his attack on company unions, calling them "worse than no unions at all." He said:

"They are the means through which industrial management exercises control over the economic life of the workers."

The strike clouds gathered just as automobile assembly lines had begun to bite into the heaviest accumulation of unfilled orders since 1931. Production equipment was geared for an output this month of close to 350,000 units, and authoritative sources were perdicting an aggregate of approximately 2,000,000 units delivered during the first six months of the year.

STRIKE CALL

Union representatives here were without definite advice as to just when a suspension of work would take place should the negotiations at the White House fail. It was pointed out in some quarters that William Collins, chief organizer for the American Federation of Labor in the automotive industry, now in Washington, could not return to Detroit before tomorrow.

This was pointed to in support of a conjecture that a strike, if one occurs, might not be called until Monday. Originally it had been scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. Wednesday, but was deferred at the personal request of the President.

What preparations were being made by the motorcar manufacturers and local authorities for meeting a strike in the event efforts to compose the differences failed, were being closely guarded. Leaders were quoted as saying complaints had been received that automobile companies were "hiring men by the thousands," and placing them "on call." Company officials declined to discuss these assertions.

Johnson Attacked By Budd Employes

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(AP.)—Bitterly criticizing Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and leaders in the automobile industry, union employes of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company have empowered a committee to "take whatever steps it deems necessary to bring the Budd situation to a speedy solution."

Threatened action toward another strike at the body manufacturing plant was sidetracked by those in charge of the United Automobile Workers' Union meeting last night. "Right now is not the time to talk about such a move," was the answer given to an inquiry from the floor.

Walkout Threatened By Casket Workers

Threatening a walkout, members of the United Casket Workers' Union today were awaiting a reply from P. B. Heintz, president and general manager of the National Casket Company, Inc., to their demand that he meet with their committee to discuss union recognition and alleged code violations.

A telegram was sent last night to the executive offices of the company in Boston. At a meeting in Belmont Hall, Belmont street, late yesterday the employes of the National Casket Company plant in Reedsdale street, voted to walk out Monday morning if the demand for the conference and union recognition is ignored, union officials announced.

M'Nair Suggests Vacation for Council

His Honor the Mayor suggested today that Council take a vacation. He said:

"They have a harder job than I have. What they do requires the exercise of judgment. They must be all tired out considering my appointments."

The Mayor said this reminded him of the story of the hired hand who was ordered to divide the potatoes into three piles—good ones, fair ones and bad ones. The hand finally had to give up because the task was too much of a strain on his judgment.

Other than these developments things were quiet in the Mayor's office today.

OHIO STRIKERS REJECT PEACE

CLEVELAND, March 23.—(AP.)—Six hundred of the 800 employes of the Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation of Cleveland voted unanimously today to reject a proposed agreement to end their two-day-old strike.

The plan had been tentatively accepted by labor leaders and the company during a conference yesterday with Cleveland's Regional Labor Board, and was said to have involved the existence of both company and American Federation of Labor unions. Recognition of the A. F. of L. union is an issue in the strike.

The action of the Addressograph group increased the tension in the Cleveland strike area where nine walkouts are extant, including those involving the automotive field.

Meanwhile, another compromise plan, whose conditions were undisclosed, was being studied by strikers at the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company, which employs about 500 workmen. The union claims all of them walked out when the strike was called several days ago.

LINK REDS HERE TO CWA DRIVE

The handbills give the addresses of organizers as 1524 Fifth avenue, Communist headquarters, and also headquarters of the Unemployment Councils headed by Phil Frankfeld, admitted Communist.

The handbills, which outline an eight-point program of demands for CWA workers, urge all workers to unite and fight against starvation wages.

They demanded a minimum wage of $15 weekly and a continuation of the entire CWA program in Allegheny County after April 1, when the newly-created Relief Work Division assumes CWA activities.

Other demands include continuation of CWA projects under civil administration, creation of a CWA grievance committee, payment of workers on jobs instead of at a centrally located point, Assignment to relief of all CWA workers dismissed upon the completion of a project, and elimination of discrimination.

WEIRTON ACTS ON U. S. SUIT

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Attorney General Cummings today said that the Weirton Steel Company, named as a defendant in an equity suit by the government for an injunction to restrain the company from interfering with collective bargaining, had entered its appearance at the Federal District Court of Delaware.

Cummings said the company would have 20 days in which to file an answer.

450 LAID OFF IN CWA SURVEY

Four hundred and fifty CWA workers, who have been making a survey of property in Allegheny County since January were paid off today. Fifty others will be laid off in a week.

Harry C. Workmaster, member of the County Tax Board, who has been in charge of the survey, explained that the appropriation of $95,800 had been exhausted. If more funds are forthcoming—and this is doubtful—Workmaster said the men would be rehired.

The survey, which is far from completed, was for tax purposes in connection with the county's tax equalization program.

Hotel Water Attack Brings Worker Fine

A charge that Richard Mulchay, 24, William Penn Hotel employe, had tossed a paper bag full of water from a hotel window onto the heads of strike pickets in the street resulted in Mulchay's being fined $2 by Magistrate J. W. McGowan in Central Police Station today.

Mulchay denied throwing the water. Policemen John Duffy and Walter Miller, however, testified that they had seen the water thrown from a sixth floor window and that they had learned that Mulchay had been in the room.

AUTHOR HERE, TELLS OF VISIT 'RIDING RODS'

Louis Adamic, Jugoslavian author of "Native's Return," lecturing here under the auspices of the Foreign Language Information Service, says he has been in Pittsburgh before—but then he was "riding the rods" and didn't see much.

Lolling comfortably upon a bed at the Pittsburgher Hotel, the young writer enjoyed to the fullest the ease assured by his latest work, which seems to be running neck-and-neck in sales with "Anthony Adverse."

Adamic pushed the thin hair back from his high forehead and discussed the "inferiority" of immigrants' American-born children, saying their chief handicap is lack of "racial continuity" or pride in their cultural background.

Adamic said he overcame his own inferiority upon discovering himself to be part of an important race. He mentioned some Jugoslavians who have contributed to science, and said:

HITLER HOLDS KEY TO PEACE, SAYS KNICKERBOCKER

PACIFISM NOW 'CRIME' IN GERMANY

(Editor's Note—Adolf Hitler, more than any other man, holds the key to European peace, H. R. Knickerbocker declares in the thirty-fourth article of his series, "Will War Come?" What his attitude will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable is the question not even Hitler himself can answer at the moment, Knickerbocker writes.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, March 23.—Germany is morally re-armed.

Pacificism is the No. 1 crime.

Nine million German males from 15 to 30 are too young to have been in the last war. They are the majority of all males from 15 to 50. They, the youth of Germany, want to live and die as heroes, not as common men.

They believe, and the entire German nation is taught today, that the Germans are a race of lords destined to rule.

These are the moral factors that point to German willingness for war.

But Germany also is re-arming especially in the air and eventually may recover the military superiority she had on the continent in 1914. Germany, too, has driven a wedge between France and Poland and has successfully prevented a "preventive war."

United Nation, More Territory, German Aims

These are the instruments of German willingness for war.

Finally Germany wants to unite in the Third Reich the eighty to eighty-five million Germans in Europe of whom 15 to twenty million live outside present day Germany.

She wants to recover everything she lost in the last war.

She wants to win, in addition, sufficient territory either continental or colonial to provide the space she considers necessary for her prosperity.

In the end the Germans hope to replace the French as masters of the continent.

All this is not decisive for the question, "will war come in Europe?" The most serious consideration must be paid to factors which speak against German willingness, preparedness and aims for war.

Europe Convinced Hitler Opposes War

Germany is not yet prepared for war.

The vast majority of neutral, as well as anti-German technical, military opinion in Europe believes that Germany cannot again become as strong absolutely as she was in 1914 in less than three years, even if she had a completely free hand to re-arm.

She may never become so strong again relative to her potential enemies because while Germany re-arms, others according to every indication today, will arm upward with equal if not greater speed.

But not less important at the moment is the fact that Adolf Hitler himself does not want war.

This is reported not because he has said it so often, but because he has made nearly all Europe believe it, because he has made his own people believe it and because, according to the best qualified observers who ought to know, he has made himself believe it.

Power in Germany Almost Absolute

He declares and believes that he does not want war not only today when Germany is unable to hope for victory but also tomorrow when she may think she could be victorious.

Among 30 of Europe's leading statesmen, kings, dictators, foreign ministers, war ministers and chiefs of general staffs interviewed during the course of this investigation, not one failed to declare that Hitler is sincere in declaring he does not want war now or in the near future.

Almost every one of them, however, qualified that not even Hitler himself in his own heart is able to say today what his attitude towards war will be when Germany is sufficiently rearmed to make victory probable.

When that time comes, Hitler will probably be, as he certainly is now, the one man in Europe who will be decisive for the question, "Will war come?"

He is today more nearly omnipotent in Germany than ever. His power, based on Germany's mystical concept of him as a prophet of the German blood brotherhood, is almost absolute. He controls the thoughts and feelings of his countrymen to a degree most difficult for a non-German to understand. He can do with Germany as he likes.

Nation Must Consider Result of Last War

He is the first German chancellor since the war with sufficient authority to make all the concessions necessary to insure peace as long as he wants it.

What other German statesmen could have made the non-aggression pact with Poland giving up the corridor for 10 years? Bruening, had he done it, would have been crucified. Hitler controlled his storm troops in Danzig. He can control them in the Saar and in Austria if he will.

Finally, though Germany aims at a great many goals that could only be achieved by war, they could be achieved, of course, only by a victorious war. And in contemplating war Germany, too, must contemplate what might be the result of a lost war.

Map Shows Division Of Nation By Foes

A lost war, Germany as a whole is convinced, would mean first of all the end of modern Germany as a united state.

France, according to this forecast, would take the entire left-bank of the Rhine; Poland would get a great slice of North Germany including most of her Baltic seacoast; Czecho-Slovakia would get most of Saxony, and the rest of Germany would be divided into independent German states, a tiny Prussia around Berlin and states of Hannover, Saxon, Westfalia, Wurttemberg and Rhineland.

But a lost war would mean the inevitable end of national socialism. Germany would have tried within one generation, the Hohenzollerns, the republic, and the Nazis. After all these had failed, only Communism would remain. The next war, lost by Germany, would mean reduction to a condition only a little better perhaps than her condition after the Thirty Years War.

These are the counter-balancing considerations to Germany's national aims. They speak against war at least until Germany is absolutely confident of winning.

Three Years Needed To Build Big Army

How soon would Germany be confident of winning? This is the one all-important factor in the question "Will war come?"

Without a dissenting voice every military authority consulted in the course of this investigation has declared that to organize, train and equip an army comparable to Germany's army of 4,000,000 in 1914 she would require at least three years starting from today, and that it would cost her around forty million dollars, and she could only do that if she could work without fear or restriction.

Considering the fact that she still suffers from fears, though from fewer and fewer restrictions, it is the opinion of the majority of these experts that five to 10 years would be necessary. These opinions gain weight by the fact that 90 per cent of them are from anti-German sources.

To specify, as one expert puts it:

'Germany could put in the field tomorrow a superb force of 100,000 men, the Reichswehr; in three months from Reichswehr reserves, police and storm troops, she could have another 200,000, making 300,000. In a year with a free hand she could have 500,000 to 600,000; in 18 months 750,000; in two years a million first-class soldiers. But even German ingenuity and efficiency could not go higher than that."

Experts Disagree On Strength in Air

Nobody of authority believes the German land army equipment in heavy guns, tanks, machine guns, is as yet anything like enough to supply such forces. But as the modern formula now has it:

"The decision now lies in the air."

A French military aviation journal declares Germany has 42,000 pilots, of whom most are militarily qualified. A neutral military expert, who has spent years observing Germany, told me, on the other hand, he did not believe Germany had 12 militarily qualified pilots. A French major of aviation put the figure at 200.

A French general, of great authority, told me he considered the German bombing air fleet already superior to the French. Capt. Guest, in the British House of Commons, declared Germany had 1,099 civil airplanes capable of being turned to military service. In this city it has become known that the German government has just purchased from an American firm, for $75,000 apiece, three large passenger airplanes obviously capable of transformation into bombers.

Checking of Arms Race Up to Britain

General Hermann Goering, air minister of Germany, has publicly avowed the minimum demand for 30 to 40 per cent as many military airplanes as those possessed by France, Belgium, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, the countries bordering on Germany.

The official Nazi "Voelkischer Beobachter" reckons French planes 4,546, Belgian 500, Polish 1,000, and Czech 700, a total of around 7,000, "with around 3,000 reserve planes in the background."

On this reckoning the German demands would be for at least 2,100 to 2,800 military airplanes. On more conservative reckoning Goering is said to have asked for 1,200 planes.

INSULL'S WIFE PLANS HOME IN ENGLAND

ATHENS, March 23.—(AP.)—Lincoln MacVeagh, United States Minister, telephoned the British Legation today requesting that Mrs. Samuel Insull be granted a British visa on her passport.

The request followed a move on the part of Mrs. Insull and her counsel to obtain permission for the wife of the fugitive Chicagoan to go to England.

M. Pop, one of her lawyers, indicated that she hoped to acquire a permanent domicile in England.

He revealed that Mrs. Insull had applied for permission to enter that country and that he awaits action on her application by the British Legation.

Pop said he was communicating with Insull, now somewhere at sea on the Greek freighter Maiotis, by wireless.

He said that the Maiotis was not bound for the Red Sea, but this destination had been indicated when the vessel cleared because the law required that some destination be given.

It was announced that Mrs. Insull may have a French passport visa on request. Previously it had been denied.

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 23.—(AP.)—Reports indicating that Samuel Insull's chartered steamer Maiotis may be within a few hours of Port Said caused authorities to sharpen their watch for the possible arrival of the aged fugitive today.

A police officer said early today that the captain of the Greek steamer Attiki, arriving from Piraeus, Port of Athens, informed him he had sighted the Maiotis.

When authorities investigated, the captain said he had intercepted a message and had not actually seen the craft.

The captain said the wireless was picked up at 5 p. m. yesterday, reporting the Maiotis about 150 miles from Port Said.

BRIDGE CRASH INJURES TWO

An auto crash on Manchester bridge early today resulted in the injury of two occupants of the car and a police investigation into the case.

The automobile, striking an iron girder separating the driveway from the sidewalk, was demolished.

Injured in the crash were two men described as John Kane, 35, of 3449 Denny street, and Lawrence Dougherty, 31, of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor Home at 428 Duquesne way.

Both were rushed to Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said that Kane was suffering from a fractured skull and Dougherty from bruises and lacerations.

Police started an investigation into the case when a card found in the wrecked automobile listed the owner as Joseph Shapiro, of 1845 Arcena street.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Two women and a man were injured when their auto collided with another car at Cedar avenue and East Ohio street last night.

Mrs. Lillian Rankl, 39, of 2730 Carey way, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital with a fractured collar bone; Herman Dreschel, 45, of Babcock boulevard, R. D. 4, and Clara Dreschel, 38, same address, were treated for slight injuries. They were passengers in a car driven by John H. Dreschel, 20, Babcock boulevard, police reported.

The latter and William H. Schower, 41, of 804 Manton street, alleged driver of the other car, were charged with reckless driving, according to police, who claimed Schower disregarded a red light.

Auto Hits Bridge, Driver in Hospital

An automobile driven, police said, by Robert E. Woelfel, 22, of Babcock boulevard, crashed into the center span of a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge at Ridge avenue at midnight and upset. Woelfel was taken to Allegheny General Hospital with a leg injury.

He is charged with reckless driving, police report.

Court Aid Sought To Banish Bees Of Neighbor

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(AP.)—Herbert and Drue Allman, nurserymen, want an injunction to keep their customers from getting stung.

No matter how careful they are, the flowers in their greenhouses often are crossed, their employes touched to the quick and their customers just plain stung—all because of Joseph Rexer's 1,000,000 bees, they told the court.

The court ordered Rexer to show cause why he should not be enjoined from letting his bees stray into his neighbors' yards.

CROWDS CHEER POSTAL PARADE

Postal workers of the Pittsburgh area paraded through downtown and North Side streets last night, waving American flags and carrying banners protesting the curtailment of service by the government, the enforcement of payless furloughs and other edicts issued this year by the administration.

Led by a delegation of substitute mail carriers, the paraders were cheered by crowds that lined the sidewalks. They formed at Water street and bore aloft a large portrait of President Roosevelt in their march through the streets. They disbanded at West Park.

An overflow crowd attended their meeting last night in a court room in the Federal Building. The entire list of their grievances was aired by prominent speakers at the meeting.

NAVAL STUDENT SEEKS PATENT

Raymond Hiteshue, 19, graduate of New Kensington High School in 1932 and now a second-year man at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, has applied for a patent on a new airplane wing designed to enable planes to carry heavier loads, it was learned today.

Mr. Hiteshue

The young inventor developed a new type wing, permitting planes to lift heavier loads without use of more horsepower or creating more wind resistance. Through superior officers at the Naval Academy, the young midshipman made application for patents. He plans to turn his invention over to the Navy department for its use.

SERVICES MARK ANNIVERSARY

Anniversary Sabbath services marking a celebration of the founding 70 years ago of the Tree of Life Synagogue will be held at 8:15 p. m. today.

The Rev. Dr. Elias L. Solomon, of New York, honorary president of the United Synagogue of America, will deliver the sermon. "The New Freedom" is his subject.

Mr. Goldstein

The Tree of Life congregation also celebrated this week a golden jubilee in honor of Abraham Goldstein, for 50 years sexton and Hebrew teacher at the Craft avenue church.

Bar Mizvah, the ancient Jewish ritual of admitting young men into the congregation, will be held tomorrow morning as a part of Sabbath services. Dr. Herman Hailperin, rabbi, will deliver the charge to six young men.

The celebration concludes Sunday night with a banquet at Hotel Schenley, at which the Rev. Dr. Herman Abramovitz will be the principal speaker.

TWO WOMEN WILL $75,000 ESTATES

The will of Mrs. Margaret J. Morris, of 6375 Penn avenue, filed for probate today leaves an estate valued at $75,000 to her family with the exception of one bequest, originally set at $5,000, to her nurse, Margaret McClemont.

At the time the will was made the estate was valued at more than $200,000, but it has shrunk since then. The document provides that if the estate is insufficient to pay the full legacies they shall abate proportionately.

The will leaves the Penn avenue home to Mrs. Morris' husband, William J. Morris; $75,000 each to a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Loretta J. Morris, and a son, David McKee Morris; $25,000 to another daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Morris; and $33,000 to each grandson and granddaughter living at the time of her death.

The will of Mrs. Jean Newell Donaldson, of Wilkinsburg, filed today, leaves a $75,000 estate. It provides for a gift of $1,000 to the United Presbyterian Women's Association of Wilkinsburg; $500 each to two sisters, Elizabeth Crombie and Mary A. Wells, and bequeaths the remainder of the estate to two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Donaldson Shrader and Mrs. Harriet Cummins. It names as executors two sons-in-law, James F. Shrader and Alden C. Cummins.

Under the terms of a will dated in 1910, Mrs. Katharine S. Venter, of Ben Avon, leaves a $25,500 estate to a son, William F. Venter. To another son, Carl F. Venter, of Neville Island, she bequeaths $5.

The will of Samuel G. Nolin, of Ben Avon, leaves a $15,000 estate to five children, Mary, Nancy, Sarah, William and David Nolin.

The London Council Decides to Name No Street for Anne Boleyn, Executed for Treason

By Edwin C. Hill

THE name of Anne Boleyn shall grace no street of London. So goes forth the edict from the council of the city, and for once I think the English are belying their reputation for hard headedness and common sense in the matter of their historical figures. It was a decision of moment that the council had to make. It was one which called for careful deliberation by the merchants, the knights, the professional men and the laborites who made up the august body. It rested with Dr. Emil Davis to swing the tide when he put this hypothetical question to his fellows:

"Suppose this name is put on a road in a respectable neighborhood and the young ladies of today ask who she is—who knows what consequences might ensue?"

I think the good doctor was unduly alarmed. An Englishman like Kipling could tell the young ladies of today that Anne Boleyn was the mother of good Queen Bess and would weave a simple, tragic story of "The Girl Who Would Be Queen." She lived only 29 years, this strange daughter of Sir Thomas Boleyn and Elizabeth Howard. As a young girl she went to France and to the court of Queen Claud and, returning to England, she had as suitors the poet, Sir Thomas Wyatt, and Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland. But she would be nothing less than a queen, and to make her one, Henry VIII put aside Catherine of Aragon.

For a while they lived happily, but Anne, disliked by the people and by the court, grew arrogant and insolent. The chronicles of the day tell us that she was not the handsomest woman in the world. She was of medium height and swarthy complexion. Her neck was long and her mouth wide. But her eyes were magnificent, large and black and hypnotic. She was a queen for three years, from 1533 to 1536, when King Henry, sickly, fickle, and enamored of Jane Seymour, suddenly in May, 1536, had Anne, her brother, Lord Rochford, and three others seized for treason.

Sentenced By Her Own Uncle

ALL but one maintained their innocence, and he that confessed, did so only under torture. Anne herself was convicted by a court of sixty peers, and her own uncle, her mother's brother, the Duke of Norfolk, pronounced the sentence that she should be beheaded, or hanged, as the king should desire. And he wept as he spoke the words. The four men were executed in the presence of Anne on May 18, and the following day she mounted the scaffold and placed her head on the block. She went happily to death in what may have been a form of hysteria. She laughed the night before and putting her hands about her neck, remarked that it was so little that it would take no more than one blow of the axe.

Sir William Kingston, Governor of the Tower, wrote:

"I have seen many men and women executed and all have been in great sorrow. And to my knowledge this lady has much joy and pleasure in death."

The executioner, an expert with the broadsaw, had been brought over from Calais. The execution block was covered with straw, and concealed in this straw was the weapon. The headsman stood in the circle of witnesses unknown to Anne. Her back was to him and she knelt with her neck on the block as he stole up, snatched the knife from the straw, and with one blow severed the head from the body.

So died the mother of the great Elizabeth, sacrificed on the altar of her ambition and her pride.

She paid the penalty of the year 1536, which certainly would not be the penalty of 1934. Name a street after her? And why? For better or worse, her name will carry down through the ages and her spirit will walk abroad, as men have testified it does, in the old ghost-ridden corridors of the Tower.

Dramatic News In English Courts

THE courts of England furnish more dramatic news, I think, than any other tribunals in the world. This is so, because England, the nerve center of an empire, which has its possessions on every continent and every sea, draws from the drama of the entire earth. It may be an Indian rajah defending himself against Piccadilly blackmailers. It may be an African chief accused of mistreating white men in the back of beyond of the Dark Continent. It may be, as we found recently, a Russian prince, calmly repeating on the witness stand the story of an assassination which changed the face of history—the deliberate murder of the Mad Monk, Rasputin.

A strange and sinister personality, that coarse and dissolute creature, Gregory Rasputin, who came from somewhere in Siberia to hypnotize the last of the Czars and his Empress, and to hold the fate of all Russia in the hollow of his hand. Accused of being a spy of Imperial Germany, which he most likely was, the Mad Monk for years was the most powerful individual in all Russia. And finally the nobles rose against him, and during the night of December 16, 1916, Prince Felix Youssoupoff, himself of royal blood, and well known in this country, and in the drawing rooms of New York's Park avenue, lured Rasputin into a cellar of the imperial palace in old St. Petersburg and killed him.

LEAGUE COURT ACTION URGED ON SENATORS

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Strong pleas, including one from Alfred E. Smith, for ratification at this session of the protocols under which the United States would join the League Court were heard today at a brief but crowded session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Approximately 30 witnesses appeared, including representatives of business, church, political and legal organizations.

Smith's plea was contained in a letter addressed to Newton D. Baker, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the hearing. It said:

"In these disturbed and threatening times, we should certainly do our part towards persuading all civilized nations to compose their differences by reason and law instead of by force.

"The major political parties have advocated adherence to the World Court for a number of years.

"As far back as 1926 the Senate voted, by an overwhelming majority, to join the court with certain reservations.

"The proposal made back in 1926 should now be adopted without further delay so that the United States may take its proper part and lend its full support to the establishment of the rule by reason and neighborliness in international affairs."

Baker, former Secretary of War, was unable to attend. Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va., former president of the American Bar Association, acted as chairman and introduced the witnesses.

Gov. John G. Winant, of New Hampshire, in a telegram regretting his inability to attend, said the problem confronting the world was "peace or poverty."

President Roosevelt said this week he had not given the matter consideration and did not look for action this session. Some saw a possibility, however, that as a result of today's hearing there might be demands from several Senators for committee action.

Those thronging the committee room today included spokesmen for the American Bar Association, the United States Chamber of Commerce, Federal Council of Churches, the National Grange, the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the Catholic Association for International Peace and 11 national women's organizations.

Dr. S. Parks Cadman, former president of the Federal Council of Churches, presented a "memorial on world peace" saying:

"We support acceptance of the Root protocal which 38 nations have ratified."

Curtis Bok, Philadelphia peace advocate, said the court was now a "going concern, with 49 nations as members" and while 22 judgments and 25 advisory opinions had been handed down by it in the 12 years of its existance, not one has "ever been flouted."

Mrs. Carroll Miller, National Democratic Committeewoman for Pennsylvania, said she believed she was speaking for the "informed sentiment of the Democratic party in asking the prompt ratification of the pending World Court treaties without reservation or amendment."

Margaret Buttenheim, representing the Women's National Committee of Republican Women for the World Court, said she had found "overwhelming agreement" with former Secretary Stimson's conclusion that all the Senate's reservations had not only been met by the Root formula, but also that "additional machinery has been provided for preliminary negotiations which greatly enhance the efficacy of the reservations themselves."

League Court Action Opposed By Majority

By KENNETH CLARK

Universal Service

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is against bringing up the League Court at this session to upset the domestic legislation program.

A poll of the 23 members of the committee today showed that 12 Senators, a majority, oppose considering the court at this time, while only six Senators favor it. Five members declined to go on record either way.

A majority of the committee, the poll reveals, thus supports President Roosevelt, who has plainly indicated he does not want the court thrown into the legislative maelstrom at this session.

Favoring the court are:

Non-committal Senators are:

Pittman, of Nevada, committee chairman; Robinson, of Arkansas; Bachman, of Tennessee; Duffy, of Wisconsin, and Bulkley, of Ohio.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME	ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

SCORES SIGNING PETITIONS

While proponents of the League of Nation and the World Court were being heard in the United States Senate today, thousands of signatures poured into the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph opposing the entanglement of this country in European affairs.

They came from every section of the tri-state area with today's list including a petition containing 117 names sent in by F. A. Hatton, of Conway. Another list of 69 was sent by Mrs. Walter Campbell, of Ford City. Two large lists came from Evans City—one representing the employes of a business establishment. Meadville citizens were represented in another.

How about you? Have you gone on record as opposing the League and the World Court? Are you content to stand by idly while propagandists rope this country into European affairs?

You can take an active part against these propagandists by simply sending to the League Court Editor for a petition, signing it and returning it immediately. You can do even more by having members of your family, associates and friends sign the petition. Or, if you prefer, use the petition printed elsewhere in this newspaper.

Asks $1,000 in Suit Against 'Dognaper'

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marie Field filed suit for $1,000 for damage to the health of her dog, "Choo-Choo." She alleged Hymen Cohen "dognaped" Choo-Choo, sending the animal to St. Louis.

ETNA STUDENT MAKES PLEA

An Etna High School student today asked the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers to appeal to every high school student in the nation to urge their parents to oppose this country's participation in the League of Nations and the World Court.

His dramatic appeal was contained in a letter to the League Court Editor in which he inclosed a petition signed by his parents. He wrote:

"I am a student in Etna High and am loyal to the United States. I would like you to appeal to all high school students to get their parents and friends to vote against the League and World Court."

He said foreign nations were trying to get American adherence to the League Court so they could force cancellation of the war debts.

STYLE AUTHORITY

For Forty Years our Style Policy has been to reproduce the best designs produced by the famous Bootmakers of the World, because we believe that the best-dressed men in America are interested in knowing what the best-dressed men in the World are wearing.

That's why during the last forty years we have actually purchased from the finest Custom Bootmakers in London, Paris and U.S.A. more of their expensive Hand-made Original Models than any Shoe Manufacturer in America.

And today we are presenting on our Fortieth Anniversary authentic designs for Street, Dress and Sport, which we predict will be the Style Leaders in the Easter Parade for 1934.

SURVEY SHOWS PROFITS FROM UTILITIES

This is one of the discoveries made by the Turtle Creek Citizens Council in its study of the possibilities of building a borough-owned electric light plant, according to F. L. Hazleton, secretary. Dr. William M. Ledger is chairman of the council.

Another discovery is that electricity is about the only commodity selling from 15 to 20 times the cost of production, Hazelton reports, adding:

"Almost 100 cities in the United States through the earnings of their municipal plants are practically free from all forms of municipal taxation, excepting school taxes.

EXPENSES PAID

"The revenues from their utilities are taking care of such expenses as street cleaning and repair departments, fire departments and playgrounds; in fact everything except special improvements such as sewers and paving."

Declaring the excessive cost of electric current has been maintained by influencing legislatures and paid propaganda, Hazleton cites a survey of 260 municipal plants showing they can be built and paid for within 10 years with rates averaging 25 per cent below private utilities.

His report continues:

"Investigations of 84 cities in the last four years disclosed excess profits of the private plants ranging from 18 to 49 per cent.

"The common stock of the Duquesne Light Company which serves the Pittsburgh area, is valued by them at $55,000,000 and earned $10,700,000 in 1933 or 19.4 per cent."

LOW COST PRODUCTION

Statistics gathered by the Turtle Creek committee reveal that current can be generated by Diesel or steam turbines at approximately three-quarters of a cent per kilowatt hour and delivered to the consumer's meter at 2 cents, cents.

Hazleton's report lists several cities and towns now operating their own power plants. Cleveland, O., he says, has a top rate of 3 cents per k. w. h. and has been making a net profit of between $750,000 and $900,000 per year.

Chambersburg, Pa., with a population of 14,000 has a residence rate of 5 cents and in 1931-32 showed a net profit of $142,000.

He concludes:

"The committee is now looking forward to plans for an engineering survey of the borough to determine the most suitable type of plant for the community and an investigation as to the cost."

'RADIUM RUSH' STIRS ARCTIC

CAMERON BAY, N. W. T., March 23.—(AP.)—A prospectors' rush by airplane to Hottah Lake, 100 miles below the Arctic Circle, in search of radium-bearing deposits of pitchblende, was blamed yesterday on D'Arcy Arden's keen sense of smell.

Aviators are working overtime transporting prospectors and supplies to the locality, where reports say exists a vein of pitchblende 4 feet wide, compared to the one and one-half-foot vein at Great Bear, previously considered the richest in the world.

The story is that D'Arcy, while watching operations at Labine Point where radium is obtained from pitchblende, caught the odor arising from the crushing machines and remembered that he had smelled the same odor at Hottah Lake years before. He went back to find out about it.

CANAL TRAFFIC SHOWS GAIN

COLON, Panama, March 23.—(AP.)—The world's freight traffic passing through the Panama Canal, which has mounted steadily in volume since last year, was cited today as a definite index of increased buying in both hemispheres.

Eighteen freighters locked through the canal yesterday, en route to the Atlantic from the Pacific, carrying 153,419 tons of cargo for the United States and Europe. One passenger vessel, the Arandora Star, northbound, went through out carried no cargo.

Six vessels passed through southwards, carrying more than 23,500 tons of cargo, bringing the day's total to 166,878 tons.

The total of 25 ships which passed through the canal both ways recalled the boom days of five and six years ago.

Three New Officers Installed by Lodge

Education Funds Audit Proposed

Stanley Niemiec, 4126 Foster street, as a candidate for the Legislature in the Second District, favors an audit of state appropriations to universities and colleges other than state-owned and a free university education to "every worthy man or woman."

He would tax buses and trucks, revise the compensation laws, enlarge the state police force and abolish the coal and iron police.

Candidate Would Lower Pension Age

Proposing to reduce the eligible age for old age pensions from 70 to 60, Max Balsam, 4830 Second avenue, is a candidate for the Legislature in the Third District. He would abolish sweat shops and child labor, reduce school, property and county taxes and revise the workmen's compensation laws.

Julius Shulman, Fourth District, is a candidate on a similar platform.

"MY THIRTEENTH CHILD and SEVENTH SON"—

Says Mrs. Conway of 20 N. Federal Street, Lynn, Mass.

"I am the mother of thirteen children, eleven of whom are living. The youngster in the picture is my seventh son. I was weak and tired and suffered from nervous headaches. My sister recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me a lot."—Mrs. C. Conway.

"When we were married I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven months later we were blessed with a darling boy who weighed 8 pounds. Last June another little son was born who weighed 9 pounds, 10 ounces. I am feeling fine and doing all my work. The children are strong and healthy, thanks to your medicine."—Mrs. Joseph Montigny.

"I didn't believe what other women told me about your medicine until I tried it myself. I took six bottles before Vincent was born. He was eighteen months old when this picture was taken and he is strong and well."—Mrs. Josephine Scagliona.

BANK OUTLOOK GOOD, SAYS O'CONNOR

The banking structure of the United States never was on a more sound footing, J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, declared last night in an address before the Bond Club of Pittsburgh.

After reviewing events of the past year he summarized his attitude toward deposit insurance as follows:

"I ask you, as bond dealers and as business men, is the great state of Pennsylvania better or worse off as a result of the fact that $1,584,074,787 of the deposits in its banks cannot be lost, that 1,006 banks will not have runs, that 5,936,162 depositors are forever assured as to the safety of their funds?"

SEES FEW CLOSINGS

He stated that he believes that the inauguration of deposit insurance, plus the reforms that have been instituted and the new capital furnished by the government to the banks preclude the possibility of any great number of closings during the next few years. He added:

"But I hope and trust that this improvement will be no signal for a let-down on the part of the bankers. There is no place in this country for the careless, the incompetent or the dishonest bank official. Public confidence has been regained in these financial institutions only at a tremendous cost. Let each banker make it his business to see that this confidence has not been falsely inspired."

In outlining the progress made in reorganizing and opening unlicensed banks the comptroller said that by March 10, 1934, only two national banks in this state, or 1.99 per cent of the 183 that were unlicensed on March 16, 1933, had disapproved reorganization plans, and their total deposits of $3,782,000 represented merely 1.4 per cent of the amount tied up approximately one year earlier.

OPPOSITION LESSENS

While the comptroller admitted there was much opposition to the insurance of deposits on the part of bankers early in 1934, he stated that this opposition steadily is diminishing.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Homer A. Flint, executive secretary of the Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh. Leo Griffith, president of the Bond Club, delivered an address. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, was toastmaster.

Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking of Pennsylvania, reviewed the progress made in liquidating closed institutions here. Capt. Al Williams, manager of the aviation department of the Gulf Refining Company, reviewed progress in the development of aviation.

The Very Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University, delivered the benediction.

Girl Shoots Self After Row in Home

ALTOONA, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Julia Lockwood, 17, quarreled with her mother over washing the table napkins and after the argument ran to her room and shot herself with a pistol.

At a hospital today an operation was performed but physicians said the girl probably will die.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Pittsburgher's Book To Be Introduced

It is a collection of nature studies and bird lore written by Arthur for the "Country Rambler" column of the old Pittsburgh Sun, and now published by the Audubon Society under the same title.

M'NAIR, PHIL BAKER : Dragonette, Don Bestor : ON AIR

Easter Mass Symphony Theme

With Palm Sunday and Easter approaching, radio becomes religiously inclined.

Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony, playing for the WJAS audience tonight at 9, offer "Russian Easter," the rich music that Rimsky-Korsakoff wove around the Russian Church's celebration of Easter Mass.

* * *

Phil Baker himself as a big, bad desert sheik, with Mabel Albertson as "The Stolen Girl" and Bottle as her boy-friend, are heard on KDKA at 9:30.

* * *

"McNair Manor," the mayor's little Cape Cod cottage at the corner of Forbes and Diamond streets, downtown, is opened with elaborate ceremonies broadcast over KQV at 3:30 this afternoon.

The lord of the manor, himself, and Rev. James M. Cox make the house-warming speeches.

* * *

LOVE, VIOLETS

In a full-hour concert, beginning on WCAE at 8 p. m., Jessica Dragonette sings "Love is a Pilgrim" and "Message of the Violet." Wilfred Glenn, bass, revives "Abdul-Abul-Bul Ameer." The orchestral highlights include Rubinstein's Melody in F.

* * *

The Kelly Sisters—Julia, Martha and Pauline—make their radio debut as a vocal trio on KDKA at 2 this afternoon.

* * *

Walter O'Keefe and Ethel Shutta, with a somewhat ribald repertoire of songs and gags, are heard over KDKA at 8 p. m., with Don Bestor's Orchestra.

* * *

Wagner's "Lohengrin" will be broadcast in its entirety from New York Metropolitan Opera House Saturday afternoon at 1:35, over WCAE and KDKA.

* * *

James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports columnist, gives his weekly review of athletic events over WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock.

* * *

Olsen and Johnson, the Doring Sisters and a male quartet are heard over WJAS at 10 o'clock, with Harry Sosnick's Orchestra.

Morton Downey

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I hope as many of you as possible will be able to tune in on tomorrow's noon broadcast. It will be a special and important event in the life of Louis W. Mallasee, Civil War veteran, of 727 Walbridge street, West End. It is his eighty-fifth birthday, and we are all going to celebrate with him.

Through his long and exciting life he has faced the flash and the thunder of enemy cannon but never before has he attempted an advance in the face of a microphone.

Mr. Mallasee was of Company A, Second Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery. He belonged to the Gen. Garfield Post, G. A. R., and of its original 360 members he is the sole survivor.

Our youngsters soon won't be able to hear stories of the Civil War as told by the combatants themselves. This broadcast, as well as honoring Mr. Mallassee, will afford the boys and girls the privilege of listening to eye-witness stories of the Civil War.

Mr. Mallasee can tell of bloody and furious action in the battle of the Shenandoah Valley. He will make Bull Run an actual living experience rather than a page in a history book.

Morton Downey on Air With Seibel

The Globe Trotter chats with the WCAE-WJAS listeners at 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

The Sun-Telegraph Family Children's program is heard over WCAE at 4:45 this afternoon.

NBC Denies McFadden's Claims

By AIRCASTER

Pennsylvania's Representative McFadden, Congressional crusader against Presidents and popular personalities, has aimed his slingshot at radio, to bar "political and religious discrimination" in radio programs.

The House Radio Committee learned this week, when Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of NBC, gave his views on the bill by Representative McFadden, that the only religious organization that had been barred from NBC was a Brooklyn group known as "Jehova's Witnesses," headed by Judge Rutherford.

He added, however, that Father Charles E. Coughlin, of Detroit, had been denied the use of the NBC air waves, explaining that no charge was made for religious programs, and that a Catholic sub-committee of the network's public advisory council had failed to recommend granting a program to Coughlin.

McFadden interpolated that he, also, had not been allowed to broadcast over NBC, saying that he had prepared an address for delivery over the chain's Farm and Home hour, but was told that his engagement had been canceled.

Aylesworth replied that the cancellation may have been because the address was not on the right subject, and McFadden conceded that it concerned taxation.

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Two favorites—Paul Gannon's songs at 6:45 and Eddie Peyton's Frivolities at 11:30.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Facts About Varicose Veins

Hardly a day passes that somebody does not ask me about varicose veins. Many do not know the medical name but by the description, I know they refer to this affliction. "The veins of my legs stand out and have a knotted purplish appearance" — that describes varicose veins.

Dr. Copeland

The veins become enlarged because of certain changes in their walls. There is a loss of elasticity. The blood no longer circulates as it should, but, in a sense, becomes stagnant, causing the veins to stand out and appear knotted.

Some authorities believe it is an hereditary affliction. Certainly it does occur in some families irrespective of age, weight or occupation.

For many years, the only relief offered the victim of varicose veins was the wearing of an elastic bandage to support the leg tissues. In more severe cases, operation was advised. In this operation the afflicted veins were removed. Unfortunately, the operation was followed by many weeks of convalescence. Unsightly scars remained and these were a source of discomfort and even actual pain.

Today, medical science offers a better means of treatment. It is simple and effective. I refer to the so-called "injection method." It does not require hospitalization, nor loss of time from work.

The injection may be given in the doctor's office or at a clinic. Two or three treatments are given every week. Its use leads to the collapse of the vein and ultimate disappearance of the varicose condition.

If you are a sufferer from varicose veins and your occupation requires a great deal of walking and standing, talk with your doctor. He will tell you about the injection treatment. In competent hands it is a safe procedure, painless and in a favorable case successful in the eradication of varicose veins.

I suggest that you avoid constricting garters and tight clothing. If you have a tendency to varicose veins and are engaged in work requiring long hours of standing, when you are home get into a comfortable position and elevate the legs for a while.

Reed Assails New Deal In Launching Campaign

By MARK SHIELDS

In his speech yesterday before the Allegheny County Council of Republican Women Senator David A. Reed, who only a few hours previously had announced his candidacy for renomination and re-election, gave some intimation of the platform on which he will campaign against Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Mr. Shields

The Senator, one of the Senate leaders of the minority party, feels it the duty of himself and his associates to assist President Roosevelt in all recovery measures which they believe reasonable and valid. But that, he emphasized, did not foreclose the right of criticism of measures which he did not approve, and criticism of which he believed was in the public interest.

Particularly did Senator Reed explain the attitude he will take toward relief and public works measures proposed by the administration. He said that relief to the unfortunate was an imperative duty of the national and local authorities.

But he complained about alleged waste in appropriations for some construction projects, pushed on the plea that they would give work, and said:

"When we waste millions in unnecessary public projects we are mortgaging the future of our children who must pay the bill. We spend millions for reclamation projects to increase farm acreage when we already have so much farm acreage that we are subsidizing farmers not to plant full crops or to plow under their surplus."

* * *

Asserts Money Policies Have Reduced Wages

"Under the NRA the biggest corporations are avoiding the anti-trust laws while little business men are suffering. I favor the application of the anti-trust laws. The administration's currency revaluation has resulted in a secret wage cut and a reduced value on savings deposits, though some people may not yet realize it."

The Senator's position will be that relief and recovery can be facilitated through strict adherence to constitutional and traditional forms without a resort to increased centralization of authority. The Senator said:

"I am not ready to admit that a group of professors hastily summoned to Washington can readily devise a system of government superior to that which has been built up through years of political development."

In this shot at the "Roosevelt brain trust" was clearly revealed the Senator's chief point of attack.

Noting a statement by Judge Ralph H. Smith in a previous speech, the Senator said that clean politics and clean government could be secured only through constant vigilance. The worst element, he said, should not be allowed to rule, and the primary was visioned as the time to bring good government through the selection of good nominees.

* * *

Smith Puts Stress On Leadership

Judge Smith, who will direct the campaign here of Gov. Pinchot against Senator Reed, set forth a philosophy which he thought should guide the Republican party, to which he said he always had belonged, and expected to continue the affiliation.

Republicans, he said, should not worry about followers or party members, so much as about leadership. Defeats, he said, could be directly attributed to repudiation of discredited leadership, and it was imperative that the party get closer in harmony with the aspirations of the people through support of social legislation.

An interesting commentary on the appearance of Senator Reed, pleading for party regularity, and Judge Smith, the representative of Gov. Pinchot, an independent who has warred with the elements supporting Senator Reed, was this:

Near the speakers' table sat former Mayor John S. Herron. In the municipal campaign of last year, Judge Smith made speeches for Mr. Herron, a regular organization candidate on the Republican ticket. Senator Reed did not. I wonder what Mayor Herron and some of his associates who sat nearby thought?

* * *

Harris Speech Leaves Candidacy Still Mystery

Senator Frank J. Harris, the third speaker on the program, outlined the steps which had been necessary to the attainment of permanent registration, and stressed the benefits to be secured. He was praised by Senator Reed for his work on behalf of the bill.

The State Senator's speech, restating the political policies which have marked his previous actions, left unanswered the real question: Is he a candidate for Governor?

The luncheon, attended by about 300 women representing different shades of Republican faith, and from adjoining counties as well as Allegheny, was presided over by Mrs. C. A. Verner. There was plenty of enthusiasm and an impartial approval of every point made by any speaker which struck a responsive chord in the minds of the hearers.

JUDGE TO ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Messenger Speeding Patterson Petitions To Harrisburg

Judge Patterson has been regarded for weeks as a probable candidate, but has not made his formal announcement. His friends said they expected him to make his statement tonight or tomorrow. They said he is expected in Harrisburg late today.

Patterson is judge of the Common Pleas Court of Blair County.

The Blair County jurist was one of the six named by the Philadelphia Citizens Committee as a "suitable type for the Republican nomination. Two of the six, Henry W. Fletcher, former Assbassador to Italy, and Cyrus E. Woods, former Attogney General, have stated they will not run.

Two House Leaders Out For Lieutenant Governor

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(AP.)—Two outstanding members of the State House of Representatives have entered the race for Lieutenant Governor.

Grover C. Talbot, of Delaware, speaker, and Philip Sterling, representative from Philadelphia, announced last night that they will seek the Republican nomination.

Talbot based his announcement on his experience as member and Speaker of the House. These duties, he said, "qualify me" for the post of Lieutenant Governor.

Sterling said his candidacy was in response to requests of voters who stand for a "free and open primary," and for "policies of party reconstruction and vitalization attuned to the times."

Eight candidates for major offices filed nominating petitions late yesterday. They are:

Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic state committee candidate for the United States senate; Chester H. Rhodes, Stroudsburg, for Judge of the Superior Court; Thomas Kennedy, Hazelton, for Lieutenant Governor, and Thomas A. Logue, Philadelphia, for Secretary of Internal Affairs, all associated with Guffey on the Democratic state committee ticket.

Roland S. Morris, Philadelphia, candidate of the independent Democratic group, for United States Senator.

Charles A. Dravo, Swarthmore, Republican, for Governor.

Restful Method Best in Settling Labor Troubles

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

We're going in strong for arbitration, reconciliation and capable substitutes.

You've got to hear both sides of an argument to really start a good argument. We once saw a strike settled beautifully by a plumber's helper who was accused of being lazy.

He said to his boss, "Let's lay down and talk things over."

The boss stated his side of the case. The plumber's helper told his.

Then both of them got up and walked away much refreshed.

CITY TO PROBE SECURITY LIST OF RAILWAYS

Council Asks Data, Delays Action On Contract

Demanding information on Pittsburgh Railways Company securities held by outsiders and on the company's fixed charges, Council has deferred action on the traction contract until Tuesday.

Postponement came after an afternoon-long session with the Traction Conference Board, centering chiefly about whether the railways company was obliged to pay the city $360,000 yearly for paving and licensing charges.

Stating the money had not been paid the city since the last quarter of 1930, and that the Philadelphia Company had waived claims, Board Chairman Charles A. Finley brought out the fact that outside security holders have been paid.

WANTS STOCK LIST

Councilman John J. Kane asked:

"I'd like to know who the outside holders of these obligations are. Are they widely scattered? Or are the people paying this 8 1-3 cents into the hands of a few powerful persons?"

Finley said the Philadelphia Company held about 32 million dollars of the company's obligations and the public about 36 million.

Backed by Councilman P. J. McArdle, Finley declared the company was not bound to pay the $300,000 when not making profit. The company is allowed a four million dollar profit, but its net income last year was only $800,000, allowing depreciation, he said.

Kane then stated:

"In my crude way I interpret the $300,000 as payment for license to operate in the city of Pittsburgh."

Demmler stated he thought the $300,000 should be put down as operating charges and paid along with other operating expenses before security holders claims.

Councilman Thomas J. Gallagher was insistant on knowing the fixed charges of the company.

NEW STUDY PLANNED

Skirting many of the complicated phases of the traction problem, the discussion brought no definite opinion on a resolution of Demmler's suggesting conditions to be added to the traction contract before approval.

Finley agreed the condition requiring co-operation from the railways company in settling traction problems was reasonable.

The other conditions, he said, would need further intensive study.

Conditions were: Payment of $250,000 forthright by the company on alleged back debt of $988,000, and quarterly payments of $25,000 for the two years' extension; a three months' cancellation clause, and a 50-cent pass for school children during the five-day school week.

Finley said payment of $250,000 would cut a million miles of service from the schedule. He said a pass might or not be desirable for the children and might or might not affect the company's income. He did not commit himself on the cancellation clause.

2 AMBITIOUS MAYORS TALK

DUBOIS, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Two mayors with ambitions for higher offices have outlined some of their political views before the citizens of Dubois.

William N. McNair, chief executive of Pittsburgh, told the members of the Young Men's Democratic Club last night that removal of the tax on industry and placing a graded tax on real estate would prove an aid toward recovery.

McNair says he will run for the Democratic nomination for Governor if the people want him.

Eddie McCloskey, Mayor of Johnstown, told the gathering he has entered the race for both the Republican and Democratic nominations for Secretary of Internal Affairs in the hope that he might correct what he terms inefficient operation of the state emergency relief organization.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, there ain't many Republicans left, and the good ones of them are dying off. Lost a good one, and a fine friend yesterday—Fred Balzar, cowpuncher, railroader and miner; a real two-fisted Governor of the most independent state in our Union, Nevada.

Will Rogers.

He drove out to see me when down here a few weeks ago, and brought me a quirt. I knew it was his last trip, and he did too, but he never flinched. You would love Nevada, it's the West without dressing up to look the part.

A herd of cows, and a hole in the ground made it a unique state. And a long riata, and a pick keep it a unique state.

Yours, WILL.

TROLLEY LOOP CHANGE SIFTED

The traffic flow committee of the Better Traffic Committee is to study the possibility of looping No. 86, 88 and 95 street cars at Sixth street during a 60-day trial period.

The present looping, to which several car riders have objected, turns the 86, 88 and 95 cars at Ninth street during the morning and afternoon peak hours. During the middle of the day the three lines loop at Sixth street.

The traffic flow committee at a meeting of the Better Traffic Committee yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce reported that looping at Sixth street during peak traffic hours would be a hardship from the standpoint of traffic flow and would increase congestion. The Better Traffic Committee, however, decided the proponents of long looping should be asked to submit their case and recommended to the flow committee that it consider the possibility of a trial period for long looping.

Band's Instruments Will Serve as Boat Whistle

Noah built an ark. The Locust Ridge Log Roller Hill Billy Band is building a 40-foot motor cruiser.

The waters came to Noah. The hill billies aren't going to wait. They are building their boat in William Kelley's back yard, 1129 Woods Run avenue. When they get her water-tight, they are going to take her down to the Ohio River and flop her in the flood.

The band has eight members, all men from the Woods Run district, and they all take turns with hammer and saw.

With her frame almost finished, the boat shows good progress. Soon, they plan to turn her over and build her cabin. A canvas awning will keep away the sun this summer. Maybe next year they will build a glass enclosed sun deck.

The hill billies, according to Kelley, need the boat to keep singing and playing "dates" up and down the rivers. Their first trip, about Decoration Day, if all goes well, will be up the Allegheny.

With guitar, mouth organ, violin and jew'sharp players, aboard, he doesn't think they'll need a whistle. When they want to, he says:

The boat will be able to carry 40, and the hill billies plan to take their friends for river picnics.

TURNER BACK AT POSTOFFICE

Postmaster William M. Turner, with his left foot in a plaster cast and using crutches, yesterday returned to his office for the first time since he was injured in an automobile collision at Pitt street and Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, February 21.

He came to his office direct from Homeopathic Hospital, where he has been confined since the night of the accident. Besides fractures of the ankle, he still suffers from a right shoulder injury. While in the hospital he attended to many of his postal duties by correspondence.

When the accident occurred, the Postmaster was en route from his home in Wilkinsburg to Pittsburgh to keep an appointment with David L. Lawrence, Democratic leader.

WITNESS SAVED FROM JAIL TERM

George Bickerton, 1309 Highwood street, narrowly escaped a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of court, for refusing to obey a subpena as a witness, when he was brought before Judge William H. McNaugher yesterday in Common Pleas Court.

Bickerton admitted that when he received the subpena he stuck it in his pocket without looking at it. When he did not appear in court, a deputy sheriff brought him in. Attorney John B. Nicklas, who was on the opposite side of the case in which Bickerton was sought as a witness in an equity proceedings, made a plea for leniency. Then Judge McNaugher said:

"I had intended committing you to jail for 30 days, but on account of what has been said here in your interest I will discharge you. If you ever get an idea in your head not to observe the court's orders you will pay the penalty."

FAHEY FIGHTS 'FIX' PENALTY

Charles F. Fahey was to attempt today to upset his conviction and one-year workhouse sentence for embracery in connection with the trial of the "Three Toms" as proprietors of the Monaca Club.

He announced late yesterday he would appeal Judge James H. Gray's sentence of one year in the workhouse and a $500 fine, to Superior Court.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has scheduled for Tuesday the trial of the "Three Toms"—Tom (Goose) Goslin, Tom Dolan and Tom Coyne, brother of State Senator James J. Coyne.

Four others were indicted with Fahey on the embracery charges preceding this trial. They were Tom Coyne, Edward Costello, former Greenfield constable; Charles L. O'Connell, of Leetsdale, and Ralph LaRocco, former tax collector in Coraopolis.

O'Connell and Costello pleaded guilty. O'Connell testified Fahey gave him slips, bearing the names of four jurors, which the prosecution charged came from Tom Coyne. The prospective jurors were to be told to "take care of Coyne," according to testimony.

HELD BY COURT FOR CONTEMPT IN MISTRIAL

Two Others Arrested; Volpe Flees Police; Woman Sought

District Attorney Andrew T. Park has found a way to make an alleged jury fixer pay for the expense caused by a retrial of a Criminal Court case.

Shattering precedent, Park hailed the alleged fixer into court, where Visiting Judge Samuel Lemon Reed, of Cambria County, late yesterday, fined him $1,000 and committed him to jail until the fine is paid.

Later, Park said he would seek an indictment for embracery by the grand jury. A prison sentence can be imposed in a conviction on this charge.

A "tall, dark young woman" was being sought by county detectives. They went to McKeesport seeking her this afternoon accompanied by a woman member of the jury. The woman sought, if arrested, also will be charged with embracery.

Trial of this case, started late yesterday before Judge Reed, came to an abrupt end yesterday when the jury fixing charges were revealed.

WOMAN INVOLVED

Mrs. Mary Brieck, of 450 Atlantic avenue, McKeesport, a member of the jury, reported in court yesterday that a man and a young woman had visited her home the night before, asking her to "do the right thing" by Joseph Rosa, 34, of Penn Township, the defendant, charged with bombing the cabaret last May 29.

Mrs. Brieck said they promised she would be taken care of, although she said no specific amount was mentioned. Later, it developed Mrs. Sylvia Young, 225 Erie street, McKeesport, another juror, also had been approached by the "dark young woman."

County Detective Frank Ritz, set by Park to watch for a return of the alleged jury fixers to the court, arrested Charles J. Chancel, 34, 114 Second street, Trafford City, in the hall as he was talking to the state's star witness, Frank Haley.

VOLPE FLEES

Ritz also arrested Adolph Lilli, 1208 Stanton avenue, McKeesport, who was with Chancel. A few moments later, Ritz detained Josephene Wilson, of Grandview Inn, East McKeesport, who was talking to Louis Volpe, of the notorious Wilmerding Volpes, near the courtroom room. Volpe fled down the stairway, but Ritz said he would be brought in for questioning later.

Park moved for the withdrawal of a juror and Judge Reed, granting this, made a mistrial of the bombing case. Then Park and Judge Reed questioned the other jurors.

Mrs. Brieck picked Chancel out of a dozen men at a "standup" in the detective office, saying positively he was the man who came to her house. Lilli was said to have remained outside the house in the automobile. The Wilson woman denied connection with the case, although she had ridden home in Chancel's car after having attended the first day of the trial.

FIRE BREAKS UP BRIDGE PLAY

A bridge tournament among members of Crafton and Ingram volunteer firemen and two fraternal organizations was interrupted last night when fire broke out in the manual training room at Ingram Public School on Vancouver street, several blocks away.

The 32 men present, including members of the Craft Club and Knights of Columbus, manned equipment and rushed to the school after a passerby had sounded an alarm.

The fire was confined to the work room in the basement. Damage was estimated at nearly $500.

DOCTOR LOSES CRASH SUIT

His mind affected by an automobile collision three years ago, Dominick Valente, Jr., 21, of 2222 Penn avenue, was awarded a $3,745 judgment against Dr. A. A. Starr, of 5931 Penn avenue, today by a jury before Judge John P. Egan.

The jury decided Valente became deranged as a result of the accident, in which his car collided with Dr. Starr's at Friendship and Atlantic avenues.

After a three-day trial, the case was given to the jury early yesterday afternoon. The sealed verdict was returned this morning.

The suit was brought by the Fidelity Trust Company as guardian for Valente. R. B. Wolfe and W. D. Graham were counsel for the plaintiff. A. G. Liddell was attorney for Dr. Starr.

MORTGAGE POOL APPEAL HEARD BY COURT

Argued yesterday before the court in session here, the outcome will affect hundreds who have invested money in pools but have been unable to get their cash back because of failure of mortgagors to make interest payments.

The case was before the high court on an appeal by Roswell D. Crick, from a decision of Orphans Court which held that Crick could not collect $90,000 cash he had invested in an $18,000,000 mortgage pool of the Fidelity Trust Company.

Crick demanded cash after the Trust company reduced the interest rate to investors from 6 to 5 per cent in 1932.

The company refused on the ground that the cash was not available and that to pay Crick would be an injustice to other participants in the pool.

Judge H. Walton Mitchell, of Orphans court, upheld the trust company's stand, ruling that to pay Crick would injure the interests of the other investors.

Crick contended he had invested his money with the privilege of revoking the agreement on 30 days' notice. He made a claim for cash in accordance with that agreement, he contended.

Attorney Earl F. Reed, for the appellant, argued that the trustee does not account for the pool, but may pay off favored investors if it desired.

Argument was to be heard this afternoon on the appeal of District Attorney Andrew T. Park from the decision of the Superior Court which reversed the lower court and set Charles A. Bardolph free, after he had been convicted in Criminal Court on charges of making false entries in the books of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

The case would have been heard before, but Assistant District Attorney H. R. Phillips, who will argue the case, was in Florida.

Other cases argued yesterday before the Supreme Court follow: Appeal in case of James DiPietro, guardian of Alexander Morando, against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company from the judgment of the Common Pleas Court of Jefferson County, which awarded $85,000 damages for personal injuries, later reduced to $60,000 by the court; Oscar Larson and his wife, Annie H. Larson, against Martin E. Koster and others, an appeal from a decree of Common Pleas Court, this county, involving a real estate transaction; F. M. Sperry against the White Star Lines, Inc., appeal from the judgment of Common Pleas Court, here, which decided for the defendant; Mary Haugh against Harris Amusement Company, appeal in personal injuries case, from judgment of Common Pleas Court here; Max Schoen against N. A. Elsasser, from judgment of Common Pleas Court, Somerset County, for personal injuries; Jacob Berhalter against Mary Berhalter and the First National Bank of Braddock, an appeal from decision of Common Pleas Court here for an accounting of monies.

But to give you service when you want it, we will need to know your moving plans as far in advance as possible. Thousands of families are moving this season; thousands of telephones will need to be moved and we cannot promise to take care of all last-minute requests.

So—if you are moving—call the Business Office or fill out and send us the "move notice" accompanying your March and April bills.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Patricia Pitt

So glamorous are many Pittsburghers finding Miami Beach that colonists galore will linger on for a Southern Easter. And then Easter this year—April 1—comes so early that it might be cold here in the North.

Hardly a day goes by without an entertainment being given by a Pittsburgher for Pittsburgh friends. For example, the Henry Olivers, of Sewickley, gave a luncheon recently at the Bath Club, Miami Beach, for the W. C. Robinsons and the junior Henry Olivers, all of Sewickley.

Also noted at the Bath Club in the past few days have been Dr. and Mrs. Walter M. Yost, the George S. Hasbroucks, of Berwyn (she's a daughter of James Ross Mellon), the W. R. Gellatlys, the James H. Hammonds and Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Pitcairn, and Mrs. F. N. Beegle, of Beaver Falls.

Washington Woman Gives Luncheon in South

Among the guests were Mrs. Andre E. Rickmers, Mrs. George H. Flinn, Mrs. James W. Scully, Mrs. Thomas McK. Cook, all Pittsburghers, and the Henry Olivers, of Sewickley.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Leslie were hosts at a luncheon at Miami Beach's Surf Club, at which their guests included the William M. Fureys.

Pittsburghers Recent Miami Beach Visitors

A recent arrival at Miami Beach is Mrs. Owen Davies Odell, of Sewickley, who is stopping at the Flamingo Hotel. Noted at the weekly dinner-dance at that hotel were the J. R. Munces and Mrs. W. R. Gellatly.

Guests at a large luncheon which Mrs. J. Hunter Barton, of Philadelphia, gave a few days ago at the Surf Club, Miami Beach, were Mrs. W. McKennan Smith, Mrs. S. J. Brendel, Mrs. Andre E. Rickmers, Mrs. John B. Semple, Mrs. Edward C. Leslie, Mrs. Edward A. Pitcairn and Mrs. F. N. Beegle. Pink tulips and roses and blue delphinium decked the luncheon table, at which covers were laid for 75 guests.

MRS. FRANCIS C. E. HITCHCOCK

Arnold-Giles Nuptials in New York

The wedding of Miss Margaret Cain Arnold and E. Ellsworth Giles, Jr., will take place tomorrow afternoon in the Episcopal Church, Scarsdale, N. Y. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Allen Arnold, of Braintree, Boston, Mass., and she is marrying the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ellsworth Giles, of Southern Pines, N. C., and Beaver, formerly of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Giles, Jr., is one of the national low handicap golfers and was a member of the championship Princeton golf team of 1927.

The ceremony is taking place at 4 o'clock with only members of the families present. Henry C. Remick, of Philadelphia, a Princeton classmate of the bridegroom, will be best man.

Miss Arnold is a graduate of Tufts' College and spent two years abroad studying and traveling. Mr. Giles, Jr., and his bride plan to make their home in Haverford, Pa.

Writer Tells What Makes Women Interesting

Writing in the current issue of The Independent Woman, official organ of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Lillian Sabine asks:

"What is it that makes a woman interesting?"

And then Miss Sabine proceeds to give a composite answer as received from Margaret Wycherly, Lily Pons and Fannie Hurst.

Fannie Hurst, America's brilliant novelist, believes women more interesting today than at any previous period in the world's history. She sees them interesting in a new—and far more subtle—way, heroically transcending the "beautiful but dumb" tradition.

The secret of charm, Miss Wycherly believes, is a peculiarly elusive something, a love of life that everyone recognizes and no one can quite define. Poverty, misfortune, illness — nothing changes it. Oddly enough, this vital spark may live in a very frail body.

Lily Pons said it was the possibility of response.

Girl Scout Membership Gains 2,853 in January

An increase of 2,853 new members during January of this year has just been announced at Girl Scout headquarters in New York City. The total membership of the national organization at the end of that month was 318,757.

Wild Flower Exhibit at Springs

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., March 23.—White Sulphur Springs will this year inaugurate her wild flower show, April 1 to 7, an addition to the country's nature festivals, which include the apple blossom festival at Winchester, Va., the forest festival at Elkins, W. Va., and the orange festival at Winter Park, Fla. White Sulphur is the best place in the Southern Appalachian Mountains for such a show, being in the heart of a region of much rare flora. Plans for the show have been worked out in interesting detail by Frank Harris, landscape artist, and there is a wide scope for future development, possibly in seasonal sequence, of what will become an established festival here.

On the Colonial floor of The Greenbrier, covering 1,900 square feet, will be arranged a wild garden set with blossoming dogwood, red-bud, white fringe, rhododendron, azalea, native pink, and yellow lady slipper, the showy orchis, ferns, and mosses, with small blossoming trees predominating. There will also be a brook, waterfall and garden paths. Adjoining will be an exhibit of bulbs featuring the rarer little daffodil for naturalizing, the whole forming a charming example of a wild garden that can easily be reproduced by the home owner on a modest or more elaborate scale.

Activities of the Easter season here will also include a concert by the Princeton Glee Club March 30, the opening of the new dinner dance room to be featured as a supper club, the annual Mason and Dixon golf championship for men the week of April 9, the annual Mason and Dixon lawn tennis tournament opening April 16, water sports in the Greenbrier pool, and a series of polo matches with teams from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Columbus, Middleburg, Va., and White Sulphur competing.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crawford, of Pittsburgh, have leased Casino Cottage for another year.

P. C. W. STUDENTS MAKING, BOTTLING FACE CREAM TO SELL TO PROVIDE MONEY FOR SCIENCE SCHOLARSHIPS

P. C. W. GIRLS ENTER TRADE

Students in the science department at Pennsylvania College for Women are going in for cream in a big way—but not dairy cream—face cream. They are making three kinds, cleansing, vanishing and cold cream, and squeezing it into neat little glass jars labelled "P. C. W. Face Cream."

And the students are selling their product to obtain money for two science scholarships. Their aim is to get two $50 scholarships.

Miss Gretel Trog, Miss Margaret White, Miss Mary Hostler, Miss Virginia Watkins and Miss Thelma Stocker were very busy in the laboratory yesterday weighing out the various ingredients. They have analyzed other face creams that are on the market, and discovered that some contain injurious paraffine instead of beeswax.

To prove that their creams are made from pure products the P. C. W. students don't mind making known their formula. They contain beeswax, mineral oil, lanolin, stearic acid, carbitol, triethanolomine and perfume.

+ ON BROADWAY +

If I Were the Roosevelt of Hollywood

I would relegate the Hollywood director to a position of comparative unimportance in the industry—like that of the stage director to the theater, and cut his salary accordingly. Giving the picture director full credit for directing a good script and full blame for a bad one, is a hangover from the silent days . . . Why make a hero of the director of such a good script as, say, "Cavalcade" or "The House of Rothschild?" . . . It would have been a hard job to spoil either of them.

Nor could a good director make a good picture out of such a bad script as, say, "The Fire Chief" . . . If the director does a rewrite job, thereby saving a bad story, why not credit him as a writer, which he certainly deserves?

I would make a rule that every producer use at least two new players in every picture . . . Aren't we just a little tired of seeing Beryl Mercer play all the mother parts, Robert Emmet O'Connor play all the cops—and Adolphe Menjou all the sophisticates?

I'd talk to some of the cinema reviewers—who I know use their newspapers to air their petty sulking and jaded opinions . . . They do not suspect it, but they are keeping some of their readers away from movies that they might enjoy — and the groans of the critics often send these people to other pictures that they don't like or understand.

When I say "jaded opinions" I talk with authority. Mine got that way—so I kept away from the first-nights for several weeks—and this week returned to the aisle pews to give myself another chance.

The movie oracles, I think, should be restricted (and the dramatic critics, too — after their enthusiasms wilted) to penning a report of the type of attraction on exhibition and how the audience reacted to it . . . There are so many more "average intelligent" moviegoers than there are wisenheimers—which we critics amusingly call ourselves, anyhow. An old argument, I know, nevertheless—that's what I'd do if I were the high mucky-muck of Hollywood.

"Tugboat Annie," for instance, a picture audiences loved, would get four stars instead of a severe lambasting . . . And "Thunder Over Mexico," which got four star raves—would be tagged as the dull affair (from an audience standpoint) that it actually is.

I would start a school for censors (which all present and prospective morals experts would have to attend) in order that they might learn what is and what is not damaging to the youth of America. They would find that exhibitions of bad manners on the part of a flicker hero can have a worse effect on a child than a risque joke which he probably cannot understand.

And they would also learn to delete scenes where major crimes are made praiseworthy, such as the snatch sequence in "Lady for a Day."

And please don't rebuttal me with: "You glorified a gangster in your picture!" because I know I did . . . And he deserved to be—for he once lived and his better side was accurately portrayed.

The scenarists would be paid royalties instead of salaries for their work. This would induce them to take more time and pains with their creations. Every Hollywood writer is expected to turn out a masterpiece in two months . . . It always took Ibsen two years (with the exception of one job which he tossed off in a year)! and it is hard to believe that picture scribes are very much more clever than was Ibby.

I'd insist that every studio start a school for young talent comparable to the one Paramount had years ago. Through this institution Paramount developed, among others, Buddy Rogers and Thelma Todd. The school cost $100,000, but Rogers made Paramount at least $2,000,000—which would certainly justify the investment.

A law would make it compulsory than even relatives had to have a little intelligence.

I would furnish all producers with the names of the immortal writers who died years ago. This would save them time and money which they waste by wiring their N. Y. offices to "sign them up!"

I would stop producers from paying fabulous sums for Broadway plays, such as the rumored $100,000 paid for "Design for Living"—and then engaging a screen-adapter who boasted that he hadn't used one line of Noel Coward's manuscript . . . Also I would find a way to curb such deals as the "Sailor, Beware!" blunder . . . The studio that bought it for plenty learned they made the same picture under another name years before.

I'd fry all press agents who tried to convince the public that Toby Wing and Lona Andre were H'wood's most beautiful ingenues.

The Academy award would go to the picture making the most money, thereby making the producers realize that they're engaged in what is really commerce and not art. And, besides, the picture making the most money is probably the best picture from the artistic standpoint, anyway.

I would forbid Cary Grant and Virginia Cherrill ever to separate. Just think of what the reading public went thru before they were wed!

I'd tar and feather any dance producer who carefully weeded out his chorus beauties with exhaustive film tests (importing others at great expense from N. Y.) and then photographed them in formations from approximately 100 feet in the air . . . From that distance he could use a chorus of Bull Montanas and nobody would know the difference.

And I'd put a stop to all agents who work hand-in-glove (I mean, hand-in-pocket) with the producers. If a producer needs a certain actor he induces him to sign up thru his agent-friend—and the agent-friend then kicks back half the commission to the producer!

MUSIC

Pittsburgh Madrigal Singer

Twentieth Century Club

The Pittsburgh Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Mrs. James Stephen Martin, gave their third annual concert last night in the Twentieth Century Club.

What seemed at first sight to be a long program went ahead with such spirit that it turned out to be exceedingly well-timed and balanced. There were songs from the classic sixteenth century to our own day, madrigals, sea chanteys, and folk songs, all well suited to the combination of voices in this small chorus.

The male section of the choir seemed better than on former occasions and the women's voices not so well balanced. It is strange how humming has taken the place of good straigtforward singing since the arrival of the first big Russian choirs in this country. It is a tiresome performance usually and is only effective when used sparingly as background. I never could expect it to take the place of solo violin as in the Bach air.

Homer Wickline played accompaniments and several solo numbers for piano, a "Sarabande" of John Sebastian Bach, "Capriccio" of W. Friedeman Bach, and Griffes' "White Peacock." He kept his style and tone simple and the music remained consistent with the entire program.

Film Capital All Excited About Proposed Duel As Law Watches

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Hello! Hollywood was VERY MUCH agog when the news traveled via the mysterious grapevine route that a certain studio dance director was to fight a duel with a former German aviator! The secret (and a big one) even reached the District Attorney's office and since there is a strict law against dueling in this state (and many others, incidentally), Old John Law made every effort to step in and halt such proposed death-dealing episodes!

Several evenings ago this w. k. the light fantastic master ended up in an argument with the flying gentleman—and, like the days of old, cards were exchanged, seconds were named and a place for the duel was selected. Since the interference of local police the site of the fight, to be done with German sabers (not usually fatal, but certainly damaging), has been changed several times.

Only a few of those "in the know" will witness the fray, and, since I'm barred, due to fear of headline exposure, I wouldn't be a bit surprised to learn that the duel has taken place!

* * *

Ray: "What did it say?"

Mack: "I don't know—the newsboy grabbed the paper and sold it before I had time to read it."

* * *

Incidentally, while we're on the subject of Ray Mayer—Ray will make his movie debut in "Call It Luck," a race track yarn which James Tingling will direct for the Sol Wurtzel unit at Fox. Ray is to play a lame-witted guy called "Brain-Wave" Flynn. No cracks, please.

* * *

Wanderings around Hollywood . . . It's a baby girl for the Kane Richmonds, (Marion Burns), and they're SO happy! . . . The Joe E. Brown going-away cocktail party was in honor of John Harris, the Pittsburgh theater man, and Joe's mama and brother . . . Jean Chatburn, ex-stand-in for Barbara Stanwyck, CLICKED with a nice contract at Paramount . . . SURPRISE! Douglas Montgomery and Sidney Fox have romantic heart trouble and go PITTY-PAT when they think of each other! . . . That was Jerry Fahrney's OWN idea to get mixed-up in the Bolton Mallory-Nancy Carroll fuss . . . The King's Club, now the popular playground and night spot of the celebs, is starting a cocktail hour and luncheon routine for those who have PULENTY of time . . . Archie Gottler, the tunesmith, was out with a young lady for three hours the other night before he knew her name! . . . Although they DIDN'T want any publicity on the matter, it was Alice Brady, about to open here in "Biography," and Frank Fay who paid the funeral expenses for Boyce Combe, who died in Chicago last week . . . At the SAME MOMENT Elsie Ferguson was being married in London, her dotter, Elsie Ferguson II, was listening to Cupid and Johnny Machio, the agent in Hollywood.

* * *

Social Note—Walter Brooks, III (isn't that ULTRA?), whose grandma is none other than Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, of various social registers, made his movie debut in a couple of independent films.

Walter's Ma is Mrs. Lionel Atwill, so Lionel's been helping the blonde youngster get the breaks. Celluloid wise guys have it that the laddie will click.

* * *

Some Super-Snoopings . . . Lil Lang, ex-Mazda Lane show gal, was severely, but not seriously burned while attempting to extinguish a cigaret while out JOY riding . . . Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow, who are COOING again in a nice and orderly fashion, went HOITY-TOITY by tossing a tea for Consul and Mrs. Dimitri Dimoncesco of the Rumanian Government . . . Broadway OUGHT to giggle over this—Sidney Blackmer, the original hard-luck chap of the footlights and the flickers, is going to SING in "Down to Their Last Yacht."

Ah, another of those rib-tickling theater signs, discovered this time by George Chandler, the comedian: "I'm No Angel"—"Let's Fall in Love."

A man giving his name as F. J. Fournier, 40, of 2929 Shady avenue, was arrested by West End police after he lost control of his automobile on the ramp of the West End-North Side Bridge and crashed into a traffic light. He was charged with reckless driving.

South Side Cafe, Hill Store Robbed

Three hundred dollars in cash and merchandise, valued at the same amount, were stolen from two places early today, police reported.

Ladies' Man

THE FLOOR show at the Apollo cafe was over for the night. The last girl had wriggled through the exit, and the orchestra swung into the music that would continue until closing time. Numerous couples arose to dance, or whatever they call it these days.

At a second-row table sat a party of four men. It was obvious that they were native New Yorkers. They were enjoying themselves too much.

"What a show!" exclaimed the stoutest of the four. "Boy, oh, boy! Why, I'll swear that last blonde didn't wear anything but a smile. Hey, waiter, bring us another bottle of grape. Boy, oh, boy!"

"You can say it again, Tom," agreed the little man with the glasses. "Best I've ever seen. I'd sure like to stick around a few more nights before going back home. I could swear that little toe dance was giving me the eye."

"Ho, ho, ho," roared the thin man with the pimples, "that's rich! It wasn't you she was looking at; it was the champagne bottle. And say, fellers, can you imagine what Henry's wife would say if she could see him now?"

The fourth man shivered.

"Don't speak about wives," he urged. "Aren't we all in the same boat? What's the use of bringing up the wife question at this time? You wanna spoil the party?"

The fat man nodded.

"Gil's right," he agreed. "Here we are, just four married men from upstate who are out for a heluva good time. It's the first time we've been down to New York together alone in more than five years. I suggest that we leave wives out of the conversation until we get on the train tomorrow. Then we'll all talk about 'em to our hearts' content, just to get us in the mood.

"You see, fellers, a party's a party. And much as we love our lil' wives, I——"

He stopped abruptly. He leaned forward. His eyes widened. He pointed, as no nice stout man should do.

"Say," he cried. "Am I nuts, or is that Bill Rollins over there? No, over there. The feller just sitting down at that front row table with that woman. Isn't that old Bill, the ladies' man?"

His three friends peered at the designated spot. And, amid exclamations of delight, they all agreed that it was indeed Bill Rollins.

"I'll be doggoned," said the thin man with the pimples. "We haven't seen Bill since he left the home town almost eight years ago. Hasn't changed a bit, has he? Just as handsome as ever. Wonder if he's still as much of a devil with the women?"

"Looks that way," observed the little man with the glasses. "That woman he has with him isn't bad at all, at all. He sure did raise plenty of hell around our town with those women. And never gave a hoot for any of them. I'll bet he's still the same way, too."

Tom, the stout man, stood up.

"You fellers can keep right on gabbing," he said, "but I'm gonna find out for myself. You wait a minute—and I'll bet old Bill will be tickled to death to see us all again."

The three out-of-towners watched with decided interest as Tom negotiated his way to Bill Rollins' table. They saw him slap Bill on the shoulder. They saw Bill introduce the stout man to the woman. They saw Tom pointing to their table, and Bill nodding. And in a moment, both men were on their way to their table.

Soon the five men were seated together. And it was obvious that Bill hadn't changed a bit since his wild days in the old home town.

"I'm sure happy to see all you boys again," he grinned after the first greetings had been exchanged. "Give me some news about the old town. How are Gertrude and Dorothy and Elaine and Susan and—"

The four men roared.

"Never mind about them, Bill," laughed Tom. "Most of them are married now, and they've stopped missing you. We brought you over here to tell us about yourself. That's what we wanna hear, eh, boys?"

Bill shrugged his shoulders.

"Not much to tell," he said as though he were attempting to belittle himself. "I fooled around with the market a few years, and then stepped out just in time. Made myself a nice piece of change, and I've been adding to it ever since. I'm pretty comfortable, fellows. I have no complaint at all."

"Not even with the gals, Bill?" was the sly question of the man with the pimples.

"Not even with the girls," repeated Bill. "I'm still just about the wisest man around in that direction. If they get fresh, I just slap 'em and leave 'em. Let one of them get the upper hand, and you're beaten for life.

"Not me. I'm still single, and that's the way I'm remaining. And believe me, boys, it's the only way."

A few minutes more of this and that, and Bill was on his way back to his own table. The four men watched him go.

"Gee," said the fat man wistfully, "what a man! I envy him. He's happy—and he sure knows how to handle women."

The three others sighed in unison. They, too, were thinking of their wives . . .

An hour later, a man stepped from a taxicab and removed his hat. The woman who stood beside him opened her purse and gave him a $20 bill.

"This is your last night," she growled angrily. "When I hire a gigolo for the night, I don't expect him to sit with anyone else but me. You're fired!"

"I'm sorry, madame," replied Bill Rollins meekly . . .

Broken Main Floods Troy Hill Streets

A broken water main at Hatteras and Tinsbury street, Troy Hill, last night, flooded streets in the vicinity and caused large fissures to develop in paving work. Firemen and Water Bureau employes worked for an hour to repair the break.

Dix Injured But Works

Richard Dix who upholds the tradition, "the show must go on," playing tennis with his uncle, Jack McCune, the star made a lunge for a ball, slipped and broke two small bones in his left arm. After the X-ray doctors got through with him, Rich was put to bed and RKO officials went into a blue funk.

Not without cause, either, for the film, "Stingaree," already is a hard-luck production, having been held up while Irene Dunne spent several days at the hospital.

But Rich put cheer into the front-office by announcing he will return to the set at once. He wears a cape during the current sequences of "Stingaree," and can do his work, if he can stand the pain.

TRUCK STOLEN FROM HUCKSTER

Two Negroes driving a truck with 51 sacks of potatoes, each weighing 100 pounds, and five crates of eggs were dodging police today.

The truck, owned by John Kuzniewski, a huckster, of 1920 Fifth avenue, was stolen from the owner when he went to get it at his garage on Magee street at 5:20 a. m. The Negroes forced Kuzniewski to accompany them to East Pittsburgh, he said, where he was forced to enter a car occupied by two other Negroes, who drove him to the North Side and ejected him.

At Central Police Station he was unable to say in what section of the North Side he had found himself stranded.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Morton Downey, formerly popular in "big time" vaudeville, and now called "radio's golden-voiced tenor," who is heading the stage bill in the Penn, is another example of an artist whose public has been extended from the limited field of the stage to a nation-embracing circle through the medium of the air waves. Where he formerly sang for thousands the radio has made his voice familiar to millions, and that doubtless will mean a local greeting by throngs of admirers hereabouts. His vocal program will offer favorite songs of today, with the inclusion of such older favorites requested by the audience as time will permit him to sing.

While other theaters change their programs today, the Fulton has begun the second week of "David Harum," which is proving to be one of the most successful pictures ever shown in the Sixth street house. "David Harum," with Will Rogers as the star, is a film version of the Edward Noyes Westcott novel of the same title that has been popular for many years, and is considered to be something of a humorous human-interest rural classic concerning typical characters of a day when horse-trading was a major outdoor sport. Rogers is at his best in this screen comedy, in which he is strongly supported by a cast including Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Louise Dresser and Stepin Fetchit.

Major Charles Hugh Tebay, soldier, actor and world traveler now in Pittsburgh, is receiving congratulations for his part in making "Cavalcade" the outstanding picture of 1933, as announced recently in Hollywood. Major Tebay was the technical director in scenes that pertained to the Boer and World Wars.

Eddie Cantor yesterday completed a stay in the Stanley that provided that theater with one of the best business weeks it has had in a long, long time. Seeing how things were going in the matter of attendance, the popular comedian, who used to do eight shows weekly as a musical comedy star, volunteered to do more than half that daily for the Pittsburgh folks. For the last two days of the engagement his appearances were increased from four to five. He was even forced to leave the theater by the main entrance at meal time to avoid being mobbed at the stage door.

Some old-timers of the stage will be seen in "Memory Lane," booked for the Pitt a week from today, with Joe Laurie, Jr., musical comedy star, as the headliner. Among the names familiar to theatergoers of long memory are Annie Hart and Gus Hill, who began on the stage as an Indian club swinger and later became prominent as a producer. Another in the company of 15 is William S. Handy of "St. Louis Blues" fame.

Edgewood Seniors To Present Play

Edgewood High School seniors will present "Skidding," a three-act comedy, as their annual class play this evening. The cast includes Henrietta Mumaw, William Cholka, Herbert Ransford, Lucille Baldridge and Mary Stroman.

NRA BODY RAPS SALES TAX

The Consumers' Council of Allegheny County through its chairman, Mrs. W. M. Parrish, has issued a statement assailing the proposed manufacturer's sales tax.

Other sources of taxation than families are better able to contribute to support of the government, the statement says. A sales tax would be levied upon purchasers without regard to their ability to pay, Mrs. Parrish contends. The council is one of 200 experimental groups organized under the NRA, its chief purpose being to look after consumer interests.

WATCHMAN DIES YOUTH SOUGHT

East End police today were seeking a youth in connection with the fatal beating of George Riefenach, 70, of 1242 Lincoln avenue, night watchman at the Stoecklein Baking Company plant, 7027 Apple avenue.

Riefenach died last night in Pittsburgh Hospital. His jaw was fractured by a youth he attempted to eject from the baking plant February 24, according to a Coroner's report. The assailant, allegedly intoxicated, fled after felling Riefenach. He was later arrested on a drunkenness charge but was discharged.

PITTSBURGHER FIGHTS CANAL

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP.)—Testimony that savings in transportation costs by the proposed improvement of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers might not be as great as proponents have claimed was presented to the House Rivers and Harbors Committee today in behalf of the railroads opposing the project.

Ory S. Kern, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the Coal, Coke and Iron Ore Committee of the Central Freight Association, said that increased ex-river rates on coal may never develop because of court litigation and that, therefore, it would be unfair to use them for a basis of comparison.

Those in favor of the project have maintained the Youngstown steel district needs a water outlet to the Ohio river to obtain cheaper transportation of raw materials.

Kern also said that the savings, whatever they might be, might not be passed on to the consuming public.

Chairman Mansfield (Dem.), of Texas, interrupted to say that representatives of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company had testified in other years that a substantial part of the saving by water transportation does reach the consumer. Kern replied:

"That is not what we have heard in Pittsburgh."

"HURRICANE, LTD."

"Washing done by 10 a.m. . . couldn't look nicer"

says mother who uses Chipso to save labor and keep clothes new

"Sometimes there are as many as thirty-five boys' blouses on my line—to say nothing of sweaters, socks, pajamas, shorts, household linens and my own dresses and underwear!" says Mrs. Charles C. Forster.

"The neighbors are amazed that I can get through so early. And—I don't want to boast—but no one of them puts out whiter white clothes, nor better looking colored clothes than mine.

"I wash everything with Chipso. Chipso makes such good rich suds that I don't have to waste time, nor wear the clothes out, with hard rubbing. Just let them SOAK a few minutes, then swish in those deep suds, and the dirt is out.

"Yet Chipso is perfectly safe even for silks and woolens. It doesn't take the color out of anything. And it agrees with my hands. That is why I like Chipso so much for washing dishes, too."

Chipso is not adulterated with harsh, "dirt-cutting" ingredients contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and fade colors. Chipso is SOAPIER. It loosens dirt harmlessly with RICHER SUDS. That is why Chipso-washed clothes stay new-looking for years.

BIG BOX . . . LOW PRICE . . . SOAPIER

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, your big box of Chipso is the best bargain in rich, SAFE soap on the market today.

TAX GATHERING ABUSES LAID TO LEGISLATURE

(Contrary to the belief of many residents, the tax collecting system of Pennsylvania can be modernized by an act of the legislature, economists point out in the following article. Many persons believe it is necessary to change the constitution to eliminate the commission paid collectors. This is one of a series of articles in the Sun-Telegraph campaign to reduce taxes through elimination of waste and duplication in governmental agencies.)

Pennsylvania legislators really interested in saving money for the overburdened taxpayer can cut a half million dollars from the cost of government in Allegheny County every year and save $3,000,000 for the entire state, by centralizing tax collection in each of the 67 counties. Many persons are under the impression that it is necessary to change the state constitution to eliminate the small army of collectors in favor of a single receiver of taxes, but this is not necessary, economists declare.

At least a half dozen times in the last 13 years efforts have been made to centralize tax collection and eliminate the several thousand collectors who are paid a portion of the tax money they collect.

The idea of centralizing tax collection in each county is not new. As far back as 1921 a bill was presented in the Legislature by Representative Marshall of Beaver County which would make the county treasurer the receiver of taxes for all sub-divisions in the county. In 1923, in 1925, in 1927 and on two occasions since the latter date, bills have been presented in Harrisburg to centralize tax collection, but all have been defeated.

5,624 UNITS

In the state of Pennsylvania there are 5,624 political units, each having the power to levy and collect taxes. Each unit has its own collector, although in many cases the school and governmental unit have the same collector. No matter how many collectors, there are 5,624 governmental and school units paying out a portion of the tax money to collectors.

There are approximately 150 tax collectors in Allegheny county. In 1932 more than $232,000 was paid out to the 150 collectors as their commissions for collection of $23,732,157 in city, borough, poor, county, township and county taxes. The same year it is estimated that about $300,000 was paid out in commissions to the same men for collecting the school taxes in the various boroughs, townships and cities of the county.

MRS. MILLER'S VIEWS

Mrs. J. O. Miller of the Allegheny County League of Woman Voters, a leader in the fight for centralization of tax collections, states:

"The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has retained its old and out-dated system of collecting taxes, in spite of the fact that many of the neighboring states have adopted a modern and up-to-date system.

"In Ohio where they have a modern system of assessment and collection, the county treasurer collects all taxes within the county, including county, city, borough, township, school and poor taxes. They are all put on one statement and the taxpayer can pay his bill at one central office, covering all taxes he must pay. This, of course, cuts down enormously the cost and permits all kinds of efficiency systems to be inaugurated.

"It has been estimated that if we had such a system in Pennsylvania, instead of costing more than a half million dollars each 12 months, it would cost about $198,614."

Mrs. Miller's statement is just one of scores which have been published in the campaign of the Sun-Telegraph during the last three months. A large number of the candidates seeking to be elected to the Legislature or the State Senate have announced they are in favor of governmental economies and consolidation, including the consolidation of all tax collections.

Dozens of civic and taxpayers groups are planning to make a concentrated effort during the next session of the Legislature to force through centralized tax collection, one of the many duplications reviewed here in its various phases during the newspaper campaign.

Taxpayers Threaten Strike in Somerset

SOMERSET, Pa., March 23.—(AP.)—Threat of a taxpayers' strike was heard in the Somerset County Commissioners' office as a delegation of citizens demanded reduced property assessments.

The Commissioners, who raised many of the valuations fixed by the assessors, said they would consider the petition.

Soy Bean Is Increasing In Popularity

Low in Carbohydrates but Rich in Fat Content. It Is An Excellent Substitute for Meats and Can Be Used as a Baking Flour for Diabetics

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City.
United States Senator from New York.

Few Americans are familiar with the many uses and nutritive values of the soy bean. This food is popular in the diet of the peoples of the Far East, where it has been used for hundreds of years. It is a valuable food, containing many of the important ingredients found in meat. In fact, it is an excellent substitute for that staple food. Since it is more economical than meat, it forms the main dish in the diet of millions of Japanese and Chinese.

Great sections of land in Oriental countries have been set aside for the cultivation of this bean. It is easily grown and can be stored for years. In addition, it enriches the soil in which it grows and so aids the farmer when he plants other crops.

No doubt you will be surprised to learn that the soy bean is now extensively grown in this country. Though its real nutritive value has only been recently recognized, the bean was cultivated here a century ago. It was first grown in a small section of Pennsylvania. Since then many varieties and large quantities of the bean have been grown. Today thousands of acres are cultivated for the production of this unusual vegetable.

I call it an "unusual" vegetable, for it is one of the few vegetables whose protein content is high enough to make it an important source of this food element. Like meat, this vegetable furnishes sufficient protein to promote normal growth and development. When meat is excluded from the diet it is essential that some vegetable like the soy bean be substituted.

HIGH FAT CONTENT

The soy bean has a high fat content, but is low in carbohydrates or starches. Its fat content makes it a concentrated food. It furnishes fuel to the body. It enables energy or heat to be expanded and allows the body to function properly.

Because of its low carbohydrate content, it makes an excellent flour for baking bread and cakes, for diabetics. The flour obtained from the bean is successfully used in the feeding of infants suffering from diarrhea, marasmus, malnutrition and other constitutional disorders.

HAS MANY USES

Though the primary use of the soy bean is as a vegetable, it may be used in a variety of ways. For example, soy bean oil, obtained from the bean, is used as a substitute for salad, frying oils, butter, lard and margarine. It is also used in the making of glycerine, paints, soaps, linoleum and other manufactured products.

When the soy bean is crushed and boiled in water, a nutritious milk is obtained. This has often served in emergencies and during famines as the only means of nourishment. A condensed form of this milk is manufactured in Japan.

It is probable the soy bean will become more and more popular. It deserves wider use in the American diet. I can think of no better substitute for meat. It is a food of great importance.

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

GERMAN APPLE CAKE—½ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon vanilla, grated rind of ½ lemon.

Cream the butter, add sugar and cream together thoroughly. Add one egg at a time, beating vigorously. Add flour and salt which have been sifted together and beat well. Stir in the vanilla and the lemon rind. Pour into an oiled pan. Cut apples into slices about ¾ inch thick and arrange in rows on top of the batter (curved side of the slices placed in opposite directions in alternate rows). Sprinkle generously with sugar and a little cinnamon. Dot with bits of butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 40 minutes.

SAUCE.—2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 4 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup water, dash of nutmeg, 1 teaspoon vinegar.

Melt butter, add flour and sugar and mix well. Add water gradually, stirring constantly. Add nutmeg, vinegar, and salt, and cook about 5 minutes or until it reaches the desired consistency.

* * *

ASPARAGUS CLUB SANDWICH—Cut bread in ¼ inch slices and toast on one side. Butter the untoasted side. Cover with crisp lettuce, then add a layer of asparagus tips and spread with mayonnaise. Add a layer of sliced chicken and season well with salt and pepper. Cover with a piece of toast and repeat the filling. Top with toast. Hold together with toothpicks if necessary. Garnish with tomato wedges and sweet gherkins.

* * *

BUTTERED ARTICHOKE HEARTS—Drain liquid from artichoke hearts. Heat in a little browned butter and season well with salt and pepper. If desired a little paprika may be sprinkled over them. Allow 3 or 4 to each serving.

* * *

CORN PATIES FOR CHICKEN—Two tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup whole grain corn or cream style corn, 2 egg whites.

Sift together the flour, salt and sugar. Combine the beaten egg yolks with the corn, add to the dry ingredients and mix well. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop 2 to 3 spoonfuls for each patty in a small amount of hot fat in a frying pan. Fry on both sides until a golden brown. Serve under pieces of fried chicken or as a base for chicken a la king. This recipe will serve six persons.

PAPRIKA CORN—Heat a No. 2 can (or 2½ cups) whole grain corn and season well with butter, salt and pepper. Sprinkle generously with paprika, and mix.

PIGS FEET ASPIC—4 pigs feet, cut into four parts; 1 pound tripe, cut in small pieces; 1 teaspoonful salt, dash of allspice, cloves and pepper.

Wash tripe and pigs feet and place into large pot, add about 2 quarts of water, salt, onion and spice, and boil until meat loosens from the bone. Add more water should it boil down when nearly done, allow stock to boil down to half of its original amount. Place in one large ring mold or distribute meat with stock into individual molds. Before aspic freezes, if you wish, add sliced lemon, sliced stuffed olives, chopped chives or young onions.

If you allow stock to boil down to about ½ of the pot, no gelatin is needed, but if there is more stock than meat gelatin is needed. Submitted by Miss Anna Zivic, South Millvale avenue.

* * *

PEAS, PARTY STYLE—2 tablespoons fat, 3 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, few grains pepper, ¾ cup liquid from peas, ½ cup cream, 2 cups peas (drained), pastry shells.

Heat fat, add flour, salt, sugar and pepper and mix well. Add pea liquid and cream, slowly. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Add peas and heat thoroughly. Pour into individual size rich pastry shells. Sprinkle with paprika. Serves 6.

JUNIOR PATROL

Your health is more precious than rubies, fellows

There are still many terrible diseases for which the wisest doctors do not know any sure cure. There are many other kinds of sickness from which no one ever recovers without damage.

But most diseases and troubles can be avoided if you are careful, and if you keep health rules.

For instance, if you have a small cut, don't neglect it. Put a good antiseptic on it that really kills germs, and wrap it up so that dirt don't get in it. One of the best treatments for small cuts and scratches is to wash them good with soap and water. There are terrible germs everywhere, and if they get into a fellow's blood through a small cut or scratch, you will be very ill and may even die.

For anything more serious see your doctor without delay. Especially if you have a pain that doesn't quickly go away. Pain is nature's way of telling a fellow that there is something wrong. Always do something about it.

Learning first aid is something every girl and fellow ought to do. Many people have died because there was no one to put a tourniquet on an artery to stop the blood from a deep cut.

Now, here is a letter today from Laurence Palmieri, of R. F. D. No. 2, Export, Pa. He writes:

"We have organized a club at Danningtown, Pa., and have 17 members. Five are already members and I am sending you 12 more. I have been elected captain of our club and I have decided to have regular meetings once a week. We plan to do many things."

We are sending you an armband, Laurence. Write again soon and tell us what you are doing.

And this letter is from Eddie E. Rieck, of 26 Gladstone road, Pittsburgh. He writes:

"My sister, Letitia, always reads me the Junior Patrol and other funnies. I'm 6 years old and my sister is 8 years old. I have a little brother who is 4 and he is going to be 5 this year. I'm 4 feet high and weigh 60 pounds, and I'm a blond, too."

HINTS FOR EASTER EGG DYES FOUND IN TODAY'S RECIPES

Safely first has become a by-word not only when we're in the midst of traffic, but also in the preparation of our foods.

With Easter at hand many mothers are worried as to the safe preparation of colored eggs. Prudence Penny today tells them how to dye eggs safely.

Cook as many eggs as are needed, using a large quantity of water. Use one pint plus an additional cup for each egg. Do not boil the water after the eggs are added. Rather, bring the water to the boiling point and then turn the gas very low.

Allow eggs to remain in water at this temperature for one hour and fifteen minutes. Remove from water and place in enough cold water to cover. Dissolve vegetable dyes in boiling water. Lower temperature to just below boiling point. Dip eggs in dye solution, allowing them to remain to color delicately.

Remove at once and store in a cold place for from four to six hours and preferably over night. Use only vegetable dyes to prevent any poisoning of the eggs.

Send your suggestions together with your recipes to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. She daily distributes one $5 prize and 10 $1 prizes to the best recipes received. No recipes are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. E. V. HERMAN,
81 Radium Street.
HOLLANDAISE SOUP

One quart vegetable stock.
Four tablespoons butter.
Four tablespoons flour.
Four egg yolks.
One-half pint cream.
One-half cup green peas (cooked).
One-half cup carrots (cut in small pieces, cooked).
One-half cup cucumbers.
One teaspoon sugar.
One teaspoon tarragon.

Trim peas, carrots and cucumbers with round cutter size peas. Cook them in boiling water, being careful not to cook them too much. Melt butter and flour in stew pan, add stock and let boil well. Break egg yolks into a pan and add cream, then add the fusion of eggs and cream to stock. Let it just come to a boil, being careful it does not curdle. Strain into a clean stew pan, add vegetables which have been cooked and tarragon. Serve with cheese crackers.

When brown, add egg white, beaten stiffly and let dry in the oven. Add a pound of good coffee to this if a stronger beverage is desired. MRS. C. F. McGLUMPHY, 2107 Commerce street, Wellsburg, W. Va.
CINNAMON NUT ROLLS

Dough—Mix together one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons lard and two cups boiling water. Let stand until lukewarm. Add one cake yeast mixed in one-half cup water, lukewarm, with one and one-half teaspoons sugar and one tablespoon salt. Add two well-beaten eggs. Mix in enough flour to make dough stiff enough to handle without sticking. Place in a greased bowl and grease lightly the top of dough. Let stand in cool place over night.

Caramel mixture—Make a caramel mixture by cooking three tablespoons butter and one and one-half cups sugar until light brown. Add one and one-half cups boiling water and cook to heavy syrup. Put into greased baking pan and sprinkle well with nut meats. Roll out dough to less than one-half-inch thickness. Roll about one-third of dough at a time into an oblong shape. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle with nut meats, sugar and cinnamon. Roll loosely the short way. Cut crosswise in pieces about two inches long, put into caramel mixture on cut edge, allowing about one inch around each for rising. Let rise three hours and bake in a fairly hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. This makes about three dozen large rolls. All of it need not be used at once as the dough will keep in refrigerator until used.

SCHOOLS TO JOIN RUSHMORE CONTEST

Plans were being rushed today to complete arrangements for active participation of public and parish schools throughout the Greater Pittsburgh district in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition.

Information important to the thousands of pupils in high and grade schools will be published early next week. Hundreds of pupils already have turned to their history books in quest of historical information for writing their 600-word texts. It may be that some grade school pupil may in plain and simple words write the nation's history that will be accepted by the national memorial committee, of which President Roosevelt is chairman, for the basis of the South Dakota mountainside's carved inscription.

LEADERS ENTHUSED

Educational leaders everywhere deem the competition as a stirring project to stimulate interest in the history of America. Marcus Aaron, president of the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education, considers the competition as a worthwhile project for all Americans. Writing from Phoenix, Ariz., Mr. Aaron said:

"Finer than anything in America, though itself in the nature of the intangible, is the spirit of America. It underlies the best of our thinking and stands as a challenge to idealism and national honor. It is as indestructible as matter, as forceful as energy. It is a pity, nevertheless, that so few out of the multitude of our citizens sense the potentiality of the greatest gift that America has to offer the world—the gift of the . merican spirit.

FUTURE SAFEGUARD

"The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, in sponsoring the competition, are stimulating thought on what has been most worthwhile in our history. In general diffusion among the great masses of our people, of the noblest ideals of America, lies our safeguard against the future."

Every man, woman and child is invited to express the spirit of the nation's progress. Helpful articles and suggestions, as well as the rules and awards, are repeatedly to be found in the Sun-Telegraph.

Praises Contest

MARCUS AARON

Mr. Aaron, president of the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education, who today lauded the Rushmore competition as a stimulant awakening interest in the ideals of America and the spirit that inspires progress.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS!

:-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-:

By MARION BRUNOT

We Must Burn Old Bridges Before Building New Ones

The PUBLIC. What of it?

Does it always clamor for that POUND OF FLESH from near the heart of the wrongdoer?

Does the one who has erred always have to step aside to let those who have been good have the choice places in the vanguard?

Letters asking advice along this line pile in upon me. An open forum like this SPEAK UP, SISTERS! of mine, always brings the letters steeped in tears of repentance. Yet always underneath is that desire which only hope can awaken.

We also find BITTERNESS in these down-and-out folk of society. Who is SOCIETY, they ask, that it can weigh us so sanguinely? Sometimes we also find a boldness that is quite beyond the understanding of those who have stayed smugly within the lines laid out for them.

There is a story told in the ancient wisdom of mankind, for such people. There are three great doors between man and the most desired of portals. On the first door is written clearly: BE BOLD.

On the second is inscribed, a trifle larger in its lettering: BE MORE BOLD.

And then after tramping eagerly and intrepidly forward for an indefinite number of miles, the last door is reached. And on it written in even larger form is: BUT BE NOT TOO BOLD.

That is the way of life, sisters. A certain aggressiveness is needed all along the line. But this aggressiveness can be carried too far, and will thwart our very ends. Patience, a true desire to be honest, a willingness to serve for our deliverance against what we have done. All these are necessary, if we want to leave behind us what we now realize was wrong.

EXPERIENCE IS TEACHER

To say that no one can really come out of the slough of despondency brought about by their own acts, is ridiculous. In fact, it is not true. All we have to do is to read history and see for ourselves that many people who have done what seemed unpardonable things, have risen to tremendous places in the world.

Experience is no mean teacher. She takes her toll, and cruelly. But if you really learn the lessons she gives you, she will also shove you forward exactly where you want to be.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am the PUBLIC. And I am writing for the benefit of hundreds of young people.

Should a young man who has sown his wild oats be received into good favor again? Should a young man who has done what he pleased and gone where he desired, and made friends where he shouldn't, be taken into the bosom of good clean society?

There is such a young man in our town. And now he wants to be a good citizen. He wants to marry into a good family and become connected with the big business of the community. He was very young when he erred, and now more wisdom has come with the years. But there are a few difficulties in his way.

FUTURE FOR EVERYONE

There are those who BEAR A GRUDGE AGAINST HIM.

There are those whom he ONE TIME HURT.

What future is there for him? Can he walk right into the heart of his old-time territory and make good? Can he rise above what he has done? Should this girl whom he desires to marry, wed him? She cares for him. But is afraid!

THE PUBLIC.

Fear sometimes is an excellent warning for us. This I say to the prospective bride.

There is a future for everyone, and it is much to his own making. But where there are past debts to be paid, these had better be well settled before any new affiliations are formed.

No man can go on indefinitely and not square himself. There is a moral law against that, and a man cannot pass around among his kind and not have someone recognize his true self. He may skip around corners and in the dark. He may ride upon the crest of the wave for awhile. He may find many who are willing to accept him as what he seems to be. But someone, when he is least expecting it, will confront him and say: "Pay up, or be downed."

We must BURN OUR OLD BRIDGES IF WE SUCCESSFULLY INTEND TO BUILD NEW ONES.

Otherwise the old ones will be there, in a less conspicuous place, as EYESORES for our NEW PUBLIC.

Fay King Glad That Women Are Knitting in This Machine Age

By FAY KING

Crocheting and knitting are now a fad with women again.

Everywhere we see busy fingers and flying needles turning skeins of yarn into beautiful collars, sweaters and even whole dresses.

In this machine age we had almost forgotten what can be done by hand.

So it is amazing to watch the twining and looping of a single strand of wool, through fingers and over a hooked needle become a pretty thing that can be worn and will fit perfectly.

Crocheting and knitting are old arts.

The modern girl as she works away counting, purling, dropping and looping must in her heart salute those women of long, long ago who first discovered what can be done with hooked needles, skeins of yarn, willing hands and patience.

Contract Bridge

:-: HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Too Many High Cards

A correspondent recently wrote to me and asked me to suggest the best possible line of bidding to reach a Grand Slam on a hand which he held. The chief difficulty, in his opinion, was that the South hand held too much and the North hand too little. This difficulty, he seemed to feel, was virtually insuperable. I am afraid I must disagree with this gentleman, as scientific bidding methods should enable seven-odd to be reached on the hand in two different ways.

South, Dealer.

North and South not vulnerable.

♠ J 6 4
♡ Q 6 5
◇ K Q 8 2
♣ 7 5 3

West North East South

♠ A K Q 7
♡ A K 8
◇ A 3
♣ A K Q 10

Unquestionably, the best Opening bid on the South hand is two spades, and North, with 1½ honor-tricks, is entitled to respond with three notrump, after which South can immediately jump to seven.

Assuming, however, that North, because of his bad distribution, decides to first respond with only two notrump, South will now bid three clubs, and North three diamonds. Over three diamonds South will, of course, offer a Slam try by bidding four notrump, and North, having previously bid only two notrump, cannot mislead his partner by bidding six. It is then a simple matter for South to bid seven.

A third method of bidding the hand, which I do not advocate but nevertheless believe has considerable merit, is to open the bidding with four notrump on the South hand. This bid, despite the fact that only nine tricks in Aces, Kings and Queens are held, must be reasonably safe, as either the long club or long spade should set up, even if North holds an absolute blank. The chief advantage of opening the bidding with four notrump on this hand is to insure that the South hand will be the eventual Declarer and that the weaker hand will be exposed. Thus, if the hand is a close one, the defense will not be aided by viewing South's galaxy of high cards exposed on the table. Naturally, over South's four-notrump bid, North, with 1½ honor-tricks, should not bid merely five notrump, but six, which call will enable South to bid seven.

All that is needed to facilitate the reaching of the Grand Slam on this hand is for the North player, despite his own skimpy honor-trick holding, to have faith in his partner's terrifically strong bidding, and accordingly show the full strength of his own hand. Although a King, two Queens and a Knave are not much in themselves, they mean an awful lot when partner opens with a two-bid or with a four-notrump bid.

TOMORROW'S HAND

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

-:- -:- Hints for the Household -:- -:-

Collect all clean pieces of dry bread, put into a paper bag and when the oven is warm or when the gas is turned off just after a dinner has been cooked put the bread in to dry. When the crusts are thoroughly crisp crush them with a rolling pin until they are like fine bread crumbs. Kept in a well-corked jar these are invaluable for coating rissoles, fish or ham.

Mix borax with equal parts of castor sugar and sprinkle in all dark corners of the house if you are troubled with black beetles.

If thin frocks have a habit of slipping off their hangers, cover the latter with a strip of velvet. This will hold even the softest frock securely.

To make candles last twice as long, coat them with white varnish. Allow to dry and harden.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Informal Dinner

Mrs. Beeckman:

May service plates be used at the informal dinner table? If so, do they remain in place until the salad is served?

2—May the very small individual salt and pepper shakers be used on the informal dinner table?

3—Would two of those little china figures or statues be all right to use on the informal dinner table instead of the usual centerpiece filled with fruit or flowers?

4—I notice much pure white table linen on display in the stores now. Are the colored linens out of date? I hope not . . . I have some very lovely colored table linens. M.

1—Service plates are usually not used on an informal table unless there is service in the household. This is sensible, since the removing of the service plates means another service gesture, and usually the hostess without service tries to limit the motions of her service. And if service plates are used on an informal table, they must not be very elaborate ones, since this, obviously, would not be appropriate. If you do use service plates, they are exchanged for the heated dinner plates that are placed for the main course.

2—Yes.

3—Yes. Figures often are charmingly effective and artistic placed as decorative details on either a formal or an informal dinner table. They may be used alone, or with the centerpiece, instead, say, of comports.

4—Don't be the slightest bit worried about having colored table linens, and certainly not about using them. They are delightfully appropriate on informal tables.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Katie's Comedy Breaks Tension

Without realizing it, Katie had hit upon the one thing needful to give "escape" to my racked nerves. She had not consciously attempted any especial appeal to my risibles. Katie is perpetually in the state known as "looking for an audience—but the sight of Jim's outraged face, his mouth so filled with the wedding cake his irate spouse had crammed into it that he could not speak, did more to relax the tension of my nerves than anything else could have accomplished.

I did not dare to remain in the kitchen another second. To laugh at Jim's predicament would have been unthinkable. The honest, slow, but sensitive chap would have been too deeply humiliated for words. But I knew that I could not be responsible for my laughter muscles. So with a perfunctory "good night" I hurried out of the kitchen and down the hall. When my father caught up with me at the veranda door, I was leaning against the door post, helpless with laughter.

Wisely my father realized that this laughter was not hysteria, and stood quietly smiling down at me until I had finished. Then he took my arm and guided me toward the porch hammock, where I had declared my intention of resting until Roderick and Junior returned, with the rest of the party, from the moonlight drive to the ocean which Edith Fairfax had proposed.

"Katie ought to hang out her shingle as a psychiatrist," my father said with a chuckle.

TREMORS GONE

"I quite agree with you," I told him. "Oh! Isn't it heavenly out here?"

"That is the right word," my father said, pausing, with his arm around me, to look out over the vista of lawn, meadows and woodland dipping toward the distance ocean, which is so dear to both of us, and which, flooded with moonlight, was almost unearthly in its radiance.

"But it's also too chilly for you," he said a few seconds later. "Come, let me tuck you up on the couch. But—shouldn't you change your gown first?"

I looked down at my evening gown with an apologetic laugh. So swept with fear and hysteria had I been that I had forgotton I was still attired in the new gown I had purchased for Mary's wedding.

"Of course," I answered promptly. "How absurd I am! I'll run up and change to something warm immediately."

"I'll go with you," he said, evidently with the thought of my former tremors vividly in his mind.

I wheeled and, laying my hands upon his shoulders, looked him steadily in the eyes.

"No more tremors tonight," I said. "Between your drastic discipline," I smiled sidewise at him, "and Katie's comedy, I am rapidly convalescing, if not entirely cured. Please stay down here. I shall be less than five minutes."

GRATIFIED VANITY

I was as good as my word, although I was vain enough to select the pair of lounging pajamas which Dicky had so much admired. A pair of sheer stockings was my sop to convention, but I clung to the satin "mules" which matched the pajamas. My coiffure was still in good condition, I noticed with satisfaction, and, when I had freshened my face a bit, I threw around me a lightweight lounging robe which Lillian had given me for my birthday, and which was as warm as it was attractive.

As I left the room I gave a last glance at my reflection, and felt a little glow of gratified vanity. I was not so silly as to think I "held a candle" to the fresh, flower-petal loveliness of the young girls of our party—even to Avis Arlen's artificially constructed beauty—but, I told myself, I did not need to fear comparison with Edith Fairfax. And that consolation was balm to my hungry soul. I could not have borne presenting a frowsy picture to my husband, and—yes, I acknowledged it honestly—to Hugh and the others, when they should return from their drive. As it was—

My father's voice brought me back from my vanity-laden speculation, but his words did nothing to curb it.

"Please stand still a moment," he said from the foot of the stairs, "and let me look at you. How beautiful you are tonight, my darling! You are startling in your resemblance to your mother. I have watched her come downstairs in the same regal fashion."

Probe of Air Scandals Urged on Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

The greatest trust between man and man is the trust of giving counsel.—BACON.

As the American people sadly count the awful cost in life and treasures that has followed in the wake of the cancellation of all domestic air mail contracts, they will sympathize with the recent appeal of their militant warace which so angered Senator McKellar, of Tennessee.

This appeal was made before the Senate Postoffice Committee of which Senator McKellar is chairman. It was made by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and was to this effect:

That the administration purge its councils of those so-called advisers who instigated the cancellation of all domestic air mail contracts without giving the holders of those contracts their day in court which is the birthright of every loyal American.

It is not surprising that this appeal should have provoked the ire of Senator McKellar. He shares with Senator Black, of Alabama, according to general belief, the unenviable responsibility of urging upon the administration the mistaken course it took.

But the urgings of Senator McKellar and Senator Black probably would not have prevailed had they not been aided and abetted by Secretary Roper's wrecking crew in the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce and by the politicians of the Postoffice Department.

Administration Repeatedly Warned

BOTH Congress and the administration were given repeated warnings in this and other newspapers many months ago that the debauching of the aeronautics branch to the sordid purposes of partisan politics and personal publicity would ultimately result in incalculable damage to American air transport, to the Federal airmail, and to commercial aeronautics generally.

It was the disruption of the aeronautics branch which began last summer and continued through the autumn and winter months that did much to pave the way for the disaster that has overtaken all American aviation.

And some of the worst of the bad counsels and misinformation that misled the administration and finally tempted it into the sudden cancellation of all air mail contracts, without due process of law, are believed to have come from some of Secretary Roper's appointees in the aeronautics branch.

Had Congress done its duty in time and subjected Secretary Roper's disruption of this branch to a fearless and non-political investigation, many subsequent blunders of which American aviation is today the victim might have been averted.

Sooner or later, either by the present Congress or by the one to be elected next November, the searchlight of a Congressional investigation must be turned upon the aeronautics branch if the blame for its maladministration is to be fixed and the blameworthy held to a strict accountability.

* * *

Questions That Must Be Answered

ONLY a Congressional investigation of the aeronautics branch can find the answer to such questions as the following:

Who were the sponsors of the political appointees that replaced the carefully selected experts of proven competency, whom Secretary Roper forced out of the aeronautics branch in order to make vacancies?

How many air transport operators had a hand in this nefarious transformation of what was once a non-political and expert Federal agency into what has become an auxiliary of politicians and disgruntled because unsuccessful bidders for air mail contracts?

How many kinsmen and jobless constituents of senators and Congressmen, how many ex-employees of favored air transport operators have been appointed to the aeronautics branch under the two-fold pretense of economy and efficiency?

How much public money has been squandered by the aeronautics branch in planned publicity paid for by the hard-earned savings of the overburdened taxpayers of the United States?

Where did the aeronautics branch get the inspiration for its fantastic proposal that the government build flivver planes and construct flivver landing fields at the very time when the government was refusing funds to maintain the federal airways in accord with the requirements of federal law?

Until the searchlight of an honest, fair and fearless committee of the Congress has been turned upon Secretary Roper's disruption of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, the regulation of civil aeronautics will continue to suffer.

Nor will the American people find out the whole truth about the betrayal of the administration by those who gave it the worst of bad counsel when they urged the tragic course that has taken such heavy toll of brave lives and hard-earned treasure.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Consolation for stay-at-homes up North is the new suit dress. A grand model in black is trimmed with rows of looped tiny fringe, snipped from the spongy wool fabric of the frock. The simulated coat opens over a vest in multi-hued, Chinese scarf print silk, with a big chin bow.

You will be aware before long that beige is an important spring color. A smart new coat in beige novelty woolen has no trimming except a lot of self-stitching and its own lovely lines. It has a small upstanding collar and the yoke is a cut-out square. Big patch pockets help its casual look.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Because you have had good luck and fortunate breaks, do you think you are made of a better clay than many other humans?

Why do you come to such a conclusion?

Many of those you label "inferiors" have had better breeding, and are of more honorable character than yourself, as investigation might show you.

A person is either a credit to the benefits which he has inherited, or he is a disgrace to his background.

The turns of fortune in your life may have given you a polish and standing which give you a notch or two of advantage on life's ladder.

But when worth, principle and ideals are balanced against your refined, polite surface, how do you stand?

In worldly ways you may be considered the acme of your social associates, but that is as far as the comparison will measure to your advantage.

Your background—what was it? Not such as would give you the right to be rude to others.

Even as head of a business or a department you would succeed in greater measure if you were less arrogant and self-important.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Inheritance

One grandmother left me a ruby pin,
With a shawl from across the sea
And a chest full of laces so fine and thin
They are frail as man's charity.

And one grandmother left me a smiling mouth
And eyes that can see no wrong.
With a heart that is ardent and warm as the south
And a spirit attuned to song.

And a name which is old and proud;
The other one gave me a steadfast will
That can never be quelled or cowed.

They were dear old souls and I loved them well
In a dutiful grandchild's way;
But the stately house I may have to sell
While the smile on my lips will stay.

If last August you had stood in our ketchup kitchens and seen the round red Heinz tomatoes coming in from the fertile fields and had heard how these beauties had been a few short hours ago picked from luxurious plants which in turn had been raised from finest seeds cross-bred and cultured in Heinz greenhouses—and

If you then had observed how within a few more short hours these red ripe beauties were sorted, washed, scalded, sieved and set to slow simmering in kettles, with rare Heinz-selected spices blended in—and

If today, on your breakfast eggs, or your luncheon chop, or your dinner steak you poured a small thick-standing dash of Heinz Tomato Ketchup, and marveled at its rich good looks and thrilled to its fresh, live, sprightly flavor—

HEINZ oven-baked BEANS

Variety, lady, variety! That's what makes your good providing a continuing success. Get away from beef and lamb and veal now and then, and serve a welcome, exciting surprise. See the family perk up, sniff, munch, and pass back for more, when you serve them Heinz Oven-Baked Beans.

For baked-bean-munching is an ancient American pastime and Heinz Baked Beans are the good old-fashioned kind.

Listen!

We buy "choice hand-picked" beans. We cull them closely, under strong lights, so that every bean used may be perfect. Then we soak them many hours in clear cold water.

Then we bake them. Bake them the old Colonial way, thoroughly, in hot, dry ovens. Baking makes them munchy, and mealy. Baking makes them more digestible and so more healthful. Baking enables us to replace the original bean-moisture with rich, savory sauce, which means you get good eating through and through. Baking is, in fact, the only way to make beans a glorious, exciting dish. So we bake them.

Take a few pennies to your Grocer for Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Take a few minutes to heat them. And give your family a happy change from the eternal meat-routine . . . But, lady, please remember that

STOCKS WAIT LABOR PEACE MOVES

Stocks were mildly mixed during the early hours. The ticker tape dragged along at a snail's pace. Fractional changes were the rule. With the motor labor situation in status quo, notwithstanding reports of progress in the Presidential negotiations for settlement, traders showed little inclination to step out of line.

There was much timidity in commodity transactions. Grains were slightly easier as were rubber futures. Cotton was up a trifle and silver did better. Bonds were spotty. Foreign exchanges were featureless.

The activity in the alcohol group was attributed partially to reports that some of the companies are enjoying highly satisfactory earnings and are preparing to meet the demand for lower liquor prices without cutting into net profits appreciably.

Much interest continued to be shown in the hearings on the stock exchange control bill, although members generally believed that few important changes could be expected in the revamped measure.

The financial sector voiced its approval of the amendments proposed by Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, to the Securities Act of 1933. It was felt that these amendments, lessening the liability of issuing corporations and giving more discretionary powers to the Federal Trade Commission, would especially tend to stimulate heavy industries through the loosening up of capital.

Rumors of a possible boost in the gold price, after the government's April 15 financing is out of the way, persisted. Concern was expressed over the failure of most commodities to move out of a narrow groove. At the same time, the Bureau of Agriculture Economics reported that cash farm income for February declined 71 million dollars as compared with January. Part of this decline, however, was said to be seasonal and part due to decreased governmental benefit and rental payments.

The more than seasonal increase of 13,371 freight car loadings for the week ended March 17, placed the total at 625,773, another peak since October 28, last. The seasonal gain, it was figured, should have been about 600 cars. The exceptional spurt was said to have been caused partly by rushing shipments in order to get ahead of possible hikes in the major industries.

WHEAT CLOSES AT DECLINE

CHICAGO, March 23.—Awaiting definite developments regarding automobile labor troubles and as to stock exchange regulation by Congress, grain trade dwindled today, and wheat prices averaged lower.

Wheat dealings were the smallest met with in a long while, and ceased altogether at times. Some observers said that until uncertainty regarding the industrial situation was out of the way and that more was known about 1934 crop prospects only relatively slight price changes were to be expected.

Wheat closed draggy, unchanged to 3/8 down as compared with yesterday's finish. May 87 1/8-1/4, corn 1/4-1/2 off, oats at 1/8-1/4 decline, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Corporate Earnings

Texas Corporation earnings in the final half of last year nearly offset a loss of approximately $11,500,000 suffered in the first half, the 1933 report issued today discloses. Net loss for the year totaled to $491,603, compared with loss of $2,161,840 in 1932. Low prices for crude oil and refined products during the first half accounted for the deficit in that period, the report stated.

Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Company report for 1933 shows net income of $362,736 after depreciation, federal taxes etc., equal to 31 cents a share on 1,112,500 shares of capital stock excluding shares in treasury. This compares with net of $107,705 or 10 cents a share on 1,114,920 shares in 1932.

American Rolling Mill Company and subsidiaries report net loss of $637,089 for the year ended December 31, as compared with a loss of $2,029,602 in the previous year. Sales totaled $11,838,917, as against $27,294,322 in 1932.

Safety Car Heating and Lighting Company reports net profit in 1933 of $261,175 after taxes and 100 per cent reserve on fixed assets amounted during the year equivalent to $2.46 a share. This compares with profit of $232,736 in 1932.

Burns Brother and subsidiaries for 1933 report net loss of $2,515,345 after all charges, against loss of $2,949,486 in 1932.

Financiers Ask Who Dictates

By B. C. FORBES

Commented one man of affairs carrying vast responsibilities:

"Although it was business and industry that raised America to the foremost place among the nations of the world, apparently we business men are regarded today as of contemptibly little account.

Mr. Forbes

"It looks as if we are bound to be subjected to one kind of dictatorship or another. It appeared for a while as if all power was to be vested in Washington.

"Now labor leaders aspire to battle for dominating influence.

"Until the outlook clears up, nobody can blame business men if they feel obliged to pull in their horns and follow a wait-and-see policy."

THAT RECENT events have had a restraining influence upon heads of business organizations and others cannot be doubted.

This is deeply regrettable because, after all, unless recovery in business and employment can be achieved, nothing else will restore national prosperity or security. A multitude of "reforms" may be desirable, but if "reforms" thwart improvement in economic conditions, our last state will inevitably be worse than our first.

Bringing about more jobs surely is of more moment than bringing about more "reforms" calculated to kill jobs.

EVEN THE most optimistic of employers who have been enjoying increasing business are uneasy over threatening labor trouble.

A MINISTER who labors in a very poor section is sometimes chided by gracious, pious lady supporters for not concentrating wholly upon redeeming souls. He explains to them that he has discovered from long experience that it is utterly useless to attempt to talk religion to a human being who is starving for a meal, and that, therefore, he feeds unfortunates before attempting to convert them.

This discovery is commended to certain sheer theorists at Washington so obsessed by their millennial notions that they completely overlook the stern fact that meanwhile stomachs and pay envelopes have to be filled.

I HEAR that, for once, Gen. Johnson's table-thumping didn't work; that a small delegation of motor manufacturers to whom he began to lay down the law vociferously, walked out on him. Then it was that President Roosevelt took the helm.

RETAIL TRADE EXPANDING

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP.)—Dun & Bradstreet said today that "reports received from all parts of the country this week reveal sales of Easter and spring goods surging above anticipated quotas." The review said:

"The average gain in retail sales over those of last year is placed at 48 per cent, while in many instances the 1932 figures have been passed by 10 to 12 per cent.

"Because of the prevailing rising markets inventories have been doubled, as retailers are anticipating needs in advance of normal requirements. Wholesalers report even greater gains than retailers, and are expressing concern over the inability of manufacturers to supply some grades of the most popular types of merchandise, because of restrictions of operations by NRA provisions.

"The course of leading industrial indices now is showing greater uniformity in reaching higher positions, production almost without exception being at definitely higher levels in comparisons with the same period last year."

Banks Adopting More Liberal Policy

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

BANKERS ARE becoming more liberal in their credit policies. There has been a noticeable change in this direction during the past 60 days, Controller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor declared during his visit to Pittsburgh yesterday.

He said that some banks still are following a policy of excessive liquidity but that conditions, as a whole, are vastly improved.

The increase in confidence in banks due to the operation of deposit insurance has had much to do with the liberalization of credit policies, in the Comptroller's opinion. Banks no longer need to fear runs and this is making it possible for them to put their cash to work.

Credit Expansion Becomes Inevitable

COMPTROLLER O'CONNOR pointed out that it is inevitable that banks must put their funds to work. He stated that two kinds of banks fail. One is the kind that lends no money and hence has no income to meet its expenses. The other is the kind that is not sufficiently careful and lends money which it cannot collect.

No bank can afford to keep its cash idle for any long period of time. Banks must put their money to work or their expenses will eat up resources and they will be unable to stay in business. The Comptroller said that there is no place for the careless or dishonest banker, but careful use of resources must follow the restoration of confidence in banks and this actually is taking place.

Insurance Adds To Bank Deposits

DEPOSIT INSURANCE and the return of confidence have added greatly to bank deposits in all parts of the country. The Comptroller said that this has been particularly noticeable in some of the smaller communities. He cited examples of banks which have increased deposits more than 50 per cent during the past year.

NAZI OFFICIAL BANS BOOK ON WAR EXPLOITS

International News Service.

BERLIN, March 23.—Prussian Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who was Germany's second greatest flying ace in the World War, created a surprise yesterday by placing an official ban on the publication of a series of articles based on his war exploits.

Gen. Goering, in a detailed document enumerating his reasons for banning the series, made it clear that he does not want to glorify his war deeds, despite the fact that the Nazi Party always has made the most of battlefield heroism.

Gen. Goering, who was second only to Baron von Richtofen as a World War ace and who took the famous baron's place as head of the "flying circus" when the latter was killed in action, enumerated his reason for the ban as follows:

Gen. Goering now is the Reich Minister of Air.

JAPAN PLANS SIAM CANAL

International News Service.

LONDON, March 23.—As a reply to Great Britain's big fortification program at its naval base at Singapore, Japan is preparing to finance the digging of a canal across the Isthmus of Kra, in Siamese territory, according to a Singapore dispatch published in the Daily Express yesterday.

The canal would be just south of Victoria Point, in the southernmost part of Burmah. When the next trouble arises in Siam, according to the dispatch, Japanese cruisers would enter Bangkok to protect Japanese interests.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME.

If you have Catarrhal Deafness, or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

THE BEST-DRESSED MEN IN THE "EASTER PARADE" WILL BE WEARING Fintex CLOTHES

If it's new—you'll find it at Fintex—that's grown to be almost a slogan with men who know clothes styles. We proved it again this Spring—when we got Major Tebay, international Style Authority, to design Fintex Suits and Topcoats.

We are frank to tell you that we believe it has never before been so easy for a man to be well dressed, at a modest outlay, as it is today.

Even with the new deal of shorter hours, we've found—with increased production—that we can give men finer styles, handsomer worsteds, better values, for the dollars they invest in Fintex stores.

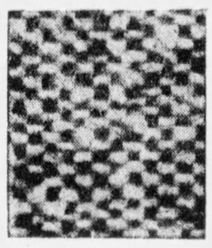
SMART SUITS and TOPCOATS

"FEATURE"-SUIT Wearable 2-button style with peak lapels and medium form-fitting lines, well-liked by younger men. Distinctive worsteds in new dark designs, also solid grays, etc.

"FREE-SWING" A sports type at home in the city! Two-button notch lapel model; with three inverted-plait patch pockets. Free-swing back gives exceptional freedom for arms.



"BEDFORD TOPCOAT"—Here's a 3-button style with welt stitching and belted back. See it in Cricket Cloths, Oxfords, and Plaids.

STANDARD Quality . . . $19.50

STANDARD quality must be good—on it was built the entire Fintex business. It's better than ever now—styling is improved, fabrics are smarter. We've found this Spring that we can put into Standard Suits exceptional materials—full of style and character—such as Shetlands, duo-tone tweeds, and Homespuns. Harris effects give the raglan-shouldered Topcoats a grand air.

DE LUXE Quality . . . $24.50

DE LUXE quality was first made this Spring. It interests the men who know that superior materials, finer tailoring, are worth a few extra dollars. Consider the "merchant tailor" type of worsteds we're offering you—handsome Club and Hound's Tooth Checks, boldly or neatly patterned; Plaids of generous blocks, etched with fine lines that give a monotone effect.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Ferrell Unshaken Holdout. May be Last in Signing. Maranville Catch Copied. | Dead Arms Come Back. Hockey Marks Survive. Ring Boom in Australia.

It is expected that Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland pitcher, will outstay Al Lopez, George Watkins and the rest and become the last of the baseball holdouts of 1934. With both sides remaining firm in this pay fight, the chances appear to be against the early signing of Ferrell. His refusal to report so far is not a new position for the pitcher, as this is the fourth time in his six years with the Indians that a salary dispute with the club owners has kept him from going to camp with the rest of the Cleveland players. But none of his previous holdout gestures had the serious look of the present one.

Wesley Ferrell

In other years there was difference of only $2,000 or $3,000 and it was speedily patched up. This time the financial gap is much wider, and the dispute also involves a matter of principle, on which both sides are standing firm. The club's offer is a bonus proposal, enabling Ferrell to make $12,000 if he wins 20 games and holding his pay to $5,000 if he wins only 10 or less. Ferrell insists on a flat guarantee of $12,000, regardless of how many games he wins, and declares he will remain out of baseball rather than work under a bonus arrangement. With equal emphasis, President Alva Bradley says the club will not change its offer.

RABBIT HAS RIVAL AT BELT-BUCKLE CATCH

Now they're infringing on Rabbit Maranville's most famous patent, the belt-buckle catch so familiar to all major league game-goers, and at which the Rabbit has been the sole specialist since he broke into the big show back in 1912. At last there will be a rival performer in the majors if a certain Detroit recruit makes the grade. He is Herman (The Flea) Clifton.

Clifton has startled the Detroit club's training camp at Lakeland by proving to be the only infielder except Maranville who catches fly balls by forming a basket of his hands against his chest or belt and letting the apple drop into it. Owner Frank J. Navin, after watching him in fielding practice, pronounced Clifton the only ball player he ever saw apart from Maranville who could catch them that way, and added that the youngster would be doing nicely if he didn't muff any more than the Rabbit has muffed. Maranville has dropped only two in his 2,647 major league games, one of the slips having occurred at Forbes Field.

MANY DEAD BASEBALL ARMS RESURRECTED

Though the Detroit club fears the possible permanent loss of a first-string pitcher because the hurling arm of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, which was injured last year, is again out of commission, the history of similar cases in baseball shows a chance for the youngster's recovery. Dr. Cecil Ferguson, former Giant pitcher, who has been treating Rowe in Florida, thinks the trouble can be remedied in time, and such a cure would not be the first by any means. Many dead baseball arms have been resurrected. One of the most notable instances was the case of Pitcher Jack Scott, who came back in 1922 to star for the Giants after being cast adrift as useless by the Reds.

Schoolboy Rowe

In recent years, four great second basemen—Hughey Critz, Charley Gehringer, Tony Lazzeri and Tony Melillo—lost their throwing power, but all are as good today as ever. Outfielder Goose Goslin is another exhibit. Babe Adams, Vic Aldridge, Steve Swetonic and others came back for the Pirates. Bob Brown is being counted on by the Braves this year after a season on the shelf. Many more have returned to service after being considered done on account of ailing arms. Several passed out ahead of their time in earlier days because the average trainer was little more than a rubber. But since club owners became conscious of the shortcomings of the old-style trainers they have brought in skilled men like Dr. C. A. Jorgensen, of the Pirates, and others of his type, with the result that prompt and scientific treatment has saved many an arm condition from becoming serious or hopeless.

ICE RECORDS WITHSTAND ANOTHER SEASON

While the latest National League hockey season was rich in drama and produced numerous noteworthy scoring achievements, the outstanding records of the circuit withstood all assaults. The only mark threatened was that of 179 goals, scored by Boston during the 1929-30 race. Toronto had a chance to equal or beat that but fell short, totaling 174.

With 26 victories for the season, Toronto did not come close to the total of 38 registered by Boston four years ago. Ottawa's 29 defeats did not approach the all-time low of 36, of which Pittsburgh is a joint holder with Philadelphia. Some of the experts think that mark may never be equaled. Chuck Gardiner, of Chicago, greatest goalie of the season, was charged with more than twice as many goals as were made against George Hainsworth when he allowed only 43 in 44 games in 1928-29. Charley Conacher, individual scoring leader, with 52 points, did not threaten Cooney Weiland's record of 73 points, and Red Horner, in the box 146 minutes, was short of Eddie Shore's penalty pinnacle of 165 minutes.

AUSTRALIAN BOXING BOOM OFFERS HOPE

Hope for an early boxing recovery in this country is seen by American promoters in the fact that the game is now enjoying a big boom in Australia, where, until a few months ago, it was in an even worse slump than that experienced in the United States. Charley Lucas, sent here to recruit American talent for the syndicate that took over the Rushcutters Bay arena, where Jack Johnson and Tommy Burns fought for the heavyweight championship in 1908, persuaded a number of American boxers to make the trip, including Dave Shade, Billy Townsend, Wesley Ramey, Tod Morgan, Speedy Dado and Marty Sampson. They have been earning much more money than they could get here, gates of from $10,000 to $15,000 having been frequent in Sydney. International matches have helped to revive interest.

Dave Shade

Partly because of these matches, and partly because Harry Stone, former New York boxer, is operating a gymnasium in Sydney and teaching American methods, Australian fighters are discarding the traditional English stand-up system and adopting the style used in this country. Back in earlier ring days, australia produced some of the greatest fighters of all time in a crop that included Bob Fitzsimmons, Peter Jackson, Young Griffo, Jim Hall, Les Darcy, Joe Goddard, Dan Creedon, Frank Slavin, Billy McCarthy, Steve O'Donnell, Jimmy Ryan, Billy Smith, Billy Murphy, Tom Tracey, Abe Willis and many others.

BILL GILBANE NAMED TITAN GRID COACH

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 23.—Bill Gilbane, Brown University football star during the 1930, 1931 and 1932 seasons, has been appointed head football coach at Westminster College for the coming year, President Robert F. Galbreath announced this morning. Gilbane will succeed John D. Lawther, who has been head coach as well as athletic director and basketball coach.

Gilbane was captain and fullback on Tuss McLaughry's 1932 team at Brown, and played on the all-North team which Dr. John B. Sutherland, of Pitt, took to Baltimore following the 1932 season. His brother, Tom, played center on the team, and also played for Andy Kerr on the all-East team in California.

The athletic council announced that Lawther has been re-elected basketball coach for a three-year term, and that he has been relieved of the football coaching duties at his own request. Lawther has also been appointed head of the department of psychology and education for next year.

SCHOOL CHAMPS RENEW BATTLE FOR TITLE

By JULIUS LEVIN

The eight survivors in the race for the scholastic basketball championship of Pennsylvania, four of them hailing from the East and four from the West, renew their eliminations tonight with places in the semi-finals of the two regional brackets awaiting the winning quintets.

Two of the four contests listed for disposal are of added importance to district followers of the high school floor sport, inasmuch as Western Pennsylvania's two contenders for the crown are participants.

South High School, champion of the City League and District VIII representative in the state playoffs for the second straight year, is in Altoona to meet Huntingdon, champion of District VI. South qualified to play in the second round by crushing Somerset, champion of District V, in the Pitt Stadium Tuesday, 46-16, while Huntingdon defeated Johnstown in a playoff engagement to win the right to represent District VI.

KEN HIGH MEETS ERIE

New Kensington, champion of the W. P. I. A. L. and District VII entry, which drew a bye in the first round, makes its first appearance in the state playoffs by opposing Erie East, champion of District X, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion. While New Kensington has rested since taking Ambridge into camp in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament finale, Erie East already has tasted tournament fire, being extended to the limit to eke out a 26-25 victory over Bradford, champion of District IX, at Warren, Pa., last Tuesday.

The winners in the South-Huntingdon and New Kensington-Erie East games come together next Tuesday for the Western Regional championship and the right to engage the Eastern finalist for the state toga a week from tomorrow.

Both Western Pennsylvania quintets should be in the pink of condition for their important battles tonight. The South High regulars were removed early in the Somerset game after the Orioles had piled up a commanding lead, while New Kensington has been inactive since last Saturday, when it won the W. P. I. A. L. title.

If either South or New Kensington are winners tonight, the Western Regional final next Tuesday will be played in the Pitt Stadium pavilion. However, if Huntingdon and Erie triumph, the game likely will be played at State College, Pa.

SOUTH WELL RESTED

The South passers, unlike last season when they arrived at State College, the scene of their semi-final battle with Altoona the day of the contest, will not be travel worn when Huntingdon is met tonight. The Orioles left early yesterday for Altoona and enjoyed a night's rest before the contest. The South-Huntingdon game gets under way at 7:15 p. m., instead of 8 o'clock.

While the Western quintets are deciding which two of the four

Favorite Wins Grand National 'Chase

GOLDEN MILLER . . . THIS 8-1 TOP CHOICE SCORED FOR FORM PLAYERS AT AINTREE TODAY

For the first time in years a favorite today won the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England. Two hundred and fifty thousand persons looked on as Delaneige and Thomond II, American-owned entries, finished second and third. The winner set a new record for the grind of more than four miles. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

U. S. ENTRIES RUN SECOND AND THIRD

AINTREE, March 23.—(AP.)—Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the favorite, today won the ninety-sixth running of the Grand National steeplechase before a crowd of 250,000.

J. B. Snow's American-owned Delaneige was second, and Thomond owned by John Hay Whitney, of New York, third in the field of 30.

Coming from behind on the last turn around the course, Golden Miller gave the favorite players their first victory in many years. Delaneige and Thomond II also were well backed.

Not only did Golden Miller win this greatest of all jumping prizes, but he established a new record of 9 minutes 20 2-5 seconds. The old record was made last year, 9:27 2-5, by Kellsboro Jack, the American horse owned by Mrs. Ambrose Clark.

Golden Miller paid 8 to 1, Delaneige 100 to 7 and Thomond II, 18 to 1.

The victory had an American tinge as Miss Paget is a cousin of John Hay Whitney and C. V. Whitney. Two of the other American horses, M. D. Blair's Prince Cherry, and F. Ambrose Clark's Sorley Boy, dropped out early in the race. Prince Cherry pulled up, while Sorley Boy fell.

FORBRA RUNS FOURTH

W. Parsonage's Forbra, longshot winner of the 1932 running, was fourth. Other finishers, in the order named, were Uncle Batt, Blue Peter III, Gregalach, Apostasy, Annandale and Remus.

Golden Miller and Delaneige took the final jump, 300 yards from the finish, together, but in the final drive the favorite quickly pulled away as Jockey Wilson applied the batt.

Delaneige was close to the front from the time the small field got away at 3:16 p. m. (10:16 a. m. eastern standard time). At dreaded Becher's Brook on the first time around the course, Southern Hue was setting the pace, but the American horse trailed close behind.

As they reached the grandstand at the half-way mark, Gregalach had taken command, closely followed by Delaneige and Forbra. Delaneige, jumping beautifully, went into the lead at Becher's Brook for the second time, but Golden Miller had moved into third place, back of Forbra.

THOMOND II WEAKENS

Thomond II moved up with the leaders and for a short time set the pace. He weakened, however, in the final test, but easily finished five lengths in front of Forbra.

The crowd cheered madly as Golden Miller pulled away from Delaneige and Thomond II dropped back. He was well in hand as he crossed the finish line.

The small field, in contrast to the record field of 66 in 1929, enhanced the chances of Miss Paget's Standard Bearer. After four horses fell at the first jump, the field quickly settled down to a beautiful contest. There was not

U. S. TEAMS WIN

Two games last night saw the Detroit Red Wings take the lead over Toronto's mighty Maple Leafs in their league championship series with a surprising 2 to 1 overtime victory, and the Chicago Blackhawks lead the Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in the two-game total-goal series between the clubs which finished second in the league's two divisions.

In the International League playoffs, the Detroit Olympics defeated Syracuse, 5 to 1, and London downed Buffalo, 3 to 2.

MAYOR GREETS BIKE STARS

Mayor William N. McNair this afternoon was to greet the riders who have arrived in Pittsburgh for the six-day bicycle race opening in Duquesne Garden at midnight Sunday. A parade from the Garden, through East Liberty and the downtown streets, preceded the reception. Consuls of the various countries represented by the riders were to participate in the ceremony in the Mayor's office.

Mayor McNair has been named honorary starter of the race. Frank L. Kramer, veteran rider, will be the referee; Harry Horan, chief judge; William Kell, chief scorer, and Joe Fogler, track manager. Willie Spencer is manager of the race.

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—The fourth battle of the spring training warfare between the Pirates and Cubs will be staged this afternoon at Wrigley Field. Lefty Grimm's hustlers took a 3-to-2 decision yesterday in the best played game of the series and thus held a 2-to-1 advantage over their Pittsburgh rivals as the two clubs paired off for the fourth game.

Pirate President William E. Benswanger this morning announced the Pittsburgh club had finally disposed of the diamond services of Infielder Howard (Howdy) Groskloss, Pittsburgh lad, who has been the property of the Pirates for several seasons. Howdy was sold outright to the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

Groskloss at present is pursuing his studies at the Yale School of Medicine, but has promised to report to the Oaks as quickly as the school year is over. He played under a Pirate option with several minor league clubs last year and then decided to retire from the sport. Recently, however, he applied for reinstatement and Judge Landis granted his request.

Benswanger said the deal did not have any direct bearing on the recent purchase by the Buccos of Second Baseman Harry Lavagetto, the 19-year-old recruit, now on the Pirate roster.

Arky Vaughan's fifth homer in five days was not enough to swing a Pirate victory yesterday. The two-run four-sacker came in the sixth inning to give his club an advantage over the Bruins, but Grimm's team staged a drive in the seventh at the expense of Waite Hoyt to cop the verdict. Larry French pitcher cleverly for the Buccos in the first five frames.

Bill Harris and Lloyd Johnson will face the Cubs this afternoon.

Chillysauce

About 1,500 fans are attending the clashes of the Pirates and Cubs, but the Bucco fights with the White Sox, slated for tomorrow and Sunday, are expected to lure bigger crowds to the field. The panic is still on, however, so far as cash is concerned.

Arky Vaughan's home run hitting is easily the outstanding development of the Pirates' barnstorming tour. Arky has made five round trippers in the five battles fought since the club left Paso Robles. Vaughan sprinted in the base-circling competition featuring greyhounds of the Pirate, Cub and White Sox lineups yesterday. Evar Swanson, the flying Swede of the White Sox, won the event with a mark of 14.4, but Vaughan and Tut Stainback were close to Swanson. The young Cub was second with 14.5, with Vaughan showing a mark of 14.6.

The Cubs have classy flychasers in Klein, Cuyler, Babe Herman, Stephenson and Stainback, although you would hardly class the Babe as a ball hawk. The former Dodger, none the less, is a constant threat at the plate and he has one are in the hole in that he is liked by his manager, Lefty Grimm.

Gibby's pitchers are rounding into form satisfactorily, but even when they reach the peak they will remain a question at least in the early phase of the race. You can lay odds that French will win consistently, and maybe Red Lucas is on the verge of a banner season, but it is hard to figure Swift, Meine, Kirkofer, Hoyt, Chagnon and Blanton.

Coast League folks sing the praises of Dolf Camilli, who is trying to steal Grimm's first base job. The same fans saw the veteran give his pupil a lesson yesterday as Grimm made a barehand stop of a fiery drive off Grace's bat. He recovered the ball in time for an assist as the pitcher covered the bag. Camilli has to fill Lefty's shoes.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: LARGEST LOAD OF WOOD—During the winter of 1896, William Ewing's teamster went into the woods near Petrolia, Canada, and came out with the largest load of wood ever drawn by a two-horse team. Pulling into Petrolia, after an eight-mile drive, the load attracted the attention of the entire municipality, and, upon measuring the huge pile of fuel, it was found to contain 10-¼ cords—all on a single pair of bob sleds. EVERY MEAL IN A DIFFERENT STATE—For the past seven years, Harry Vaughan of 637 Fourth avenue, Dayton, Ken., has eaten each of his three daily meals in a different state—every working day of the year. Vaughan's occupation is salesman for a baking concern, and in the early morning rush he snatches breakfast in Cincinnati, O., lunch in Lawrenceburg, Ind., and then returns to his home in Kentucky for dinner. And, not satisfied with this daily routine, he sometimes goes over the entire route again during an evening's entertainment. TOMORROW: THE UPSIDE DOWN HOUSE.

HARNESS RACE, FAIR DATES ANNOUNCED

With prominent horsemen and fair officials of the tri-state area in attendance, the County Fair and Campaigning Horsemen's Association met at the Hotel Henry yesterday afternoon. Plans for the coming season were drawn up, dates for fair meetings set and the general business connected with harness racing discussed.

The Allegheny County Fair, again scheduled for South Park, was given the dates from Labor Day to September 6, inclusive. The Ebensburg Fair will be held at the same time, but is far enough away so that it will in no way interfere with the local fair.

Among the out-of-town horsemen in attendance at yesterday's gathering were Walter and Ray Bowser, of Ford City; Joseph M. McGraw and L. L. Munce, of Washington, Pa.; George W. Mitchell, of Butler, and W. F. Keener, of Morgantown, W. Va.

The first of the annual series of fair meetings again was awarded to Ford City, a three-day event being scheduled for August 15, 16 and 17. The fair dates allotted follow:

Ford City, August 15-18; Butler, August 21-24; Ligonier, August 28-30; Allegheny County, September 1-6; Ebensburg, September 1-6; Carmichaels, September 5-7; Waynesburg, September 12-14, and Burgettstown, October 3-4.

Ebensburg also will stage a one-day meeting on July 4 and the September 25, 26 and 27 dates, now open, will be filled at a later date and will be awarded either to Dawson or Indiana.

Dave G. McDonald is president of the organization. The board of directors consists of Dr. J. M. Dunkle, of Butler; Dr. I. B. Reed, of Crafton; J. A. Wilkinson, of Ebensburg; Walter Bowser, Ford City, and F. R. Evans, Ben Avon.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tony Falco vs. Irish Jimmy Brady, 10 rounds; Benny Schwartz vs. Dal Burto, 8 rounds, and Jack Kelly vs. Carmen Vitullo, Gene Gallotto vs. Mark Gladulich and Al Hughes vs. Lou Moretti, 6 rounds each, Philadelphia.

LEAGUE PLANS TO OPERATE

There is a possibility that the Pittsburgh Independent Baseball League will operate again this season. Under the guidance of C. A. Rankin the circuit held a meeting at the Hotel Henry last night and indications were that a six-club circuit eventually will be formed.

Whitaker, represented by Dutch Ackerman; the Alder Club, of Homewood, the former Scott Morgan club, and the Wilkinsburg Millikens sat in on the meeting. A Swissvale club, sponsored by C. L. Ollinger, and a McKeesport club are considering joining the league. It was reported that two McKeesport teams may enter the circuit. Another meeting will be held next week.

BILLY BURKE SCORES 71, LEADS IN AUGUSTA TOURNEY

JONES TRAILS STAR GOLF FIELD

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—(AP.)—Billy Burke put himself in a good position in the Masters' invitation golf tournament today by doing the second round in 35-36—71, which with his opening 72 gave him a 36-hole total of 143, one under par at the half-way mark.

Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., added a 37 to his opening 71 for a total of 108. Denny Shute, the British open champion, reached the turn in 36 and showed a total thus far of 109.

Ed Dudley, the Augusta national pro, regained some lost ground by shooting the first nine in 34, two under par, and had a total of 108.

The weather was cold, with overcast skies, and there were only a few hundred spectators, bundled in coats and furs, awaiting the start of Bobby Jones' second round in company with Paul Runyan. Jones had a 76 yesterday and started his second round in thirty-fifth place.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, finished the first 18 holes of play with a card of 39-40—79.

BOXING FEUD FLARES ANEW

The promised peace in the squabble between the State Athletic Commission and the A. A. U., was badly jolted today when John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association, of the A. A. U., in a statement, charged the commission with a breach of faith in revealing the results of the closed meeting held in Philadelphia on Wednesday and attended by both Taylor and William S. Haddock, president of the A. M. A.

Taylor said peace negotiations were to be conducted quietly between the A. A. U. and the commission, by agreement at the meeting, and that when it was given out to the newspapers that the commission came out of the meeting a winner and in control of the situation and placed the blame for conditions on the doorstep of the Allegheny Mountain Association, it violated this agreement. A meeting will be held tonight at A. A. U. headquarters to determine whether or not the A. A. U. will go through with its A. M. A. senior tournament at the Keystone A. C., early in April.

Replying to Taylor's statement, Dr. W. D. McClelland, local commissioner, said he was amazed by such an outburst in view of the commission's endeavor to cooperate with the A. A. U. to adjust the badly strained relations. He denied Taylor's charge of a breach of faith, saying:

"The commission issued no statement so far as I know. Chairman Harry Farrell referred reporters in Philadelphia to the A. A. U. authorities for a statement. The commission cannot be blamed if there was a great public interest in the outcome of the meeting and the newspapers sought the news on what transpired. The commission has nothing to hide and welcomes a public inspection of the record. If the A. A. U. does not, that is its affair."

He is Russell Criswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Criswell, eldest of seven children and a junior at Penn State College . . . While a student at Avalon High School, young Criswell starred in football and basketball, playing end in the former sport and guard and forward in the latter . . . He knew he was too light to compete in these lines in college, so turned his thoughts to the ring . . . As a freshman he competed in intramural boxing and then reported to Coach Leo Houck of the varsity mitt squad last September . . . His rise has been phenomenal . . . Competing in the title tournament against State were the squads of Army, Harvard, Syracuse, Massachusetts Tech, Pennsylvania and Western Maryland . . . The new champion is in the agricultural school at State . . . He won four prizes and a grand championship in his studies and told his dad he would land further honors . . . PRINTERS WIN PIN TROPHY

Capt. Eli Seddon's Printer No. 1 team gained permanent possession of the Allied Trade Council trophy by winning the championship of its league for the third consecutive year. The champions clinched the title when they won two out of three games from the Printer No. 2 aggregation. The first game, which ended in a tie, was won by the losers on the roll-off. In other matches, the Photo Engravers blanked the Press Drivers No. 2 and Web Press took two from Press Drivers No. 1.

Eli Seddon

Eli Seddon, who won the individual average honors the last two years, is leading again with a 164 mark. C. (Tillie) Shaffer, of the Printer No. 1 team, established a new mark for three games when he rolled a 636 set. He rolled game scores of 186, 201 and 249. Norman Seddon holds the single game mark, 259. The Photo Engravers have high score for one game, 876, and the Printers No. 1 team for three, 2,430.

Lone Eagle, a stablemate of Thomond II, was a factor early in the race, but steadily dropped to the rear and finished far back.

A. G. Wilson, of St. Mary's, Ontario, jockey up on Golden Miller, said:

"Golden Miller gave me a perfect race. I knew we had it won when Golden Miller drew up even with Delaneige just before the final jump. We had too much speed for the American horse in the stretch."

JUMPS TAKE LIGHT TOLL

The treacherous jumps took their lightest toll in years, no rider or horse being injured. The sun failed to break through the clouds, but the vast crowd, said to be one of the largest in the history of the race, was able to follow the running all the way with the aid of glasses.

Immediately after the race, Miss Paget began receiving cables of congratulations from her relatives and friends in America. She is a granddaughter of William C. Whitney, former secretary of the Navy.

A. C. Boutall's Somnus and B. Dollar's Libourg were scratched shortly before the start of the race.

B. Warner's Spring Morning won the opening dash of five furlongs by a neck from Mrs. Ambrose Clark's American-owned On Post. Sir Victor Sassoon's Swoon was third.

The second race, a dash of six furlongs, went to the Aga Khan's Bay Monk with a head decision over S. Henderson's Farmer Giles. Almond Hill was third.

CHAMPS BEATEN IN CATHOLIC TOURNEY

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP.)—Cathedral, of Indianapolis, lost its National Catholic High School basketball championship today, falling before Joliet Catholic, Joliet, Ill., former titleholder, after a hard-fought second round battle, 28 to 24.

The champions made a brilliant rally in the closing minutes of play to come within a goal of tying the score, but Eugene Tezak, of the Hilltoppers, broke up the rush to score a pretty hook shot and clinch the victory just before the gun sounded. Joliet, formerly De La Salle, won the national title in 1927 and '28.

Central Catholic, of Pittsburgh, which won its first round game from Little Rock yesterday, 48-10, was scheduled to meet St. John's, of Milwaukee, today.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XXV.

Someone sang in a frank, joyous soprano:

"Remember, you're king for a day."

Through the purple dusk of a warm December night a deep masculine whistle answered:

"When the moonlight gleams on the girl of my dreams."

The doors of the houses were open. Echoes of music, of laughter, of a light eager rushing to and fro streamed into the old tangled gardens. It was 7 o'clock and the busiest hour in the bright mosaic of the college day.

In one of these big, rambling brown-shingled houses, set in the midst of the Stanford campus, Pippin now lived. Her whole life seemed intensified—the warm young tumult of thirty other lives impinging so intimately on hers.

Kept Boy Waiting

Vivian said:

"But I wasn't ready," Paula smoothed the deep wave over her temples and smiled at Vivian with her large dewey eyes.

"You knew he was coming. I suppose it gives you a sense of importance to keep a big man on the football team cooling his heels in the living room while thirty girls laugh behind his back because he puts up with it."

"He does put up with it," said Paula, dimpling.

"But I'm telling you," said Vivian, "don't do this again. When Husky calls next time, you be ready on the dot or you don't go out with him."

"That's what makes me believe women are the inferior sex. They've no real self-esteem. Forever bolstering themselves up with shabby stunts like this."

"Don't let it get the upper hand—" Pippin offered. "I've a friend who says the only way for a girl to conquer love is to keep the heart where it belongs—well below the head!"

Meets Gregg

"Oh, yeah!" Vivian laughed. "Like you and Gregg! Write a comedy about it. You should. You're a living one. The little old masterpiece of the platonic friends . . . always ends with the fadeout in each other's arms!"

Pippin blushed and tied the scarf of a bright blue dress that was exactly the color of her eyes. She took a little hat, perched it rakishly as was the fashion of that season, on some half dozen glinting hairs, smiled at her image, then at Vivian and Kathleen and walked down the stairs to meet Gregg McClintock. As she'd met him some 50 times since that brief flurried romance on the lake. They were friends—just friends and fellow workers. They were writing a play—a great sensational success. That's what it would be.

"Keep your kisses!" Gregg bluffly agreed when Pippin etched her new philosophy. "Does it occur to you—no, it doesn't—that a fellow might also have reasons for not wanting to get trapped by love?

"It's dangerous to start kissing a girl like you, Pippin. I've got plans. Matrimony isn't included. When I finish here, I pack a knapsack on my back and wander the wide earth through. I'm going to write. I've got to have pictures in my mind, lots of vagabonding through far gypsy trails.

Pippin Indignant

"Think I want to fall for you? Not much! First thing I'd know, the specter of marriage like the hangman's noose would be dangling.

"When you slip your head into the nose of marriage it breaks the neck of your spirit. I'm not going to be done in like that. Now, do you feel safe?"

Pippin not only felt safe but slightly indignant and cheated. Her fervor that moonlight night when Kevin's sweet letter was new in her heart, had a little cooled. After all—he was surely kissing any pretty girl he could.

ays did. What could be
es she liked Gregg; liked

he danced, his intensely blue eyes, his strong white teeth and the fighting concavity of his face. There was nothing handsome about Gregg, but he had youth and a clean eager look. An intensity about him that threw itself with equal excitement into work or play. He stimulated Pippin. He had a young vital magnetism. It drew her more than she guessed.

Tonight she felt happy . . . the young princess from the stars. Three beautiful things happened today. A good letter came from Kevin; a belated birthday present, this tiny, exquisite wrist watch from Bill; and the assurance from the swimming instructor that she might win the championship if she'd keep on with her strenuous practice.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. He says he loves her, but Kevin is first in her thoughts. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Chickie is afraid she will have to tell Pippin of her past. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college.

Now Go On

"You're late!" he snapped.

Pippin glanced toward big shouldered Husky Michaels, slouched in a chair and scowling. She whispered.

"I can use ten minutes as well as you can. Don't do it again."

Work to Do

Pippin took Gregg's arm and turned toward the hills.

He said: "Where do you think you're going?"

"Up the mountains, of course, so you can tell me how beautiful I am and how you've pined for me every moment since Chuesday larst."

Gregg swung her about: "Well, you're going to work. I've got the plot nearly all fitted together. Now you begin to get the dialogue. If you've kept notes as I told you to, you should have a lot of bright patter. We'll put Paula Mead into it. She'll be the gay young necker, and will lend the dash of paprika."

Pippin said, musing:

"Isn't it strange how styles change? Before the war they had to have a college widow to give spice to the campus. Now every other girl can do it."

They entered the library. Gregg got out a stack of modern plays and books on "Dramatic Technique." He outlined his plot. They worked till the closing bell rang.

Exhilarated and pleased with their efforts they walked to the hills above the golf course. They sat under a tree where the moon hung like a silver ball and the valley spread out, quiet and dark. Clouds, touched with pale green iridescence, floated to the bay.

Wants to Travel

It was cold. Gregg put his arm about her with a chummy: "We've got a good plot. We have congenial minds—anyway." Then he told of a letter from a friend in Egypt. This friend had been wandering—free as a lark—for two years. He'd been through China—even on the fierce Gobi desert. He knew Japan like a book. Now he was going down the Nile.

"Don't you want to travel, Pippin? I don't mean to visit swell hotels. I mean troubadour around; get the feel of a land; ride a boat through typhoons as Conrad did. You don't want to settle down to a dull routine?"

"May I take this as a proposal, darling? And you're asking me to jaunt along?"

"Oh, I see . . . You want me to skip along as your little companion?"

"Pretty chilly up here. Time for platonic friends to part. You're my style. You still are. It's worth thinking about."

"You tempted me, Pippin."

"I know. The woman always does. They made Eve like that."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

"They" are actually wearing demountable eyelashes. It isn't just talk. If you're going to try it, pretty one, let us caution you to be careful when removing them, whether they be hairs in singles or fuzzers in strings or fringes. Home-grown lashes haven't much of a toehold, rough treatment pulls them out. What you have you want to keep. Yes?

The florid brunette with high coloring that has become a permanent fixture must choose frocks, hats and coats with the wary eye. Blue-grays are flattering, they tone down permanent blushes. Taupe is favorable, too, and black won't do a bit of harm. Red she must avoid, even deep wine shades will clash with her complexion. She is one of the few types that can wear green.

FRENCH INDIAN WAR—DIESKAU SHOT

In the French Indian War (1754-1760) Braddock's defeat near Fort Duquesne (today's Pittsburgh) was followed by other disappointments for the British. Gov. Shirley of Mass., succeeding Braddock in command, had to abandon his expedition against Fort Niagara and Fort Frontenac on Lake Ontario for lack of reinforcements and supplies.

Only Col. William Johnson had some success capturing in bloody battle near Fort Edward on Lake George, Baron Dieskau, the valiant commander of the French forces at Crown Point on Lake Champlain.

In 1756-57 the British could not make any headway due to the advantageous strategic position of the French and incompetency of British command. (U. S. History)

DEMOSTHENES OUTSHOUTING ROARING SEA

Sickly and stammering, Demosthenes—by labor and perseverance almost without parallel—became the greatest orator of antiquity. Through hard study, exercise, declaiming in storm with a pebble under his tongue, he overcame ignorance, physical weakness to serve relentlessly the cause of public liberty. Strong will for noble achievements surmounts all handicaps. (Character Build.)

EARLY ROMANS—SIMPLE LIVING, HARD WORKING—BUILT GREAT EMPIRE

History could not penetrate the fog veiling the early development of Rome. The legend of Romulus and Remus narrates its foundation near Alba-Longa on the Albanus Lake, 753 B. C. Early Romans were chiefly an agricultural people, simple living, vigorous and strong. The family formed the unit of their society. The state was an enlarged family. Ancestors, besides gods connected with their daily life as farmers, shepherds, warriors, were worshiped, each home maintaining a place of veneration. Iron willed and believing in ruling their neighbors, they developed Rome into the most powerful empire of the Ancient World. Roman History distinguishes regal, republican periods and that of the empire. (World History)

The root of a plant—the organ of absorption and attachment—develops from the growing point of the shoot downward, away from light, toward moisture. Above: Examples of different roots.

Tap root, a primary chief root persisting throughout life of plant (dandelion); fibrous roots, a secondary complex structure replacing the primary (grass); fleshy root, a storage of food in the root (dahlia); aerial or adventitious roots, those, which rise from plant above ground; latters may develop chlorophyll and perform functions of leaves.

BOHR'S DYNAMIC ATOM

Niels Bohr, Danish physicist, developed an electronic theory of matter (1913) picturing the atom as a miniature solar system, where the sun is the nucleus containing all the protons (positive electric particles) and part of the electrons (negative electric particles) while the planets are the remaining (satellite) electrons revolving around the nucleus in different surfaces, shells.

Atoms of different elements contain different numbers of protons and electrons, simplest is the hydrogen (1 proton, 1 electron); most complicated is uranium (one isotope has 238 prot 238 electr.). Protons and electrons are equal in number giving the neutral atom. The difference between the numbers of protons and electrons in the nucleus, the positive nuclear charge, is called the atomic number of the element. This positive charge keeps the satellite electrons within the atom. The atomic number is 1 for hydrogen, 92 for uranium. (Chemis.)

They seem to be building cars now so they will run over each other.

That streamline effect should lessen the shock of collision. If they can only get knee-action in the back axle the flivvers can play leap frog in traffic.

The other day we instructed pedestrians how to live to a ripe old age of fear and dodging. Never cross a bridge until you come to it. And never cross anything but bridges.

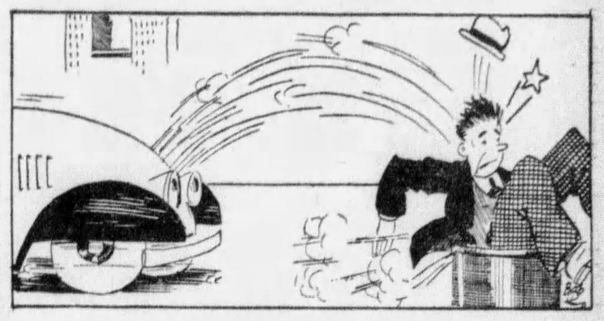
The driver has nothing to fear. He is hermetically sealed in a car that looks like an Army tank. Next year the automotive engineers will put in turrets for machine guns.

What we would like to see is the engineers reading the state laws before they put in the engine. If the laws limit you to 30 miles per hour why do the designers build them to go 80?



And why do they build them so funny looking? The other day we dropped a nickel through the windshield of a parked car. We thought it was a slot machine.

Those twin windshield wipers also get monotonous. They remind us of the Dolly sisters doing a 1907 dance. Anyway, we're glad to see they are taking those birds, dogs and arrows off the radiator caps. It's bad enough to be struck by a hood without also getting pecked and bitten.

Outside of that, we like the 1934 models pretty good. You don't see much of the scenery. They should have a trap door in the roof so a man can poke his head out and flirt.

Maybe we will design our own car next year. Look for the 1935 Bugs with baggy knee-action and crown ears. It will be a big season. Even the traffic lights will be looking at the world through rose-colored glasses.

We started this harangue with the intention of giving drivers some good advice on touring. But we will leave it to their own judgment. Mother knows best.

U. S. Should Start Nation-Wide Program for Development of Waterways

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is expected soon to re-submit to the Senate the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty which failed of ratification by a few meager votes.

Nobody knows better than he that this country's greatest natural resource is in its waterways, existing and potential.

These waterways, which in common sense ought to be developed to the fullest possible extent, are not local or sectional possessions, but are all a part of our national heritage.

Every region of the country will benefit from comprehensive and thorough utilization of these great arteries of commerce and inexhaustible sources of hydro-electric power.

Obviously, therefore, it would be an act of the most progressive statesmanship for the President to initiate immediately a series of co-ordinated national projects FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE COUNTRY AS A WHOLE.

And in such a plan, utilization of the St. Lawrence waterway between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic, important as it is, would be but one link in a mighty chain of nation-wide undertakings.

* * *

ACTUALLY, the President has long cherished such a vision.

It was evidenced in his remarkable Tennessee Valley plan—a plan which not only includes and reclaims the Muscle Shoals, but which forms an inseparable and invaluable portion of the whole Mississippi Valley project.

[illegible] has been evidenced in the President's sin[illegible] efforts for the St. Lawrence Treaty with [illegible].

It has been evidenced in minor projects on the Columbia River and on the Colorado River, where the Roosevelt Administration has encouraged and assisted flood control, irrigation and power construction.

Now, the one thing remaining is for the President to put all these pending and impending ideas together, and to present to Congress and the country a UNIFIED PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM for the development and utilization of our waterways resources which will extend from coast to coast and from the borders of Canada to the Gulf [illegible]o.

* * *

The St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty.

Improvement of the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

Improvement of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers in California.

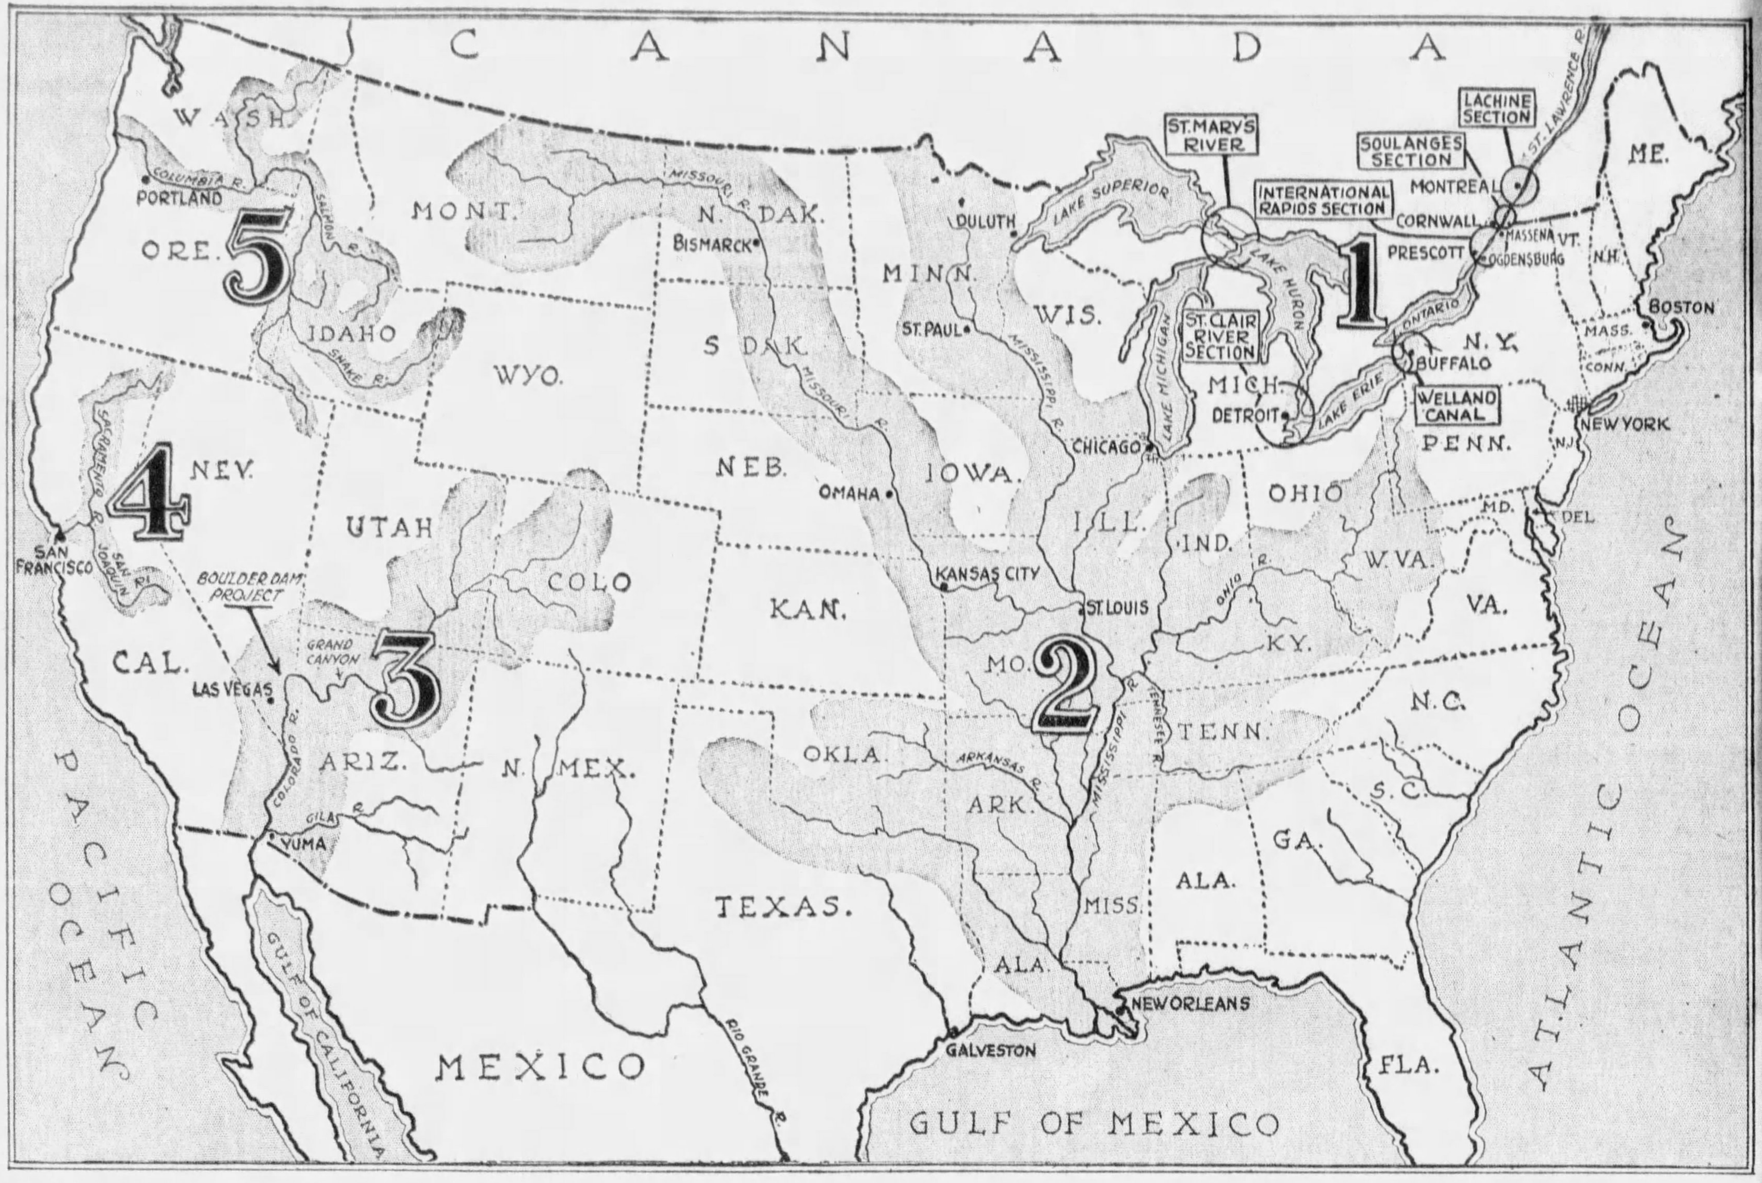
Suitable projects on the Columbia River in the Northwest.

* * *

IT WAS Washington himself who first proclaimed the potentialities to the nation of the improvement and development of its waterways.

"I could not help taking," said he, "a more extensive view of the vast inland navigation possibilities of the United States, and could not but be struck with the immense extent and importance of it and with the goodness of that Providence which has dealt its forces to us in so profuse a hand."

Lincoln's first political speech was a plea for the development of our waterways.



On this map are listed five of the nationalized waterways projects which the federal government ought to carry out at once as a unified public works program. The five areas shown are:

1—The St. Lawrence waterway, which will create new power sources and give ocean going vessels direct access to the Great Lakes ports, adding hundreds of miles to the American coastline.

2—The Mississippi Valley development, completion of which is necessary for flood control and for the improvement of Middle West commerce.

3—The Colorado River project, which will develop the southwest by furnishing limitless hydro-electric power, and will increase the fertility and security of the Imperial Valley, on which the whole country depends for fresh winter food supplies.

Combined with these five projects would go the completion of an inland canal system, and construction of littoral waterways radiating from important ocean ports, so that every part of the United States would be modernized and benefitted economically by this great program.

Much progress had been made, but never have we addressed our thought and energies to this great national duty upon an adequate scale and with a unified and comprehensive plan to guide us.

As a general and broad policy every part of our waterways which will show economic justification should be developed in aid of our farmers and industries.

* * *

THE Mississippi system, which comprises over nine thousand miles of navigable streams, is only developed to the extent of 2,200 miles, with a channel depth of nine feet. Fourteen hundred additional miles have been to a less extent developed and insufficiently deepened.

There remain in the Mississippi system alone 5,000 miles of water which can be made navigable and useful to modern commerce.

When this system is completed we shall have a great north and south trunk waterway reaching from the Gulf to the northern boundaries of the country, and a great east and west route half way across the United States.

At the present time we have made only limited progress in the completion of intra-coastal canals. Extensions of this means of communication to the extent of nearly a thousand miles are possible.

* * *

MUCH work has been done upon the Ohio River, but much more remains to be done. The progress that has been made can be gauged by comparing the 500-ton cargoes of the early romantic days of the light-draft steamboat with the cargoes of 10,000 tons which today move easily through the deepened channels of the Ohio River.

This progress has been brought about by dams and locks, by dredging and embankments which have transformed the Ohio from a stream of shallows into a canalized waterway of assured and constant depth that make the passage of boats of heavy capacity easy and rapid.

Such a comprehensive plan includes also the development of our harbors and the littoral waterways which extend inland from them.

With such a broad, all-inclusive program of waterway development, the country will be quick to perceive the importance of the improvement of the St. Lawrence route from the Great Lakes to the sea. Instead of viewing it as a sectional project, they will see its relation to the great national design which embraces ALL our waterways.

* * *

PRESIDENT HOOVER had a vision of this great program and estimated that to carry it out would require only an annual expenditure of twenty million dollars, for a period not to exceed ten years, in addition to the eighty-five millions which the government was then spending annually on new construction and maintenance of waterways.

In these days, when our ideas of expenditure on public works are so enlarged, there ought to be no hesitation in directing a proportion of the government's vast outlays into this undeniably useful and permanent work.

Our people are becoming alarmed at the amount of wasted and useless expenditure by the government's various spending agencies. It will allay their fears to see expenditure directed into the furtherance of so advantageous an objective as the complete development of inland water communication throughout the country.

It will bring about immeasurable gains and benefits in which our entire population will share.

[illegible]y Words From Grundy

[illegible]lvanians Are Given Something to Think About By the Former Senator.

Ex-Senator Joseph R. Grundy gives Pennsylvanians food for thought in an address which he recently delivered before the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, of which he is chairman of the executive committee.

There is much in the address, which is being circulated in printed form by the association, that will cause sharp disagreement; but most Pennsylvanians, we think, will concur in Mr. Grundy's view that the administration at Washington has not dealt fairly with this state in the distribution of federal funds for public works and relief purposes.

Pennsylvania, he points out, pays in normal times about 10 per cent of the federal taxes; accordingly the anticipated federal deficit of ten billions of dollars is equivalent to a mortgage of a billion dollars on this commonwealth's industries and productive enterprises. But the millions of government expenditures for which Pennsylvanians are to pay are going mostly to the small-taxpaying states of the South and Middle West, according to Mr. Grundy. We know, at any rate, that Allegheny County, with greater population than any of a dozen states, has received next to nothing from the Public Works Administration.

In May we are to nominate, and in November elect, a Senator and Representatives in Congress. The voters may well ask themselves which of the candidates have been or are likely to be active in trying to get Pennsylvania fair treatment from Washington.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 23.—Thoughts while strolling: Nobody's white shirts look so freshly clean as Billy Gaxton's. They follow Frank Buck around on the streets in this celebrity-mad village.

One word description of Constance Bennett—pouty. Guy Lombardo and Joe Laurie, Jr., look alike. Mrs. Arnold Rothstein is white haired. That grand actor, Walter Huston, seems at home on the Rialto after his long stay in the movies. And the Al Jolsons are settling down at Scarsdale. They all come back!

How odd the familiar word when you look at it too long! Missing — the flat-chested lady who sold the Birth Control Review in Times Square. Wonder if they'd know me if I dropped into my office in the Times Building? George M. Cohan's high-heeled shoes. Ben Ali Haggin's brother Louis.

Those noonday bolters of the three-decker sandwich and the malted chocolates. They simply can't laugh off Rudy Vallee. He's still away out front of the radio pack. What's become of Ray Goetz? I feel effeminate around those English ladies they address as "The Honorable."

One of my favorite people—Winthrop Ames. Nobody believes it, but I do know a John Doe. George Bye and Octavus Roy Cohen. This is one of those days when I feel like bounding into an auction and bidding wildly. Or socking a fang into a slab of limburger. Spring, I suppose.

Will H. Hays is known for his even temper. Nothing ruffles him. But there was a time at an Indiana political convention when he waited long and patiently for a gentleman to remove his hat and coat from a seat he was to occupy. The gentleman ignored him and kept talking to a companion. Finally Hays, in a pet, picked up the hat and coat and slammed them into his lap. "O, Will," said the man to whom the offender had been talking, "I want you to meet Battling Nelson!"

The venerable Whitelaw Reid mansion on Madison avenue in the 50's sustains the final midtown note of brownstone grandeur, the unforgotten cadence and charm of an older New York. Occupying a block frontage, it spreads 52 high-ceiled rooms around a huge outside court with fountain and seventeenth century gate lamps. Next to the Wendell house, it is perhaps the gloomiest structure in Manhattan, yet it luxuriates a sense of ease, an emotional nexus with a comfort in living the metropolis will likely never know again. An echo from Chaucer!

* * *

Not so many mornings ago I watched the only person I ever saw leave the Reid mansion, swing out into pavement traffic. He seemed abreast of life, one of those gallant riders of the moment, with yellow gloves, a boutonniere and neat walking stick. He might have been turned out by Michael Arlen for one of those jauntily light adventures along Curzon street. I walked behind several blocks until he darted into a subway kiosk. And it struck me he didn't live in the Reid mansion at all. Perhaps a book agent or an interior decorator.

I wonder if otl[illegible] theater goers miss Willie Collier? He was the deftest of the light comedians, exploiting an off-hand casualness that never strained for laughs. Although he garnered them in sudden blurts, Collier was brought up in a theatrical atmosphere, his father being an old-time Shakesperian actor. Collier deserted New York for Hollywood some years ago and his desertion is complete. He never comes back.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

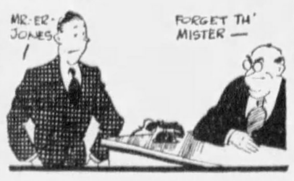
By Helen Rowland

First Names

Emily Post, the famous authority on manners and social forms, is highly shocked (according to Walter Winchell's column) at the fact that a secretary should speak of her boss by his first name.

* * *

Being "shocked" must be a thrilling sensation! It has been so many years since we forgot how to be shocked or what to be shocked at!



But, as to this matter of calling people by their first names, modes have changed since wives proudly "Mistered" their husbands and the business girl "Mistered" everybody around the office.

* * *

Of course, there are matters of discretion, ethics and common sense to be considered in these things. No business girl with two working brain cells and a half-portion of common sense, would address her employer or her superior as "Jim" or "Bill" on formal occasions, when it would put him to the blush. One of the first requirements of a business office is to consider your employer's dignity.

* * *

Still, it is not unflattering to a man to have all his employes think of him or speak of him by his first name or by his initials, even when they wouldn't call him "Eddie" or "Fred" to his face.

* * *

It means that those who are working in his office are working FOR him and WITH him. It means that they are not gritting their teeth and grumbling at him under their breath. It implies a trust and a friendly affection on the part of his staff, which is positively invaluable and essential.

* * *

It must be rather terrible to a man at the head of a big enterprise to be "Mistered" all his life. It may mean only that he is old-fashioned or a shy lonely soul; but it sometimes means that he is a feared and hated soul and that the only thing his employees are working for is the pay envelope.

* * *

Almost a decade ago, it came into fashion for people to call each other by their first names ten or twenty minutes after the introduction. You even introduce them that way. You say "Jimmie Carter I want you to know Betty Smith." And, in half an hour, they are "old pals."

* * *

Personally, I'm all FOR this informal, first-name stuff. Because it's your FIRST name, not your family name that somehow characterizes you and expresses you.

Why, then, shouldn't the "Boss" like to be called "Jim" or "Joe" or "Al" or "Bill?" He DOES—mostly! It may sound undignified, but it's meant to be friendly. It's the SPIRIT OF THE AGE!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

You Can't Cure Yourself by Watching Yourself

You know you ought to do a job on yourself.

No matter how much you may blame other people for your various misfortunes, you know that there are things in yourself, weak things, twisted things, which put you on the spot.

Year after year, you've picked yourself to pieces . . . analyzed each fault . . . gone through bitter hours of regret . . . through bright hours of fresh resolve . . . only to end in deeper discouragement. For, in spite of all your struggle, the same old faults hang on, don't they?

Whatever the fault, there it still is! Yet surely you've done enough to remove it?

No you haven't, my dear. In spite of all this ruthless concentration on yourself, in spite of your real remorse, your honest desire for progress, you've actually done nothing at all to change yourself! To the contrary, you're as badly off as when you started and, as long as you continue your present tactics, you'll get worse—fast!

There's a book called—"Some Principles and Practices of the Spiritual Life" by B. W. Maturin. And in that book you'll find the answer to what ails you. Listen!

"NO ONE WILL EVER DEVELOP HIS BEST SELF BY ALWAYS WATCHING HIMSELF."

Simple words—but think them over. You say you want to change yourself—you know you need that change. So you've been watching yourself—and getting exactly nowhere. But what did you expect?

Suppose you had a hole in your house wall? Could you cure it by "watching?" Of course you couldn't. You might make the most skillful measurements and estimates of that hole—hire clever draughtsmen to draw diagrams of it—pay building experts to give you opinions concerning it. You might even get all steamed up emotionally over that hole—weep about it, swear at it.

But, after your explosion was over, the hole would still be a hole. It wouldn't have diminished by one millionth of an inch. If you honestly desired to eliminate that hole, you'd have to bring in new material to fill it—wood, brick, stone or stucco.

A homely simile, but it touches the deepest spiritual truth. If you want to cure a hole in your life—any hole, from petty habit to deadly vice—you can't cure it by "watching," or wishing, or wallowing in regret or good resolutions. You'll just have to get busy and bring new materials into your life—

Substantial new materials. Real life stuff. New interests. New occupations. New friends. New ideas. New risks. Rough stuff, all of it.

BUT IF YOU REALLY WANT TO CHANGE YOURSELF AND YOUR LIFE—THAT'S THE ONLY WAY TO DO IT!

And how does that apply to you, Mary, working in your lonely kitchen, doing the monotonous jobs you loathe? Or to you, Jane, tapping the same old tiresome keys in some office? Or to you, Bill, humped idle and hopeless on some park bench? You have holes in your lives—and you know it.

But what can you do except "watch" them? What chance have you to bring in "new materials"?

AS MUCH CHANCE AS ANY SOLDIER OF FORTUNE—ANY CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY —ANY PRIMA DONNA OR BIG SHOT!

So, if you want to cure what ails you, stop wondering and wishing and watching. For these things mend no holes. Instead, turn your eyes from yourself. Snap out of your trance. Look out—reach out—toward Life! There are your makings!
